West Grants Some Police Powers in German Rule

Governors' Letter Defining Central Authority Extent Reported Signed

Reds Tighten Blockade

RUSSIANS tighten Berlin blockade by taking control of German telephone lines from western sectors to Soviet zone. Action will cut western revenues seven million a year. Story on page 4.

Parley Gains Seen

Frankfurt, Germany, April 14 (AP).—American sources tonight said the United States, British and French military governors have granted limited central police powers to the projected western German government.

The military governors, the informants explained, have signed a letter defining the police powers of the new regime.

According to unofficial accounts, the central police force will be weak, serving only as a clearing point for police operations throughout the American, British and French occupation zones. Most police powers will be exercised by the 11 provinces of the future western German state, it was said.

Stalemate at Bonn

Differences between the Western Allies and Germans concerning the powers to be granted the new central government have stalemated drafting a German constitution at Bonn.

German leaders from the parliamentary council at Bonn and the military governors held a three-hour conference today. Prospects for an agreement appear to have brightened somewhat. The United States military governor, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, said the "situation is one of considerable political delicacy."

The military governors will meet again April 25 with the delegation from the Bonn council, the body that has been drafting a constitution for the new state.

Dr. Konrad Adenauer, president of the Bonn council, said today's discussions "showed a spirit of international cooperation."

Acceptance Indicated

Clay indicated the Germans had accepted the occupation statute—the interim peace treaty given western Germany by the United States, Britain and France. He said:

"We had a really long, friendly and cooperative discussion on the occupation statute. They (the Germans) expressed satisfaction with the discussions. On the whole they were satisfied and expressed satisfaction on the statute."

In Hannover, Dr. Kurt Schumacher, head of the Social Democratic Party, sharply criticized the Western powers' dismantling program.

Schumacher said the Western powers' ban on synthetic gasoline and oil production would force Germany to live on foreign credits.

Yesterday the Western allies decided to spare 159 western German factories, in whole or in part, from dismantling.

But German newspapers said the sparing of those factories was "not enough." The newspapers declared the Western allies will continue to tear down German factories because they fear competition for world markets.

Action of House In Pay Crisis Too Late for Easter

The House acted late yesterday to avert payless paydays for hundreds of Federal employes in Washington and elsewhere, but the Senate delayed its response until Monday.

The House move, however, came too late to avert the payless Easter weekend now facing some 400 Washington employes and 3600 other employes of the Office of the Housing Expediter. Officials announced an emergency fund is being set up to lend needy employes a maximum of $10 each. Payday was to have been today.

House action in the pay crisis came with passage of an emergency resolution to make money available for agencies whose funds are being considered in the first deficiency bill, deadlocked yesterday in a joint conference, and now subject to delay until after the House returns from its vacation, April 25.

The resolution would make available to the agencies money to spend at the rate indicated by the lowest deficiency bill figure so far approved by either house.

House to Get Toned-Down Labor Bill

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Republicans and anti-Fair Deal Democrats of the House got behind a new version of the Wood bill yesterday in a strategic move to balk repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The new model Wood bill is a considerably toned-down version of the original, which had been denounced by labor organizations as "worse than Taft-Hartley." The new version, according to its Republican and Southern Democrat backers, is in many respects milder and less restrictive than the Taft-Hartley Act.

The anti-Administration bloc is expected to offer the Wood bill with the new look as a substitute for the Truman-sponsored, labor-supported Lesinski bill, which would repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and revive the Wagner Act with "improvements" suggested by the President.

The labor legislation is scheduled for debate and action in the House the week of April 25. A successful move to substitute the Wood bill, together with a favorable House vote, would kill off the Lesinski bill before it ever came to a floor test.

The new style Wood bill was drafted by several Republicans and Dixiecrat members of the House Labor Committee, and has the official blessing of the Republican leadership. By eliminating certain features of the original Wood bill and adding several amendments, its sponsors believe they will attract enough votes to assure defeat of the Administration on this issue.

Fair Dealers, however, saw in the modification of the original Wood bill a confession of weakness on the part of the anti-Administra-

Race for D. C. Commissioner Is Wide Open

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

The race for District Commissioner is wide open and a search is under way for a highly qualified candidate.

Commissioner John Russell Young, a Republican, whose term expires May 17, will not be reappointed if the right man can be found for the job. The stock of the "official" Democratic candidate, Thomas P. Morgan, jr., has been falling fast in recent days and his chances now are considered slight.

These views were expressed to The Washington Post by officials in Democratic circles in a position to know.

The man being sought need not be a Democrat, The Post was told. It may turn out that the man who gets the job is not an active party man because those who are making the search for a candidate may find the proper man is in every sense a voteless Washingtonian without political affiliations.

The successful candidate could be a political independent. A number of independents have been named commissioner in the past.

Above all, The Post was told, the chief consideration is to find a highly qualified candidate able to handle the difficult job of being one of the city's three top officials.

Backers of both Young and Morgan have been increasingly active in recent days in rounding up supporters to let the White House know about their candidate.

But those in a position to know declare the stream of personal indorsements is being looked on with a jaundiced eye. The question remains: Is the candidate really qualified to do a good job for the people of the National Capital?

That is why the race is considered wide open today.

Pepco Reveals New 17-Million Finance Plan

By S. Oliver Goodman
Post Reporter

Potomac Electric Power Co. yesterday asked the District Public Utilities Commission for permission to issue 10 million dollars in first mortgage bonds and an additional 592,250 shares of common stock.

Alfred G. Neal, Pepco president, told the PUC that proceeds are earmarked to finance in part the 1949 construction requirements of the utility and its Maryland subsidiary.

The bond issue, to mature in 1984, will be sold at competitive bidding. The new stock will be offered to present shareholders on a 'rights' basis, entitling them to subscribe for one new share for each five shares held. Record date is expected to be on or about May 10.

A group headed by Dillon, Read & Co. of New York and including nine Washington investment firms has agreed to underwrite the stock issue. Subscription price of the new stock will be determined later.

Proceeds of the bond and stock issue are expected to approximate 17 million dollars.

Registration statements also have been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Obscene Language Complaint by Deaf Woman Dismissed

New Orleans, April 14 (AP).—A deaf and mute tenant who charged her landlord with using obscene language lost her case today.

Said City Judge Harold Moore, after hearing testimony:

"Well, if she can't hear and can't read lips, I don't see how she knew he was using obscene language."

The landlord denied the charge and the case was dismissed.

Authors of Heresy Charge

4 Fired Catholic Educators Forecast Vatican 'Thunder'

Newton, Mass., April 14 (AP).—Four lay Catholic educators who claimed they had been dismissed because they accused Boston College of teaching heresy, today said they had appealed to Pope Pius XII and had received "most cordial and paternal encouragement from the Vatican."

They predicted that "the world is going to hear some thunder from the chair of Peter very soon to destroy the heresy of liberalism the way Pope Pius X destroyed the heresy of modernism."

The four men said the Vatican had advised them that "this doctrinal issue has at the command of His Holiness already been placed before the Supreme Congregation of the Holy Office for consideration and attention."

They also quoted the Vatican as saying that "His Holiness has pleasure in assuring the signators that His Holiness appreciates the Catholic sentiments which prompted their gesture and cordially imparts to them his paternal, apostolic blessing."

The Very Rev. William L. Keleher, S. J., president of the college, said in a statement they spoke on matters contrary to the teachings of the Catholic Church.

The educators said they were discharged after they declined to withdraw statements made in a letter to the Provincial of the Jesuit Order in New England that:

"At Boston College are taught, both implicitly and explicitly,

"(1) That there may be salvation outside the Catholic Church;

"(2) That a man may be saved without admitting the Roman Catholic Church to be supreme among all churches;

"(3) That a man may be saved without submission to the Pope."

The educators are:

Fakhri Maluf, assistant professor of philosophy; James R. Walsh, instructor of philosophy; Charles Ewaskie, assistant professor of physics, and David D. Supple, teacher of German at the high school.

Father Keleher issued the following statement this morning

Sofia Reveals Retirement Of Dimitrov

London, April 14 (U.P.).—Bulgarian Premier Georgi Dimitrov retired from office today both as head of government and of the Bulgarian Communist Party.

An official announcement in Sofia said Dimitrov had been granted "home leave" for medical treatment in the Soviet Union. It followed by only 10 days the ouster of Traicho Kostov as vice premier and head of the powerful economic and financial committee.

It also came on top of recent reports from Yugoslavia, that the Bulgarian Communists had carried out a wholesale purge.

Close to Stalin

[The Associated Press dispatch from Sofia reported that Premier Dimitrov has been granted leave because of illness and is now in the Soviet Union for medical treatment The AP said that European diplomats felt speculation that Dimitrov had been purged was unsound because Dimitrov is a close friend of Marshal Stalin and is reputed to be the most influential Communist outside of Russia.]

The Sofia communique was issued jointly by the central committee of the Bulgarian Communist Party and the ministerial council. It did not amplify the phrase, "home leave."

But Balkan observers emphasized that Dimitrov was an ailing man, his health wrecked by years in prison for his Communist activities. The term "home leave" is understandable because Dimitrov is a Soviet citizen and lived in Russia for more than a decade.

Another official communique announced that Kostov had been appointed director of the Bulgarian National Library. His removal from the vice premiership had been announced officially. Yugoslav reports said he had been arrested.

There was some speculation that Dimitrov had fallen from grace as had Marshal Tito.

Old Friend of Tito

Premier Tito of Yugoslav and Dimitrov were friends before Tito's expulsion from the Cominform.

Until Tito's fall from grace with the Kremlin, he and Dimitrov were leading exponents of a Balkan or eastern European federation. Before the war ended, Tito-Dimitrov negotiations on a federation were started, but failed when Moscow said "no."

Dimitrov tried again after the war to revive the federation project. Russia again said "no."

In August, 1947, Tito and Dimitrov signed a secret agreement at Bled, Yugoslavia, which provided for settlement of territorial disputes and creation of an autonomous Macedonia within a Balkan federation.

Again the Kremlin said "no."

On January 17, 1948, Dimitrov made his last try. He told a press conference in Bucharest, at the signing of a Bulgarian-Romanian treaty, that an eastern European federation was premature but it would come "when the time was right."

Served on Supreme Soviet

The sudden announcement apparently paved the way for the provisional succession of Moscow-trained Vassily Kolarov as acting premier. Kolarov is currently deputy premier and foreign minister.

Dimitrov was arrested with two other Bulgarians in Germany at the time of the Reichstag fire. He was acquitted at the Leipzig trial after boldly rebuffing in open court the then all-powerful Hermann Goering. His belligerency in court has since become a classic example within the Communist Party of how a Communist should act before a hostile court.

He went to Russia after the trial, and with his energy and revolutionary background had a meteoric rise for a foreigner within the Russian Communist Party.

He served as a member of the Pilots Stay Aloft 727 Hours On Coast, Refueling From Jeep

Fullerton, Calif., April 14 (AP).—Bill Barris, 36, and Dick Reidel, 35, set a new endurance flight record today as they hit the 727-hour mark at 6:44 p. m. (PST), 9:44 p. m. (EST).

The record was made October 29, 1939, by Wes Carroll and Clyde Schlieper of Long Beach, Calif.

Reidel and Barris had to fly an additional hour to set an official new endurance flight record.

"Boy, this is a great day," the jubilant Reidel said as the team cruised over the Fullerton Airport toward a goal of 1000 hours.

"And it's the longest endurance record, all right," chimed in Barris. "Why, it seems like we've been up here since we were small boys."

Congratulations were yelled up to Barris and Reidel by Carroll and Schlieper from a jeep that sped along under the plane, the "Sunkist Lady,' 'a four-place Aeronca with a single engine.

Carroll, now a captain with American Airlines, and Schlieper, Long Beach flier, shook hands from the jeep with the men who passed their 10-year-old mark. Two thousand spectators watched.

The flight, sponsored by the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, has cost about $10,000 to date. The businessmen of this city of 18,000 chipped in to defray the cost.

Reidel and Barris left March 15 on a nonstop flight to Miami, Fla., and got back last week.

Refueling is accomplished by contact with jeeps, from which are hoisted small containers. Food and water are provided the same way.

Last December ice on the carburetor grounded Reidel and Barris after 568 hours and 47 minutes.

China Aid Plan Of $1.5 Billion Hit by Acheson

Senator's Idea Would Bring 'Catastrophe,' Secretary Declares

A Senator's proposal to give Nationalist China $1,500,000,000 in military and economic aid was flatly opposed yesterday by Secretary of State Acheson. He said that if this country undertook a program of such magnitude the outcome would be "catastrophic."

His opposition apparently ended once and for all Nationalist China's hopes of getting large-scale American help in its losing battle against Communist forces.

Views in a Letter

Acheson outlined his views in a letter dated March 15 to Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in answer to a request for comment on a China-aid bill introduced by Senator McCarran (D., Nev.).

The Secretary pointed out that despite the fact that China has got "over two billion dollars" in United States aid since VJ-Day the military situation there has crumbled to the "point where the Chinese Communists hold almost all the important areas of China from Manchuria to the Yangtze River." He said further that the Red forces are capable of "eventually dominating South China" as well.

"There is no evidence," Acheson said, "that the furnishing of additional military material would alter the pattern of current developments in China."

How It Was Earmarked

Under the $1,500,000,000 measure McCarran proposed earlier in the year, 700 million dollars would be earmarked for military purposes, 300 million dollars for civilian relief and recovery, and 500 million dollars to be used as a stabilization fund to bolster the Chinese currency.

In exchange for this aid, McCarran suggested that China accept United States military direction of its armed forces, and pledge the tax revenues of its major ports as collateral for the American loan.

Acheson remarked that these stipulations would be "deeply resented by the Chinese people as an extreme infringement of China's sovereignty," and would arouse "distrust" of this country's motives in extending such help.

If this country were to furnish

Parley Reports Step Toward Peace in China

Negotiations Continue With Difficulties on Details Seen Looming

Nanking, China, (Friday), April 15 (U.P.).—The government has reached a "preliminary understanding" with the Communists on settlement of the civil war, a high official source said today.

The official said members of the Nationalist delegation to the Communist capital of Peiping would return later today with an outline of the projected settlement.

He said he understood the agreement included principles for fulfilling Communist leader Mao-Tze-tung's eight peace terms—which amounted to a demand for unconditional surrender.

He said technical details were now being discussed and warned that details are usually harder to settle than the broad outlines.

The official said the agreement was reached at a three-hour formal session—first of the Peiping negotiations—and said the talks proceeded in a "very friendly, satisfactory atmosphere."

The national defense ministry reported today that quiet prevailed throughout the civil war area.

New Talks Set With Neighbors On Greek Warfare

Flushing, N. Y., April 14 (U.P.).—Greece and her three northern neighbors will be brought together again next week in a new United Nations' effort to mediate their dispute over guerilla activities in Greece.

The U. N. announced tonight that Secretary-General Trygve Lie and General Assembly President Herbert V. Evatt would direct the new discussion between the Athens government on the one hand and Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia on the other.

Including Unpaid Loans

House Told U. S. Aid Totals $92 Billions Since World War I

By The Associated Press

United States financial aid to foreign countries — including unpaid balances on World War I loans—now totals $92,169,000,000, Representative Van Zandt (R., Pa.) told the House yesterday.

He said the figures were compiled for him by the House's coordinator of information and include the just-approved $5,580,000,000 authorization for a 15-month extension of the Marshall Plan. This sum, however, has not been appropriated as yet.

Van Zandt said $50,205,229,787 of the total is for the last war's lend-lease program up to March 31, 1948, and $15,460,248,348 presently due on World War I loans, including interest. The remaining $26,504,000,000, he said, represent various types of overseas aid.

His statement in the Congressional Record gave this breakdown: Army relief in occupied areas through June, 1950, $3,774,000,000; Treasury loan to Britain, 1947 and 1948, $3,750,000,000; UNRRA through March, 1947, $2,700,000,000; Export-Import Bank loans through June, 1950, $2,007,000,000; Treasury subscriptions to International Bank and Reconstruction Fund, 1946 and 1947, $1,585,000,000; surplus war goods liquidation agreement, $1,148,000,000; Philippine aid and war damages through June, 1950, $682,000,000; Greek-Turkish aid through June, 1950, $607,000,000; China aid through June, 1950, $520,000,000; contributions to world refugee organizations through June 1950, $477,000,000.

Fay Rebuffed On Order to Stop Phone In Maryland

Pine Gives Injunction To Avondale Man; Trials Are Set for 35 Gaming Defendants

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

United States Attorney George Morris Fay and the telephone company were enjoined yesterday from removing a Maryland telephone for lack of evidence that it was being used to violate District gambling laws.

In granting the temporary injunction, District Court Judge David A. Pine said he had heard evidence which might justify removal of the telephone for violation of the Maryland gambling laws.

The telephone, belonging to Nathan Miller, 4923 LaSalle rd., Avondale, Md., is one of the 324 which Fay seeks to remove to curtail District gambling. Miller filed a petition to prevent removal of his phone.

35 Are Arraigned

Meanwhile, in an adjoining courtroom, 35 of the 36 accused gamblers indicted by the special gambling grand jury were arraigned before Judge Henry Schweinhaut.

One of the men, John W. Quinn of the Harrington Hotel, failed to appear for arraignment. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest, and then withdrawn when his counsel guaranteed his appearance in court on the next arraignment day.

All pleaded not guilty.

Judge Schweinhaut set four separate trial dates from May 2 to June 6, and limited the time within which motions could be filed by defense counsel.

In granting the injunction, Judge Pine said, "Miller was not on trial for violating District or Maryland gambling statutes, or for income tax violations, the penalty for which is not telephone removal.

"District" Underscored

"The question was simply, "did the United States attorney have competent evidence that this Maryland telephone was being used to violate District gambling laws? And I underscore District."

Judge Pine concluded, "I can find no evidence from which I can conclude that the United States attorney had such evidence."

Pine said it was true that the Government had shown that Miller had no occupation other than "following the races"; that he used his telephone to make toll calls to known gamblers; that "incredible as it may seem," Miller makes between $6000 and $9000 a year in betting on horse races; that his former house in the District was raided as a place of gambling, and that Miller refused to answer many questions.

In addition to restraining the telephone company from removing Miller's telephone on the grounds that it was being used to violate District gambling laws, Pine enjoined Fay from requesting the telephone company to re-

Today Income Tax Deadline in D. C.: Maryland April 18

Today is the final day for filing District income tax returns, but residents of Maryland have been given until Monday to get in their returns.

All persons residing in the District who earn $1000 or more income a year are required to file returns here. Half of the tax can be paid at the time of filing and the other half by October 15. Forms can be obtained and payments made at the District Building, 14th and E sts. nw.

The deadline for State income tax payments in Maryland had also been set for today but was advanced to Monday because of the Easter holidays.

Residents of Virginia have no worries—at this time. The tax returns need not be filed until June.

Truman Off the Cuff Corrected by Aides

By The Associated Press

An off-the-cuff remark by President Truman yesterday suddenly doubled his 600-million-dollar estimate of this year's deficit—but aides hastily got out a statement correcting him.

A news conference question started it. A reporter referred to Mr. Truman's request to Congress Monday for an additional $595,890,000 in veterans' funds this fiscal year. Would it "increase the prospective deficit by that much?"

Certainly it will, Mr. Truman replied.

This was in conflict with what the Administration has been saying. Only Wednesday Secretary of the Treasury Snyder had reiterated that the deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30 would be the 600 million dollars that Mr. Truman forecast in his January budget message.

Less than three hours after the news conference, a statement was made public by the White House "clarifying the effect" of the supplemental veterans' cost.

This statement said that veterans' costs not foreseen in the January budget were involved. But other expenses were running lower, it added, and the net effect was to leave the deficit right where Mr. Truman had put it originally.

Expenditures for European recovery and for stockpiling strategic war materials in this country "are at a somewhat lower rate than previously estimated," the statement said.

"But on the other hand expenditures for veterans' programs and (farm crop) price support are running at a higher rate.

"These differences, however, almost offset each other . . ."

Difference Offset

The White House statement pointed out that the $595,890,000 extra for veterans included $323,193,891 already figured in the January budget estimates.

The difference of $272,696,109 will be offset by the decreases showing up in other programs, the statement observed.

Other presidential news conference developments:

1. Mr. Truman said Congress should renew the Government's power to regulate installment payment buying. This authority expires June 30. Under it the Federal Reserve Board sets the minimum for down payments and the length of terms allowed in buying cars, major household appliances, borrowing and other time payment transactions. Opponents say it would stimulate business to drop the controls. Mr. Truman has consistently fought for anti-inflation authority.

2. The President left smouldering the Mon C. Wallgren controversy on Capitol Hill. Once more he said he does not intend to withdraw the former Washington State Governor's nomination to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board. The nomination was pigeon-holed in committee by one vote. Opponents claim the strength to block any effort to force it out of committee by a Senate vote.

3. A reshuffle of American ambassadors in key world spots was indicated. Mr. Truman was asked whether he intends to change envoys to France or Belgium. He said ambassadorships are under discussion. The transfer of Admiral Alan G. Kirk from the Brussels embassy to Moscow is expected. There is talk that Paris Ambassador Jefferson Caffery may be transferred to another capital, and that a number of other diplomatic changes are in the air.

4. Mr. Truman refused to shed light on the question whether the Navy will be permitted to go ahead next Monday with keel laying for its projected 189 million dollars super aircraft carrier in the face of a Navy-Air Force controversy. The carrier could handle bombers carrying atom bombs. The Air Force contends it alone should have the long range strategic bombing job.

For 28 Agencies

House Okays $7.5 Billion Money Bill

The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a $7,575,821,181 omnibus money bill after cutting operating funds for the Selective Service System in half. Passage was by voice vote.

Passage of the bill, financing 28 independent agencies for the fiscal year starting next July 1, boosted to about 24 billion dollars the funds voted this week by the House as it cleared the decks for an Easter recess until April 25.

Biggest allotment in the omnibus bill is $5,145,431,940 for the Veterans Administration. The Atomic Energy Commission receives $1,090,120,397. No changes were made by the House in Appropriations Committee recommendations for these two agencies.

However, the committee overrode a Budget Bureau request for cancellation of 237 million dollars in previously voted authorization for construction of veterans' hospitals. The House upheld the committee without a scrap.

The effect of the Budget Bureau recommendation, had it not been upset, would have been to cut the long-range veterans' hospital construction program by 24 hospitals and curtail the capacity of 15 others. An estimated 16,000 beds would have been eliminated had the Budget Bureau recommendation been followed.

The only money changes made by the House from committee recommendations cut the Selective Service allotment for next year from $9,000,000 to $4,500,000 and added $3,434,950 to the Maritime Commission fund for training merchant marine students.

Representative Keating (R., N. Y.) offered the amendment halving the Selective Service funds. He said the system just doesn't need that much money because no one is being drafted. He agreed sufficient funds should be provided to sustain a skeleton draft organization. The House adopted his amendment by a vote of 82 to 9.

Bar Opposes Woman Judge

By The Associated Press

Two spokesmen for the American Bar Association yesterday opposed reappointment of Judge Marion J. Harron of San Francisco to the United States Tax Court. One complained she lacks judicial temperament.

They testified before the Senate Finance Committee at a hearing called to consider President Truman's nomination of Judge Harron and Judge Byron B. Harlan of Dayton, Ohio, for new terms on the court.

The bar representatives said that because of Harlans' age and his lack of experience in tax matters, the organization had not recommended him for another term. They explained the association is not opposing him now that President Truman has reappointed him. Harlan will be 63 in October.

William A. Southerland, Atlanta, Ga., chairman of ABA's tax section, said a poll of lawyers in the tax section showed 104 against and 57 for Judge Harron's reappointment.

He said 48 gave reasons for their opposition, 36 of them saying she lacks judicial temperament.

Percy W. Phillips, Washington, chairman of the bar association's committee on tax court selections, testified evidence showed Judge Harron often struck from the record all signs of her activities which were "not in accord with accepted judicial procedure."

Macy Makes High Collar Trademark

W. KINGSLAND MACY
His collar button's showing

By the United Press

The way Representative W. Kingsland Macy looks at it, if a Congressman has a trade-mark he might as well let people know.

Macy, a Republican from New York, wears his trade-mark. It's a stiff collar, 2 inches high, the only one in Congress.

"I have worn a high collar since I was a young man," he says. "I think it got me some votes, too."

Macy hitches his tie hard by his Adam's apple, a good inch under the gold collar button, which always shows.

He buys his high neck pieces with round edges. The pointed ones jab him in the collar bone.

The collars are stiff as a board and about half as pretty. Macy swears they are comfortable. But follow him home, and the first thing he does is to rip off his collar.

GOP Senators Offer State-Aid Health Plan

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Three Republican Senators introduced a 1¼ billion dollar measure yesterday designed to promote national health through aid to the States.

The bill, offered by Senators Taft of Ohio, H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey and Donnell of Missouri, would help States to build up and extend medical and hospital services over a five-year period. Federal aid would range from 33-1/3 per cent for prosperous States to 75 per cent for those at the bottom of the economic scale.

Primarily a State Matter

In a statement, the three sponsors said their bill rested on the idea that "the primary responsibility in the field of health, welfare, education and housing rests with the State governments, and that there is no direct grant of power to the Federal Government in the Constitution to deal with these questions." They added that:

"When the States in general fail to meet any basic health or welware problem, because of inability to finance a satisfactory method of dealing with it, the secondary obligation of the Federal Government comes into play."

Morse Makes Charges

Introduction of the GOP-backed health bill inspired Senator Morse (R., Oreg.) to charge that the American Medical Association was more interested in "monopoly control of medicine" than in "saving the lives of babies." In a speech after the bill was offered, Morse said he had evidence a doctor was "blacklisted and punished" because he opposed an assessment by the AMA to fight the Administration's proposed health program.

Morse said the doctor, whom he did not identify, was asked last February to lecture at the University of Arkansas on "Infant Feeding and Immunization." The invitation, he declared, was withdrawn under pressure from the Arkansas Medical Society.

(The New York Herald Tribune News Service identified the physician as Dr. Myron E. Wegman, professor of pediatrics at Louisiana State University. Dr. Wegman was one of 136 physicians who signed a letter protesting an AMA assessment on each member, if the assessment was to be used for propaganda and lobbying, rather than to develop a comprehensive national health plan.

(Dr. Wegman confirmed that his invitation to lecture was withdrawn because he had signed the letter).

Under the health bill introduced yesterday, 1¼ billion dollars would be spent over a five-year period to assist States to extend medical and hospital services. The Federal grant would start at 150 million dollars next July 1 and reach 300 million a year beginning with fiscal 1952.

Other Specific Grants

Grants to States for other specific purposes would be:

1. For school health services, 35 million annually.

2. For hospital construction, double the present annual Federal grant of 75 million.

3. For local public health services a flexible amount, which probably would reach 25 million a year by 1952.

4. For maintaining and increasing medical school enrollment, payment to schools of $500 a year for each student up to average past enrollment and $750 a year for each student above past average.

Current Funds Included

Funds already being spent by States for health programs would be included in sums set aside to match Federal grants in aid.

Although President Truman's health proposal has not yet been sent to Congress, several bills sponsored by Democrats have been introduced to carry out the ideas he has expressed in speeches and messages. Foremost of these is one introduced last January 6 by Senators McGrath of Rhode Island, Wagner of New York, Murray of Montana and Representative Dingell of Michigan.

Attacked as Socialistic

Its provisions are closely similar to those in the bill introduced at the last session by the same sponsors and generally known as the Murray-Wagner-Dingell Bill. It has been attacked as "socialistic" by Taft and other Republican leaders.

The Murray-Wagner-Dingell Bill provides health insurance with free choice of doctor and local administration, extension of Federal old age insurance, insurance against unemployment due to illness, and extension and liberalization of unemployment insurance and employment service.

Although this and other health measures have been referred to committees, no hearings have been held, apparently in anticipation of the Administration bill.

Columbia Valley Agency Bill Brings Immediate Reaction

Legislation to set up a Columbia Valley Administration for development of the great natural resources in the Pacific Northwest was introduced yesterday by Representatives Mitchell and Jackson, both Washington Democrats.

President Truman requested it Wednesday in a message to Capitol Hill. Reaction among lawmakers was immediate and sharply divided.

The President praised the Tennessee Valley Authority and, although he did not say so, it is believed the CVA would be modeled along similar lines, if approved.

Senator Taylor (D., Idaho) was enthusiastic, saying he had been fighting for CVA for years. Senator Wherry (R., Nebr.) the Republican floor leader, was outspokenly against it. CIO President Philip Murray wrote the President his indorsement of the program.

Murray D. Lincoln, president of the Cooperative League, commended the President's step and said thousands of cooperative members for years have supported the CVA idea.

Major opposition seemed to stem from those who have long opposed TVA as infringing on private industry.

At President Truman's news conference yesterday, an inquiry as to whether he planned a message calling for a Missouri valley authority brought the reply, not at the present time.

Dismissal Asked In Perlov Suit

Round three of the Perlov case in Montgomery County Circuit Court occurred yesterday as Mrs. Jeanette Perlov, 27, filed papers asking that her husband's suit for a limited divorce be dismissed.

Her wealthy Norwood, Md., spouse, Alexander Perlov, 54, filed the suit after Mrs. Perlov, a former drive-in waitress and mother of Perlov's three sons, asked for separate maintenance, charging her husband tried to drive her into a mental institution. She said he wanted to deprive her of her rights in his estate which she valued at $100,000. Perlov denied the charge.

Housing Debate Opens in Senate

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The Senate yesterday opened debate on the biggest public housing and slum clearance measure in the history of the United States.

The bill has wide bipartisan support. Backed by 11 Democrats and 11 Republicans, about, one-fourth of the Senate, it is regarded as certain of passage, despite the promise of determined efforts to slash and amend it.

Arguments for the bill were opened yesterday by Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.) of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Senator John Sparkman (D., Ala.), chairman of the subcommittee which drafted the measure, and Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.), co-author of the bill and one of the original sponsors of public housing legislation on Capitol Hill.

Debate will be resumed Monday after the Senate's Easter recess. The House has recessed for 10 days.

What Measure Provides

The bipartisan bill would:

1. Provide for the construction of 810,000 public housing units in the next six years, with the Government contributing up to 308 million dollars a year to finance the projects over a 40-year period.

2. A five-year $1,500,000,000 slum clearance program.

3. A four-year $262,500,000 program of building farm homes.

4. A housing research program aimed at cutting the costs of building.

One of the major controversies in the path of the measure will revolve about an attempt to write into it an amendment barring segregation in public housing.

Greatly Weakened

The amendment will be offered by Senators John Bricker (R., Ohio) and Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) but its chance of adoption were greatly weakened when three Democratic supporters of President Truman's civil rights program came out strongly against it.

Promising to fight against the amendment were Senators Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.), Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) and Glen H. Taylor (D., Idaho.).

All three Senators emphasized that they had not changed their minds about civil rights, but were sure the program should be handled in separate legislation.

They said they are opposed to the antisegregation amendment because they feel it will have the effect of killing the housing bill.

Deny Accusation

Humphrey and Taylor contended that the sponsors of the amendment are offering it in the hope of defeating the measure. Both Cain and Bricker have denied this.

Bricker's Ohio colleague, Senator Robert A. Taft, chairman of the GOP Policy Commitee and one of the cosponsors of the measure, told reporters he plans to vote against the amendment.

Opening debate, Maybank said: "The enactment of this bill will be another historic milestone in the efforts of this Nation to protect and advance the welfare of the American people. The enactment of this bill will make it clear to all our people and to the world that the American Government will not stand by and allow millions of our families to live out their lives in slums or shacks."

Sparkman drew attention to the bipartisan support for the bill and to the "urgency and importance" of the program.

Ellender declared that the "most realistic way" of stopping communism would be for Congress to pass a modified Administration housing bill.

Senate Group Pigeonholes Bill To Reform Electoral System

NYHT News Service

The proposed constitutional amendment to reform the Electoral College was apparently pigeonholed yesterday by a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee in an action that was termed "highly unusual" and even "irregular."

The subcommittee, in effect, has commissioned a Massachusetts newspaper publisher, who appeared as the lone witness against the proposal, to conduct an exhaustive survey to round up opposition to the amendment, sponsored by Senator Lodge (R., Mass.).

The publisher, Basil Brewer, of the New Bedford Standard-Times, appeared before the subcommittee five weeks ago to oppose the amendment, which, he charged, would "destroy the Republican party and the two-party system."

The two-member subcommittee thereupon accepted an offer by Mr. Brewer to gather and submit to it evidence for and against the measure — presumably newspaper articles and editorials and similar documents. The publisher agreed to assign one of his reporters to this task and pay his expenses.

Yesterday morning the reporter, Edward B. Simmons, appeared and informed the subcommittee that he was conducting an exhaustive survey, including some 3,000 questionaires sent to editors and political scientists throughout the country, for which he said the subcommittee had "deputized" him.

Senator Lodge protested at once that Simmons had not been "deputized" to make any such study for the subcommittee, suggesting that such a procedure would be, to say the least, unusual.

Veteran Senate officials said later that they knew of no similar case in which a congressional committee had given an outside opponent or proponent of legislation permission to finance and conduct an investigation for it.

The subcommittee members, Senator Miller (D., Idaho) and Donnell (R., Mo.) agreed that "deputize" was the wrong word to describe Simmon's functions and got him to withdraw it.

They nevertheless granted him 30 days more to complete the survey—a delay which will almost certainly kill any chance of Senate approval of the amendment this year.

The amendment would revise the Electoral College system by providing that, with each State retaining the number of electoral votes it now has, the States shall divide them along presidential candidates in proportion to their popular vote. The same amendment was approved by a House Judiciary Subcommittee a few days ago.

Union Station Officer Beaten With Own Club

Municipal Court Judge Aubrey B. Fennell yesterday held Coley B. Chapman, 30, of Jamaica, N. Y., for grand jury action on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon at Union Station, February 26.

Carl C. Neuman of the terminal police testified that, after arresting Chapman in the station waiting room for intoxication, the defendant attacked him, seized his night stick and beat him "black and blue." The assault took place in the station's police detention room. Fennell set bond at $1000.

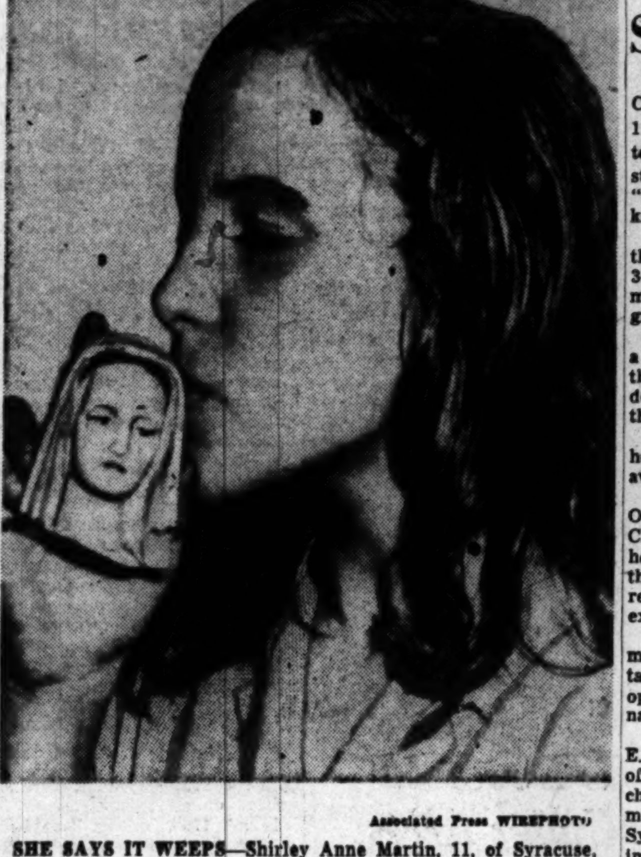
'Miracle' Statue . . .



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

SHE SAYS IT WEEPS—Shirley Anne Martin, 11, of Syracuse, N. Y., kisses the forehead of a broken plaster statue of St. Ann. Dozens of persons who flocked to the four-room flat in which Shirley Anne lives said they saw what appeared to be tears falling from the statue's eyes. A Catholic priest called it an "extraordinary occurrence."

St. Ann Image Reported to Shed 'Tears'

Syracuse, N. Y., April 14 (AP).—Crowds flocked to the home of 11-year-old Shirley Anne Martin today to see a broken religious statue which, witnesses say, sheds "tears" when the little girl kisses it.

The crowd that came to watch the girl press her lips against the 3-inch high head of St. Ann, mother of the Virgin Mary, had grown to about 1000 by evening.

Many of the witnesses, including a Roman Catholic priest, reported that a liquid substance which they described as "tears" appeared in the eyes of the plaster image.

Shirley Anne was described by her sixth grade teacher as "an average little girl."

The Rev. Francis J. Furfaro of Our Lady of Pompei Catholic Church was among those who said he saw the statue "weep" after the youngster had kissed it. He reported it was "a wonderful, extraordinary occurrence."

The Rev. Glenn O. Canfield, minister of May Memorial Unitarian Church, expressed the opinion that "there must be some natural cause."

The girl's mother, Mrs. Arthur E. Martin, said the statue was one of two given to the four Martin children by their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Laura Allen of Syracuse, several years ago. The image of St. Ann fell and broke April 2. Shirley Anne told her mother that day that when she kissed the head, "tears" appeared.

Mrs. Secreti, the girl's maternal grandmother, showed reporters a small bottle which she said contained "tears" from the statue.

M'Grath Lauds 81st Congress

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath yesterday told House members they have "a good record of Democratic accomplishment and the record of Republican obstructionism . . . to discuss with their constituents during the Easter recess of the House."

He expressed pleasure that the Congressmen have an opportunity "to tell the people how a Republican party bankrupt of ideas and ideals, its leadership badly split, its record in the Eightieth Congress repudiated at the polls, has managed to unite behind every possible legislative trick to delay President Truman's Fair Deal program."

He made the assertions in a statement issued by the Democratic National Committee, which also made public a summary of "Accomplishments of the Eighty-first Congress." The summary said Congress has passed 38 public and 11 private bills, while the House has passed 345 other measures, including "all the regular appropriation bills, an all-time record," in less than four months.

Loose Sex Life Laid Mainly to Neurotic Strife

By Howard W. Blakeslee

New York, April 14 (AP).—Sexual promiscuity is due mainly to environment and to personality conflicts and not to sensuality.

This finding is the result of several years' study of 620 promiscuous men and women published by the American Social Hygiene Association.

The average age was 25. Many of them stopped promiscuity after treatment by psychiatrists.

The work was done at the psychiatric service of the San Francisco City Clinic, between January, 1943, and July 1, 1947.

"Promiscuity," says the report, "appeared in most cases to be symptomatic behavior arising out of neurotic conflict."

Ills Laid to Over-Thinking

London, April 14 (U.P.).—To live a long time, to stay happily married, to get ahead in the world, to avoid ulcers and high blood pressure, stop thinking so much.

That's the advice to a harried modern world from Sir Heneage Ogilvie, one of Britain's greatest surgeons, in today's issue of the British Medical Journal.

He wrote that over-thinking upsets glands.

"Modern conditions tend to interfere with . . . alternation between work and rest, particularly between mental work and mental rest.

"While the body cannot be driven beyond a certain point without rebelling and ceasing to function, the mind works with no measurable metabolism or consumption of energy, and can go on working without rest, further work often providing the stimulus to greater effort till the bearings of the machine melt."

The doctor pointed out that stress diseases "are sledom encountered in the placid and the lazy." He advised the middle-aged man to take it easy and to quit "fighting" once he got ahead in the world.

"It is not so much how much he thinks but what he thinks about that leads a man to the surgeon's knife.

"What exhausts is effort rather than use, the performance of tasks that are distasteful or that are beyond easy fulfillment. . . .

"That kind of exhausing thought is the price the millionaire pays for his dictatorship and the clerk pays for his failure."

Pact Assurances Rejected by Russia

Flushing, N. Y., April 14 (U.P.). The United States and Britain assured the United Nations tonight that the North Atlantic Pact is purely defensive, but Russia again rejected the assurances and charged that the treaty "is directed against the Soviet Union and has for its purpose the unleashing of a new war."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko again denounced the pact after Senator Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, and Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, had turned down his arguments the alliance was intended for aggression against Russia.

Austin told the U. N. General Assembly there was "no rational basis" for the Kremlin's fears and declared the treaty was designed solely against "aggression or the threat of aggression, however these may manifest themselves."

McNeil told Gromyko earlier his charge Atlantic Pact signatories sought to establish military bases from which to attack Russia was "slanderous." He accused Gromyko of "trifling with our time and insulting our intelligence."

Gromyko aimed his reply directly at Austin, asserting Austin's statements "concerning the defensive character of the North Atlantic Pact are not convincing and are, moreover, thoroughly hypocritical."

Gromyko cited the statement in Congress yesterday by Representative Cannon (D., Mo.) to the effect that "Moscow and every other center in Russia we must hit within one week after the war starts . . . We will blast at the centers of operation and then let our allies send the army in."

McNeil challenged Gromyko to come out from behind the Soviet delegation's "well-walled" quarters and visit American shops, streets and subways to find out how Soviet prestige has fallen since the war and caused Americans to believe the Atlantic Pact is necessary.

Both McNeil and Austin criticized Russian propaganda.

Austin told Gromyko that if Russia felt she was being left out of things, it was her own fault. He cited these examples:

1. Russia's refusal to accept an invitation in July, 1947, to aid in rebuilding Europe's economy (the Marshall Plan).

2. Russia's refusal to participate in exchanges of students and of cultural and scientific information.

3. Russia's refusal to accept former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' offer of a mutual guarantee pact against German or Japanese aggression for a 25- or 40-year period in 1946.

4. Russia's refusal to participate in U.N. activities, aside from the General Assembly and the Security Council.

Clerics Urge Changes in U. S. Policy

New York, April 14 (AP). — A group of 23 Protestant clergymen and theologians said today adoption of the Atlantic Pact means "continuance of the policy of cold war in a divided world."

Their statement was issued by the Rev. John Howland Lathrop, minister of the Church of the Saviour (Unitarian), Brooklyn, and Professors Paul Scherer and W. Russell Bowie of Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Present American policy, the statement said, means "stockpiling of atomic and bacterial weapons, increase in already colossal arms budget, building a worldwide spy network, no relaxation in military influence over education, science, industry and commerce."

It proposed as an alternative to present policy:

"1. Loyal support and consistent use of the United Nations and its instrumentalities.

"2. A ringing and persistent call for the resumption of serious efforts to secure universal abolition of national military establishments at the earliest possible moment.

"3. Unremitting efforts to explore the possibilities of negotiating peace with the Soviet government; and the use to that end, not of fear inspired by our arsenal of atomic weapons, which can only lead to counterarming, desperation, or a temporary sullen retreat, but of resolute good will."

Signers included William Stuart Nelson, dean of the Divinity School of Howard University, Washington, D. C.

Bulgarian Leader Gets 'Furlough'

GEORGI DIMITROV
Retired from office

Dimitrov Out Of Sofia Posts

Supreme Soviet until he returned to Bulgaria in 1946.

Dimitrov, unlike other high Communists in the Balkans, did little to add to the violent Cominform attacks on Tito.

Partly as result of his policy toward Yugoslavia, Balkan observers in London wondered tonight whether the official Bulgarian announcement contained the whole truth. Dimitrov was absent for health reasons for a long period in 1947 and 1948 but he was never granted leave in the public way he was given leave tonight.

Balkan observers believed his heir-apparent in the Bulgarian Communist hierarchy was Kolarov. But they believed the real power in Bulgaria was the trio of:

1. Anton Yugev, minister of the interior, who also is in charge of Communist militia.

2. Valko Chervenkov, Communist propaganda chief and brother-in-law of Dimitrov.

3. Georgi Chenkov, president of the state control commission.

Soviet Phone Grab Tightens Berlin Grip

Berlin, April 14 (U.P.).—The Russians today took control of all German telephone lines from the western sectors of blockaded Berlin to the Soviet zone.

The Soviet action in tightening the blockade came only 24 hours after a new telephone exchange headquarters was completed in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Until the new headquarters was erected, 89 telephone lines ran from the western allied sectors to Soviet zone points through the western Berlin postoffice.

Brig. Gen. Frank L. Howley, Berlin's American commandant, said the Soviet action would force western Berlin residents to book calls through the Soviet sector postoffice and would decrease western sector revenues by $7,500,000 a year.

Woman, 73, Gives Clew to Slayer in Letters of Blood

Mount Clements, Mich., April 14 (AP).—Mortally wounded by several pocket knife thrusts, Mrs. Mary Graves, 73, dipped her finger in her own blood tonight to start spelling out the name of her assailant.

The victim, too weak to speak, laboriously traced the letters J-O- while police and her common-law husband, Louis D'Augustino, watched closely. Then she died.

D'Augustino then led the officers to the nearby shack of his son, Joseph, 38. Police said the younger man was burning a blood-stained shirt in the stove when they found him.

Yanks to Test Radar Defense In Maneuvers

Heidelberg, Germany, April 14 (U.P.).—A radar wall against attacking enemy aircraft will be tested next week when 70,000 American troops begin their greatest field maneuvers since the end of the war, Army officials disclosed today.

Every combat battalion in Europe will be warned of attacking enemy planes through the radar "air warning" station at Freising, Germany, when the maneuvering American troops strike against an imaginary "aggressor" theoretically massing in Czechoslovakia.

Defense against attacking aircraft was one of the main weak points during the last United States field maneuvers.

Lieut. Gen. Clarence Heubner, United States troop commander in Germany who called the maneuvers "strictly routine," said Russian officers have not been invited "because we never get to attend their maneuvers."

Gen. Rudenko Is Reported Under Arrest

Berlin, April 14 (AP).—The American-licensed newspaper Der Abend said today Lieut. Gen. Leonid G. Rudenko has been arrested in Moscow because of his "failure" in the Kravchenko trial.

Rudenko was a star witness for the defense in Victor Kravchenko's libel suit in Paris against a French newspaper which said he was "too ignorant" to have written the book "I Chose Freedom." The defense said the book was full of lies about Russia. Kravchenko was awarded 50,000 francs ($150) damages.

Der Abend attributed its report to "circles in the information bureau" of the Soviet military administration here.

"The Russians believe," the newspaper said, "that the French court was influenced in Kravchenko's favor by the passive performance put up by Rudenko."

Wherry and Bridges Ask Slash in Spending

NYHT News Service

Two Republican members of the Senate Appropriations Committee called yesterday for an across-the-board cut of from 10 to 15 per cent on Federal spending to save the Nation from "job-killing taxes."

Senator Wherry, of Nebraska, Republican Majority Leader, and Senator Bridges, of New Hampshire, made the demand for sharp cuts in spending after a closed meeting of Republican members of the Appropriations Committee.

Wherry said that the meeting was called because "we are appropriating in the blind." He said that "we met to consider the rapidly deteriorating fiscal situation," and added that "President Truman apparently is determined to force a huge deficit in the Federal Treasury and to saddle more back-breaking taxes upon the people.

Cities Asked to Buy On Escalator Basis

The American Public Works Association thinks it would be a good idea if cities would buy things on an "escalator arrangement."

Under this procedure, a price would be set for a commodity or job, and an increase or decrease in price would be permitted upon completion by reference to a "Federally-determined" index.

Weizsaecker, 18 Others Get Prison Terms

Nuernberg, Germany, April 14 (AP).—A United States tribunal sentenced Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker and 18 other veteran German diplomats and ministerial officials today to prison terms ranging from four to 25 years.

All were convicted of participating in war crimes perpetrated by Adolf Hitler's regime.

The trial was the last in a long series before American courts in Germany.

Weizsaecker, the most prominent defendant, was sentenced to seven years. He was found guilty of helping Hitler plot aggressive war against Czechoslovakia and of atrocities against Jews.

Each defendant will receive a reduction of sentence equal to the time he has spent in jail.

The heaviest sentence, 25 years, was given Gottlob Berger, S.S. (Elite Guard) lieutenant general. He was convicted for murder and ill treatment of prisoners of war and enslavement of conquered peoples.

The convicted men promptly appealed on the grounds that the three-judge court lacked jurisdiction. Twenty-one defendants in all were tried by the court. Two of them, Otto Meissner and Otto von Erdmannsdorff, were acquitted on all counts.

In all, 1558 persons have been convicted of war crimes in the American zone of Germany alone.

Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, United States chief of counsel for war crimes, said:

"I regard this verdict, coming at this late date, as very significant. It shows we mean the same thing in 1949 that we meant in 1945."

Taylor declined comment on the fact the court split 2-to-1 in most of the convictions.

The verdict is subject to review by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor.

Those sentenced today included: Wilhelm Stuckart, 46, former Interior Ministry official, four years; Gustav Steengracht von Moyland, state secretary, seven years; Edmund Veesenmayer, former minister plenipotentiary in Hungary, 20 years; Hans Heinrich Lammers, chief of the Reichschancellory, 20 years; Paul Korner, Goering's deputy, 15 years; Paul Pleiger, Ruhur coal expert, 15 years; Hans Kehrl, former head of the war production office, 15 years; Wilhelm Kappler, Hitler's first economic adviser, 10 years.

Lutz Schwerin von Krosick, former Finance Minister, 10 years; Richard Walther Darre, Minister for Agriculture, seven years; Otto Dietrich, Hitler's press chief, seven years; Karl Rasche, bank director, seven years.

Ernst Woermann, of the Foreign Office, seven years; Walter Schellenberg, chief of SS intelligence, six years; Ernest William Bohle, chief of the Nazi Party's foreign organization, five years; Emil Phl, a Reichsbank director, five years, and Karl Ritter of the Foreign Office, four years.

The prosecution staff included Rawlings Ragland, of Washington, D. C., and Morris Amchan, of Arlington, Va.

Boys Club Leader Found Innocent of Indecent Exposure

John F. Miller, 30, president of the Trinidad Boys Club, was found innocent in Municipal Court of charges of indecent exposure.

Miller had been charged with exposing himself indecently before three sisters aged, 11, 14, and 24 near 14th and F sts. ne., last January 10.

After hearing the evidence, Judge Walter J. Casey declared he had a reasonable doubt as to the accuracy of the girls' identification.

Miller, who lives in East Pines, Md., was defended by Attorney Denny Hughes.

Europe Arms Cost Figured at Billion

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

The Western Europe military assistance program now is expected to cost about one billion dollars, well-informed officials said last night.

Legislation prepared by the State Department and defense forces is now before the Bureau of the Budget and probably will be submitted to President Truman Saturday or early next week, it was said.

As originally drafted, the bill called for about $1,820,000,000, but this included continuation of the Greek-Turkey military aid programs and some surplus American arms valued at 10 per cent of the original cost.

Officials now are talking of proposing transfer of the surplus arms—valued at about 190 millions—without including any value for it in the bill.

Further, the Budget Bureau is expected to cut the measure—perhaps 15 to 20 per cent. If this is done, and continuation of the existing Greek-Turkey programs is counted separately, the total for Western Europe will run about one billion dollars, it is estimated.

From the beginning, officials have been divided on the question of making the program appear as large as possible—by evaluating the surplus arms at replacement cost—so as to offer increased encouragement to Europe, or to keep it as small as possible to ease the opposition of economy-minded Congresmen.

Acheson Hits China Aid Plan

the military means for reversing the present war situation there, Acheson said it "would require the use of an unpredictably large American armed force in actual combat."

Acheson, however, said it would be "undesirable for the United States precipitously to cease aid to areas under the control of the Chinese government which it continues to recognize."

On that score he said "consideration is being given" to disposal of the 54 million dollars that was left over from last year's China-aid fund of 400 million dollars. Congress yesterday passed a bill granting President Truman authority to use this sum in non-Communist areas of China. Otherwise the money would have been turned back to the United States Treasury.

Despite Acheson's stand, Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) told his colleagues yesterday that the State Department and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should start immediately on developing a "sound and consistent" Far Eastern policy.

Easter Vacation Voted by House; Senate to Meet

House members voted themselves a 10-day Easter vacation yesterday. But the Senate will stay on the job.

The House adopted a resolution for no more sessions until Monday, April 25. The Senate consented.

Under congressional rules, the House or Senate must have the consent of the other body to take a recess longer than three days.

Leaders are keeping the Senate at work, despite the House holiday, because the Senate is not so far along with its legislative schedule as is the House.

Scottish Rite Masons Draw 500 to Services

More than 500 Scottish Rite Masons in the Valley of Washington last night participated in services marking the observance of Maundy Thursday in the temple, 2800 16th st. nw.

The services, conducted by Evangelist Chapter, Knights Rose Croix, were under the direction of Swami Premananda, wise master, and his staff.

Similar services were conducted in Scottish Rite Temples throughout the world. Special Easter services are scheduled in the local temple at 3 p. m. Sunday.

Memorial Fountain For D. C. Asked in Bill

Representative Clifford Davis (D., Tenn.) yesterday introduced a bill for erecting a memorial fountain in Washington for the city's first planner, Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant.

The Interior Secretary would get the fountain, and its position site would be chosen jointly by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Fine Arts Commission.

European Aid Authorization Sent Truman

Congress swiftly passed and sent to President Truman yesterday a $5,580,000,000 authorization to keep American aid flowing to Europe the next 15 months.

The Senate and House approved the bill in its final form, worked out by conferees, by voice votes. It becomes law as soon as Mr. Truman signs it.

Not a single audible objection was registered in either chamber as the huge foreign-aid measure sailed through.

Not a cent was trimmed off the total requested by President Truman, and only minor changes were written into the legislation. A conference of Senators and House members adjusted final differences Wednesday.

Actual cash for the program will be provided in an appropriations bill, subject to a new vote in each House.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) told newsmen he is still hopeful that the Appropriations Committee will knock 10 per cent off the cash total. Senators Bridges (R., N. H.), Ferguson (R., Mich.) and Cordon (R., Oreg.) also favored any economies that can be put into effect without hurting European recovery.

Administrator Paul G. Hoffman said he would "welcome" any savings that could be achieved without injury to the program.

1 Dead, 2 Hurt in Crash Near Martinsville

Martinsville, Va., April 14 (AP)—One man was killed and two others injured about 5 p. m. today when a car in which they were riding went out of control on State Highway 57 and plunged over a 40-foot embankment.

Police said John Dempsey Wingfield, 21, of Route 1, Martinsville, was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital here. Injured were Roy C. Riddle, 21, of Axton, and Landon Riddle, jr., of Route 1, Martinsville.

The accident occurred about 10 miles northeast of here on a slight curve.

Further Defense Pacts Urged By Turkish Foreign Minister

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Turkish Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak said here yesterday that Turkey strongly favors a Mediterranean pact to widen the security area encompassed by the North Atlantic Treaty.

Concluding a four-day visit here highlighted by conferences with President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Sadak said:

"Turkey considers the Atlantic Pact insufficient in some of its aspects for the maintenance of peace on the continent of Europe."

Want Another Treaty

While Turkey considers herself "very much tied to the policy" of the 12 nations which signed the North Atlantic Treaty, said Sadak, "Turkey believes and wishes that the Turkish security will also be guaranteed by another regional pact."

While the possibilities of a Mediterranean pact have frequently been discussed here, American diplomatic officials have previously indicated that existing programs for military aid to Greece and Turkey, and continued interest in the security of Iran, already display a positive United States attitude toward those areas.

President Truman and Secretary Acheson have stressed that the noninclusion of such nations in the North Atlantic pact does not indicate any lessened concern over their welfare.

Sadak, who heads the Turkish delegation to the United Nations, said he has had no discussions with American officials on specific lines of a Mediterranean pact, stating only that he and Acheson talked of "Turco-American relations in all its phases."

Intends to Return

He declined to say what nations he believed should be included in a Mediterranean agreement, saying, "We have no project, but we have ideas," and said he will return here when these proposals are more concrete.

Sadak termed the Truman Doctrine an "assurance of the first degree" for Turkey's security. He refused to say if he had asked for any further American aid, but said additional aid would naturally strengthen Turkey's defenses. The Turkish army, however, feels confident "that it can resist any aggressor," said Sadak.

Programs for military assistance to Turkey from mid-1947 through December 31, 1948, provided Turkey $96,870,761 in aid. Over the same period, Greece received $280,492,885.

Word Awaited by Britain

In London, a British Foreign Office spokesman yesterday said that Britain is still awaiting the "considered views" of the State Department on a British proposal to speed up American aid to Greece with the hope of ending the civil war there this year.

On their part, the British reportedly offered in the same proposal to make available to the Greeks certain British military equipment.

These views were included in a memorandum presented to Secretary Acheson last week at one of his policy conferences with British Foreign Secretary Bevin. It is understood that the American position is, in effect, to refuse the request on grounds that existing aid is sufficient if used properly by the Greeks.

Wooden Cross Reported Burned Near Suffolk, Va.

Suffolk, April 14 (AP).—A wooden cross 14 feet high with a 6-foot crossbeam was burned last night in a field at Nurneyville, 6 miles southeast of Suffolk on Route 37 in Nansemond County.

The cross, wrapped in kerosene soaked burlap, was set afire about 9 p. m. by some 35 persons robed in white. License numbers of several cars were taken by investigating officers.

Acheson Forecasts Victory for West

Secretary of State Acheson declared yesterday the Western nations are approaching the time when they can speak "on equal terms" and "with equal strength" with the nations opposing them.

Without specifically naming the Soviet Union and its satellite states, Acheson said that in the present world struggle, "the outcome will be decided by our courage in meeting the exigencies before us, by unending diligence and attention to the danger before us."

Acheson spoke at a luncheon of the Council of the Organization of American States. The luncheon observed Pan-American Day.

After declaring his wholehearted support and that of the Government for the policies of Inter-American cooperation, Acheson said:

"It is apparent that two opposing forces are at work in the world today. One is disruptive. It divides nations and peoples. It turns individuals against each other even in the same country and the same community. The other forc draws peoples and nations together in common endeavor. It harmonizes the interests of individuals."

Acheson said there is an interesting contrast in the fact that "free people are willing to share their privileges and prerogatives with others" while "repressed people hold aloof, suspect the motives of those who offer friendship and aid, and shrink from or oppose cooperative action."

He added.

"We can see clearly which of these attitudes is normal and healthy and which is abnormal and morbid. It is my conviction that the cohesive forces at work for unity and cooperation will prevail in time over the devisive forces working for disruption and disaster."

Acheson reviewed the weaknesses of the United Nations, saying they were created by "the attitude of one member," an obvious reference to Russia. He went on to say the Inter-American Defense Treaty and the North Atlantic Treaty as regional defense arrangements would "strengthen" the United Nations Charter.

Acheson also briefly discussed President Truman's plans for development of underdeveloped areas of the world. He said that the essence of the idea is to be found in cooperative programs carried on in recent years between the United States and its sister American countries.

Grigsby Named To Education Post as Aide

Rall I. Grigsby, 50-year-old educator who served nine months as acting United States Commissioner of Education, yesterday was named to the post of deputy commissioner.

Grigsby

The Iowa teacher and school administrator, who lives at 4726 24th rd., Arlington, has been a member of the Office of Education staff since 1939. A curriculum expert, he was apointed two years later to be a special assistant to the commissioner. When Commissioner John W. Studebaker resigned last July, he became acting commissioner holding down the post until Earl J. McGrath was named commissioner in March.

A native of Greencastle, Ind., Grigsby attended Cornell College at Mount Vernon, Iowa, and was assistant superintendent of schools in Des Moines for 10 years.

U. S. Reports Gain in Exports To Lands Behind Iron Curtain

The United States stepped up exports to the 11 European nations behind the Iron Curtain by 23 per cent in February, the Census Bureau reported yesterday.

The total flow of goods to those countries continued to lag behind last year's average, however, despite a sharp rise in shipments to Yugoslavia, Czechslovakia and Romania.

Exports to Russia itself in February were valued at $200,000, the same as in January. Imports from Russia jumped from $1,600,000 in January to $3,300,000 in February.

Exports to Yugoslavia Up

The larger shipments to Yugoslavia, where Marshal Tito is on the outs with the Kremlin, drew special attention.

There have been unofficial reports that the United States has been more liberal recently in granting exports licenses to Yugoslavia, and the higher trade figures tends to bear that out.

Larger raw cotton shipments accounted for most of the boom in trade with Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Romania.

The Census Bureau said goods shipped to Yugoslavia in February were valued at $1,700,000, compared with $1,400,000 in January. Tito's country imported an average of $800,000 worth a month from the United States the last six months of 1948.

Exports to Czechoslovakia increased in value from one million dollars in January to $4,500,000 in February. Romanian purchases jumped from $100,000 to $1,100,000.

There was little change in the volume of American trade with the Marshall Plan nations of western Europe. Exports to them were valued at $367,400,000 in February compared with $367,200,000 in January.

Imports from western European countries rose from $96,600,000 in January to $98,600,000 in February.

Total exports to the 12 iron curtain nations—including Russia—rose from $9,900,000 in January to $11,200,000 in February. During the first half of 1948, these same countries took about $17,300,000 worth of goods a month.

Volume to Russia Declines

Russia alone bought an average of $5,400,000 worth of American goods monthly in the first half of last year. By the last half of the year, the volume dropped to an average of $500,000 a month.

The sharp rise in American purchases from Russia was due partially to an increase in critical manganese and chrome imports. These amounted to $1,200,000 in January and $1,300,000 in February.

Soviets Report Assault by 4 in U. S.-Made Khaki

Vienna, Austria, April 14 (U.P.).—The Soviet Army Information Services said tonight that four men "dressed in American-made Russian army uniforms" assaulted two Austrian gendarmes in the Soviet zone April 7.

It said Soviet troops arrested one of the men, identified as Leon Scezesny, a Polish national.

The one man arrested was dressed in a complete Russian uniform, "made by a clothing company of Philadelphia, U.S.A.," it said.

The same label was found in the coats the other three men left behind when they fled, the announcement added.

Pravda Cries 'Spy' at Visit Of American

That echo in Moscow which sounded like an American delegation of military experts tramping around Norway must be a one-man "mission" en route to Norway—the State Department said yesterday.

This latest development in a series of similar international "mysteries" went this way:

Pravda, in Moscow, quoted Finnish Communist newspapers as reporting from Norway that an American military delegation came there in mid-March to study sites for naval and air bases for aggression.

Just One Lieutenant

State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said an investigation showed that the only American "delegation" to Norway consists of one man, Coast Guard Lieut. (j. g.) Richard A. Pascuita, scheduled to arrive in Norway on April 20.

Pascuita will measure the intensity of Loran signals emanating from Iceland, the Hebrides and Faroe Islands, said McDermott.

Loran is a system of electronic navgational aid for air and marine use, and Pascuita will make similar studies in Sweden it was announced, and report to an international radio conference at Geneva on May 18.

Silent on Ararat

On a similar level, McDermott said the department has no knowledge of any American official going to Turkey to look for the site of Noah's Ark on Mount Ararat.

From London, a British archaeologist has announced that he and Dr. E. Aaron Smith of Greensboro, N. C., will make such an expedition. A Pravda commentator termed this a cover-up for spying on the border of the Armenian Soviet Republic.

A few weeks ago the Russian press charged, and the Finnish and American governments denied, that a wolf hunt near the Finnish-Russian border also had a spying motive.

Spy Trial Set For May 2 in Coplon Case

New York, April 14 (AP).—A young woman Government worker and a Rusian engineer accused of conspiring to get U. S. defense secrets were ordered today to stand trial May 2.

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe fixed the date after hearing a vigorous protest by the Russian, Valentin A. Gubitchev, that he has diplomatic immunity.

The Government employe is Judith Coplon, 27, of the Justice Department. FBI agents arrested her and the Soviet engineer last month after trailing them on a zig-zag course through Manhattan streets.

Miss Coplon also was indicted in Washington on espionage charges. Her trial there is set for April 26. Her attorney had asked that the Washington case be disposed of first.

Gubitchev, 32, a suspended United Nations employe, told the court, "I consider this so-called case a provocation of the Department of Justice and the FBI for certain political reasons."

Lev. S. Tolokonnikov, First Secretary of the Russian Embassy, was in the courtroom. He talked with Gubitchev afterward and, it was learned, told the defendant he approved his statement in court.

"I have nothing in common with the other case (Mis Coplon's indictment in Washington) and I refuse to attend the trial which the Department of Justice is trying to present here," Gubitchev declared.

Justice Coxe interrupted the Russian at one point, stating the diplomatic issue had been disposed of previously and could be raised again at the trial.

"We will not take the time or the court for a filibuster, if that is the proper way to characterize it," Coxe remarked.

Gubitchev contended he possessed a diplomatic visa granted him by the United States Embassy in Moscow for his visit to this country and a diplomatic passport issued him by the Foreign Ministry of the Soviet Union assigning him the rank of third secretary "to work with the United Nations."

The Russian is held in jail under $100,000 bail.

British Alliance Unthinkable, Says Irish Minister

Irish Foreign Minister Sean McBride said yesterday it is "unthinkable" that Ireland could consider entering a military alliance with Britain.

He made the statement in a speech to the Women's National Press Club to explain why Ireland stayed out of the North Atlantic defense treaty.

Ireland welcomed the pact, he said, because military measures are necessary to prevent "further encroachments by Russian imperialism."

While the Irish would be gratified if they could give the pact their unqaulified backing, the dispute with Britain over northern Ireland makes it impossible, McBride said.

"While the British maintain they have a right to occupy a portion of our country against the wishes of the overwhelming majority of the people of the country as a whole, it is unthinkable that we could consider entering into a military alliance with them."

Dutch Return to Conference With Indonesian Republicans

Batavia, Java, April 14.—Dutch and Republican representatives opened a new conference on Indonesian problems today with debate over the old issue of Jogjakarta.

Mohammed Rum of the Republican delegation said that, "once the arrangement for restoration of the Republican government (to Jogjakarta) has been agreed on," the Republicans can consider other issues.

J. H. van Royen of the Netherlands said the Dutch are "prepared to give precedence to discussions concerning terms and conditions for a possible return of the Republican government to Jogjakarta," but any commitment must be postponed until there is an agreement on a Republican cease-fire order to guerillas and on the time and conditions for a round-table conference at The Hague.

Rum held that decisions on those points could be taken at Jogjakarta "on the basis of the expressed desires of the people."

The parley here is under auspices of the United Nations commission on Indonesia.

(The Netherlands war ministry announced at The Hague that the return of Dutch tropos from Indonesia will be resumed May 13, with small units the first to start.)

Hongkong Gold Ban

By The Associated Press

Officials of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) seemed pleased yesterday that Kongkong authorities have banned international transactions there in gold at prices above the $35-an-ounce official rate.

Navy Secretary Reported About Ready to Resign

Secretary of the Navy John L. Sillivan will follow Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall into retirement, it was reliably reported yesterday.

Announcement that President Truman has accepted Royall's resignation is expected momentarily.

When Mr. Truman was asked at a news conference yesterday if there was any word on the resignations of Royall and Sullivan, his answer was, no, not yet.

Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh, N. C., publisher, who served as a member of the White House staff on the Truman campaign train, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Sullivan. His father, Josephus Daniels, was Secretary of the Navy in the Wilson Administration.

Eberstadt Reiterates Budget Pad Charge

Round three in the Hoover Commission versus Army fight over alleged waste in the military establishment was fought yesterday, with a commission task force insisting the Army had been guilty of padding its original 1950 budget requests.

Ferdinand Eberstadt, New York financier and chairman of the reorganization commission's military budget committee, becked up former President Herbert Hoover's accusations against the Army. Hoover had handed the Senate Armed Services Committees his task force committee's report with the statement its findings of waste were "startling."

The day following, Army Secretary Kenneth Royall told the Senate group that the Hoover-Eberstadt report was "totally incorrect" and gave a point-by-point answer to what he called its "misstatements of fact."

Yesterday, Eberstadt answered Royall with a mimeographed memorandum, setting forth the original charge, the Army Secretary's rebuttal, and his "surrebuttal" in parallel columns.

Far from answering the Hoover Commission charges, Eberstadt said, Royall's comments "confirm the committee's report in every instance and in practically every detail."

The Army's comments, Eberstadt added, also "abundantly support" the conclusion that the budget requests were "highly inflated" and "bore little relation to the President's ceiling or to any strategic plan."

Here is a summary of the disputed points:

1. Charge—The Army asked 529 millions to buy tanks, with the major part going to retool industry despite existence of wartime tools.

Royall's rebuttal—Under long-term practice, the cost of tooling is included in the order for arms. The tanks are new type ones, which require new tooling.

Eberstadt's answer—The Army "does not challenge the facts" stated. The committee felt this was an "extravagant" plan and notes the final budget carried no funds for the purpose.

2. Charge—The Army asked funds to modernize 102 more tanks than it possessed.

Royall—When the budget request was made, in July, 1948, the Army did have the tanks. In July it transferred them to the Marine Corps and adjusted the budget estimate at that time.

Eberstadt—When the committee made its investigation in the fall, the Army's budget request still contained the tank item, even though the decision to transfer them to the Marines had been made months before. The matter was adjusted only after the discrepancy was detected by commission investigators.

3. Charge—The Nation is reported to have produced 86,000 tanks during the war; the Army told the committee that it had 25,045 tanks at the end of the war and only 15,960 now. What happened to them?

Royall—The Army gave the committee data showing that it had 25,045 tanks at the war end, has scrapped or transferred 7,170 under approved aid programs. It now has 17,875 tanks. The committee was guilty of a "serious oversight" in its figures, and without further consulting the Army issued a "scoop" that the Army had "lost" 9000 tanks.

Eberstadt—Admits the Army figures are correct, but wants to know where are the 60,000 tanks produced during the war that are not accounted for.

4. Charge — The Army had equipment for 89 divisions at the end of the war. Yet now it says it has extra equipment only for 18 divisions.

Royall—The Army disposed of equipment for 30 divisions by demilitarization sale into the American civilian economy or overseas relief. It now has incomplete equipment for 23 divisions—part is missing or needs overhaul—and complete equipment for 18 divisions.

Eberstadt—The Army's explanation was asked for by the committee but not given until now. It comments that the recovery and rehabilitation of the "misplaced" equipment should be pressed by the Army.

5. Charge—By a clerical error, a budget request for 9 million dollars for howitzers appeared as $39 million dollars.

Royall—The error was corrected before submission to the Bureau of the Budget. The committee investigator was informed of this.

Eberstadt—The Army corrected the error after the committee investigator pointed it out.

(6) Charge—Funds were asked to buy summer uniforms at $129 apiece, for more men than there are in the Army.

Royall—The request to buy uniforms was for both the Army and Air Force plus reissues and full size lots, at a cost of $40.48 apiece.

Eberstadt—Admits that its cost figure was gained by dividing the estimate by the number of men in the Army. Notes that nothing at all was allowed for such uniforms in the final budget.

concerning the three men who taught at the college:

"These gentlemen in question were under contract at Boston College to teach philosophy and physics. They had been cautioned by me and others in authority here to stay within their own field and leave theology to those who were adequately and competently prepared. They continued to speak in class and out of class on matters contrary to the traditional teachings of the Catholic Church, ideas leading to bigotry and intolerance.

"Their doctrine is erroneous and as such could not be tolerated at Boston College. They were informed that they must cease such teaching or leave our faculty."

The Rev. James Kelley, S. J., president of Boston College High School, said Supple had not been "dismissed at the moment." He added he had not had time to consider the case.

Wider Market Being Sought For Bonds of the World Bank

The Administration is seeking a wider market for World Bank bonds.

The National Advisory Council, the Government's top group on international financial matters, has asked Congress to:

1. Authorize national banks to deal in securities isued by the International Bank for Reconstruction and Finance.

2. Grant a conditional exemption from the Securities Act for obligations which the World Bank issues or guarantees.

The request was made in a letter Wednesday by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, as chairman of the Advisory Council. Its other members include the Secretaries of State and Commerce, and the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and the Export-Import Bank.

The objective, said the letter, is to contribute to the effectiveness of the International Bank by making the "avenues of distribution for its securities broader than those permitted for purely private securities."

The proposed bill favored in the letter would require amendments to the National Bank Act and to the Bretton Woods Act which provided for creation of the World Bank.

The proposal would exempt the bank's securities from registration provisions of the Securities Act. But it also would specify that the Securities and Exchange Commission, in consultation with the Advisory Council, could revoke the exemption at any time.

Benning-Rosslyn Line Becomes Bus Route

The Rosslyn-Benning streetcar line will be converted to a bus route on Sunday, May 1, the District Public Utilities Commission announced yesterday.

The conversion will permit removal of the streetcar tracks on Benning rd. ne. and widening of the existing motor vehicle roadways.

Polk Killed by Reds, Defendant Indicates

By Barrett McGurn

Salonika, April 14 (NYHT).—Gregory Staktopoulos, former Communist newspaperman, on trial here as an accomplice in the murder of George Polk, indicated today he agrees with the prosecution charge that the CBS correospondent was slain by Communists rather than the Greek government or right-wing groups.

After Matthew Kokonis, the father of Polk's Greek bride, told the court of an anonymous telephone threat received by the former Washington newsman, Staktopoulos expressed the opinion the call came from Communists preparing an alibi. Kokonis said Polk had been told on the phone, "You are a Communist. Beware, we shall kill you."

Indicates He Was Present

The testimony of a former Communist member of the Greek Parliament tended to show that Staktopoulos probably did not know he was leading Polk into a trap.

The defendant indicated plainly today that he was present at the death of Polk.

When an employe of the hotel at which Polk was staying said the American had left at 9 p. m. last May 8 carrying a small, soft parcel, Staktopoulos volunteered that the parcel contained the correspondent's pajamas and that he was shot to death within one hour and 45 minutes of the time the hotel man saw him depart.

Angelos Giannakopoulos, another witness, testified that he was eating at a waterfront restaurant with the Salonika chief of police on the evening of May 8 when they saw a rowboat with three or four men go past in the direction of the spot just outside Salonika Bay where, an expert on harbor currents has testified, Polk's body must have been thrown.

Heard Sound Like Guns

The official commented, the witness said, that security rules forbade boating at night. A little later the two remarked on a sound like that of guns.

"We left the shore at 10:05 and, according to my calculation Polk was killed at 10:30 or 10:45," Staktopoulos offered.

A long line of corroborating witnesses were brought in by the prosecution in evident determination to convince public opinion that the Staktopoulos story is not a fake contrived by the Greek government. Intense cross-questioning by the three judges, two defense lawyers and twelve jurors convinced many American observers present that the trial has not been rigged.

Atom Plant Located to Spare Rivers

By the United Press

Carleton Shugg, deputy general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission, said yesterday that fear of contaminating the headwaters of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers caused the commission to discard Fort Peck, Mont., as the site of its new atomic reactor plant.

He testified before the joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee after Gov. John Bonner of Montana asked that the plant be located at Fort Peck instead of Arco, Idaho, the site selected by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Couldn't Dodge Issue

Bonner and members of the Montana congressional delegation argued that Fort Peck would be far better from a national security viewpoint than Arco. But committee members said they would not recommend a change in the commission's decision except for a very good reason.

Shngg said the commission "could not dodge the contamination issue." Disposal of waste materials has been a major problem at atomic energy plants.

"There was definite uneasiness on the staff about placing the site at the headquarters of the Missouri and Mississippi River valleys," Shugg said. In this connection, he added that the Arco site has advantages because the waters there drain into a huge swamp.

Hickenlooper Asks Reason

Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) said that up to last October commission members told him the plant would be built at Fort Peck. He asked why the site had been changed.

Roger E. Warner, commission engineering director, said the decision was made, but was not "firm," until the Navy agreed to give up its facilities at the Idaho location.

Among those arguing in favor of the Fort Peck site were Vincent P. Brown, Montana traffic manager of the Great Northern Railroad; James J. Flaherty, president of the Montana Chamber of Commerce, and Paul Campbell, Glasgow (Mont.) hotel manager.

Northwest Has New Shock After Quake Kills 8

Seattle, April 14 (AP).—Eight persons died and 65 were hospitalized after yesterday's earthquake. Damage was estimated at 15 million dollars.

Four of the victims succumbed to heart attacks. The others were hit by falling rubble.

A second tremor, apparently minor, was noted in eastern Washington today a few minutes less than 24 hours after Wednesday noon's jolt hit the West Coast.

Epicenter in Olympics

Spokane and eastern Washington felt the major shock lightly yesterday, as did Vancouver, B. C., and Salem, Oreg. University of Washington seismologists placed the epicenter at the southern edge of the Olympic Mountains, 90 miles southwest of Seattle.

Tacoma, Seattle and Olympia city officials all said the damage estimates were decreasing as surveys progressed. Gone was the near-panic that struck the region when the quake hit at 11:55:57 a. m. (PST.).

In hard-hit Olympia, where two died, all but a dozen downtown buildings were permitted to reopen and business was almost back to normal on Capitol Hill. Mayor Ernest Mallory estimated damage at "around two million dollars."

Seattle Estimates Decline

Seattle, with two dead from heart attacks, found the damage estimates dwindling to Mayor William F. Devin's "less than two million dollars." The Longview-Kelso area in southwest Washington, which counted one dead at Castle Rock, said the cost would not exceed $125,000. Centralia-Chehalis, also to the southwest, had one death and placed the damage at half a million.

Red Cross officials said at Tacoma, where one died, the damage would be near one million dollars. In neighboring Puyallup the cost was placed at $250,000 to $500,000. A suicide at Tacoma may have been prompted by terror of the quake, according to Coroner Paul Mellinger.

Bricks and masonry torn from shaken buildings, shattered windows, tumbled chimneys, broken water mains and minor fires contributed to the damage total.

Spicy Chocolate Cake
"Quick-method" Recipe

Sift together into one large bowl:
1⅓ cups sifted cake flour
1¼ tsp. double action baking powder (1¾ tsps. single action)
½ tsp. salt
¾ cup sugar
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. cloves
2 tbsp. cocoa
Add:
¼ cup Snowdrift
½ cup milk

Mix until flour is dampened. Beat 2 minutes. If by hand, count beating time only. (With electric mixer, use "low speed." Scrape bowl frequently; scrape beaters after 2 minutes.)

Add:
1 egg

Beat 1 minute. Turn into greased loaf pan (10x5x3) lined with paper. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 35 minutes. Cool. Split in half and put together with—

WHITE FROSTING: Cream together 1 tbsp. butter and 1 tbsp. Snowdrift. Add ¼ tsp. salt and 1 tsp. vanilla. Beat in 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar alternately with 2 tbsp. warm cream. Spread on cake. Sprinkle with a little cinnamon and cloves mixed with 1 tsp. granulated sugar.

Welfare Worker Faces Dismissal Action For 'Derogatory' Statements Against Superior

Dismissal action against a Public Welfare Department social worker was instituted yesterday by the District Commissioners after complaints were received about his working relations with his superior.

Thomas R. English of 3000 30th st. se. was informed by the city heads that he was charged with being "grossly disrespectful" to a superior, had accused a superior of "misconduct" but failed to substantiate the accusation, had made contradictory statements on "an important matter of employe conduct" and had spread "derogatory rumors" about a superior.

John W. Tramburg, public welfare director, said the charges refered to English's working relations with Mrs. Ruth Hubbard, superintendent of the board's interstate service section, where English was employed as a social worker. He has been on the staff a year, Tramburg said.

Tramburg said Mrs. Hubbard's complaint on English's alleged actions and statements were transmitted by the Board of Public Welfare to the Commissioners for action. Geoffrey M. Thornett, secretary to the Board of Commissioners, wrote English that as a veteran he was entitled to 10 days in which to answer the charges, but that if he did not, he would be dismissed 30 days from receipt of the letter. Meanwhile English was placed on annual leave.

English could not be reached for comment.

Argentine Police Raid Red School, Seize 26

Buenos Aires, Argentina, April 14 (U.P.).—Federal police announced today they had arrested one teacher and 25 students in a school operated by the Communist Party to train workers in sabotage.

This brought to 86 the number of Communists known to have been arrested in the past few days. Approximately 60 leaders of the Slav Union were held after a raid on its headquarters four days ago.

350 More Boys To Go to Camp

Approximately 350 more Police Boys Club members will have the apportunity of vacationing at the club's camp in Scotland, Md., this summer, it was announced yesterday.

The announcement was made by Robert C. Simmons, club president, after a meeting with Maj. Robert J. Barrett, Metropolitan Police superintendent; Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Carl F. Hanson, associate superintendent in charge of elementary schools.

Simmons explained that in the past members of the schoolboy patrol have used up the last two weeks of the Police Boys Club camping season but that recently the patrol made arrangements for other camping facilities on Fort Belvoir property.

This means, Simmons explained, that the time and space formerly used by the patrol will be available for the additional 350.

One trip to the store—One quick "bowl-mix"—Gives me two pounds of delicious Nucoa ready to use!

Yes ... "BOWL-MIX" TWO POUNDS TOGETHER AS QUICKLY AS ONE ... GET EVEN COLOR FOR ATTRACTIVE SERVINGS ...

(And no extra cost tacked on for a "squeeze bag"!)

● "It's a waste of money," thousands of women tell us, "to pay two to three cents extra for margarine in a 'squeeze bag.'"

What you really want, of course, is to buy yellow margarine at the modest price it can be made for you, right in the churn—when the law permits! Until then, the makers of Nucoa refuse to add one penny of trick-package cost to this top-quality margarine.

And money isn't the only saving! With Nucoa's easy "bowl-mix" you can save time and bother by coloring two pounds together, make it just the degree of yellow you like; mold it in balls, squares or other shapes to suit your taste.

"And it colors so much more evenly!" women say.

Rents Will Be Up In Greenbelt July 1

Rent increases in the Government-owned town of Greenbelt, Md., will go into effect by July 1, the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency announced yesterday.

The increases will range from 40 cents to $12 a month.

First Raise Since 1943

A tenants' group has opposed the action since increases averaging about 16 per cent were proposed last August. This will be the first rent raise at Greenbelt since 1943.

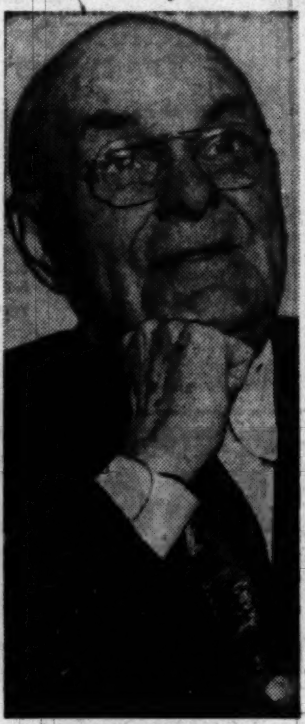
Effective dates for the increase are: May 1 for new tenants and for present tenants moving into other units; June 15 for those remaining in present quarters in the war housing addition, and July 1 for those staying in the original development.

Rates for 306 of the 892 original units will be unchanged and increases for the other 586 will range from $1 to $12 a month. Rents for all of the 1000 units in the war housing section will be raised, from 40 cents to $9 a month.

The lowest rent at Greenbelt, $32 for a one-room apartment, will remain unchanged.

50-Year 'File'

Clerk Keeps Court Record In His Mind



The Washington Post
FRANCIS WARD
Fifty years in retrospect

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

If your father or even your grandfather once had a claim against the Government in the United States Court of Claims and you want to find out how he made out, just ask Francis G. Ward.

Ward probably can tell you offhand the nature of the claim, the decision, the name of your grandfather's attorney and the number of the case in the records of the court.

For this quiet, 78-year-old gentleman with keen eyes and smile compiled about 700 of the 907 volumes of Claims Court records now in existence — and his even keener memory provides a rapid index for the Claims Court staff.

Fifty years ago today Ward left his father's construction business and went to work in the red brick building at the corner of Pennsylvania ave. and 17th st. nw., where he's still on duty. His position is clerk in charge of printed records.

"Just till fall," Chief Claims Justice Charles Cooper Knott told Ward's father, an old friend, as he persuaded him to let his son work at the court in April, 1899.

"It's been a long six months," joked Ward yesterday. Young Ward used his knowledge of construction to remodel parts of the building, which had been W. W. Corcoran's first art gallery and was first used by the Claims Court the year Ward joined the staff.

"There's no one else here now that was here when I came," said Ward, as he recalled he has served under six of the nine chief justices, and 22 of the 36 judges, who have been in office since the Court of Claims was established in 1858.

"Law? I never studied it much, didn't think I was going to stay here," he said briskly, then added, "Anyway, maybe I'll decide not to stay. Maybe I'll quit and go to Florida." His chief recreation is fishing.

As for his memory of details of bygone cases, he has this to say: "Well, I guess I'm gifted with a good one, and besides, I've been living with the damn things."

A widower, Ward makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Helen Romain Brandl, at 7071 Allentown rd. se. One son, Joseph Weldon Ward is a sergeant in the Montgomery County police, while the other, Albert A. Ward, is in the auto business here.

Churches to Hold Good Friday Rites

In Christian churches throughout the world today solemn services will commemorate the crucifixion of Christ and his suffering on the cross at Calvary.

At many churches Maunday or Holy Thursday rites were held yesterday. In Catholic churches altars were stripped of their covering and ornaments as signs of deep mourning. In many Protestant churches holy communion was celebrated.

The seven last words of Christ will be repeated at some of the Good Friday services today. In some cases the services will be held for members of several churches with ministers of each congregation participating in the rites.

This morning the mass of the presanctified will be celebrated in Catholic and some Episcopal churches. Blessing of fire, paschal candle, holy water and baptismal water will take place in these churches on Holy Saturday morning. The penitential season of Lent, the most sorrowful time in the Christian year, ends at noon Saturday.

The following three-hour Good Friday services from noon to 3 p. m. have been scheduled:

Baptist—Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw., union service for all Baptist churches in the city.

Catholic — Blessed Sacrament, Western ave. and Quesada st. nw.; Epiphany, 2712 Dumbarton ave. nw.; Holy Comforter, 14th and E. 3-Hour Services

Good Friday Leaves Here Authorized

Rev. Williams

Fr. Gedra

Many of the special arrangements for Good Friday observance were made by the Committee for the Three Hours Observance.

Formed in 1940, the committee is composed of Protestant and Catholic clergy and laymen. It was organized to obtain voluntary cooperation of business firms and the Government in permitting employes to attend three-hour services.

The District Commissioners have authorized department heads to grant annual leave wherever possible to employes who wish to attend services.

The Rev. J. L. B. Williams, minister in charge of Immanuel-on-the-Hill, Alexandria, is chairman of the committee and the Rev. Joseph E. Gedra, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, is executive secretary.

Absolute Silence Works on Nerves

Fort Monmouth, N. J., April 14 (AP).—Silence — dead, absolute silence. Have you ever wondered what it would be like?

Not the stillness of a quiet room, but no noise at all.

Take a tip from the Army Signal Corps engineers—it's no fun. They tried it and said they couldn't stand it.

The tests were made in a new "silent chamber" perfected by the Signal Corps to help reduce the noise of military equipment.

About 30 minutes of absolute silence was just about all anyone could stand. After 30 minutes the engineers became uneasy. After a few hours, the Army said, the dead silence produced "pronounced adverse psychological effects."

Signal Corps officials said the walls, floor and ceiling of the new chamber are covered with wedge-shaped hunks of fiberglass, pointing out into the room. The pieces are bound at the large ends to an electrostatic shield. The shield is grounded to remove any surplus energy. All sounds are absorbed by the fiberglass wedges and turned into heat.

Knight Seeks Council Seat In Alexandria

F. Clinton Knight, Alexandria hardware merchant, yesterday filed as an Independent candidate for Alexandria city council in the June 14 election.

Knight

With the deadline for filing set at midnight tonight, there are now three Independents, seven Democrats and two Republicans in the race for the seven council seats.

Today is also the deadline for candidates to file for June 14 mayor and council elections in the Fairfax County municipalities of Falls Church and Herndon. Notice of candidacy must be filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court.

Knight, 58, of 314 Park rd., Alexandria, was postmaster of Alexandria for 12 years. He is past department commander of the American Legion in Virginia, past commander of Alexandria Post 24, and president of the corporation, composed of Legionnaires from Post 24, which owns and operates Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria.

He also has served as president of the High School Parent-Teachers' Association, master of Andrew Jackson Masonic Lodge and president of the Alexandria Retail Merchants' Association.

3 Richmond Boys Held in Baltimore With Gems, $460

Baltimore, April 14 (AP)—Three teen-age boys from Richmond were held here today for their parents and police said they had about $5000 worth of jewelry and $460 in cash with them.

The three were located at the central YMCA last night by police. The boys told officers they left Richmond Tuesday night, spent Wednesday sightseeing in Washington, and came here by bus last night.

Police said they understood the jewelry and cash belonged to the grandmother of one of them.

4 School Officials Face Sentence Soon

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

Gloucester, Va., April 14.—The four ranking school officials of this historic county are engaged in an eleventh-hour effort to build a buffer against an imminent sentence for contempt of court.

The superintendent of schools and the three members of the school board face sentence this month for failure to heed sufficiently a Federal court order to bring Negro school facilities in Gloucester County to the level of white facilities.

The four officials, School Supt. J. Walter Kenney, Board Chairman Stanley T. Gray and board members Wallace Fletcher and Otis Hogge, are scheduled to meet with the county board of supervisors Friday night. They are to consider new suggestions for avoiding a sentence to be imposed this month by Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson of Richmond, who found the superintendent and board members in contempt last January.

School officials, startled by failure of a special referendum March 31 to provide a $300,000 bond issue for Negro school improvement, are still reflecting on the jurist's remark:

"The parties will be notified and I shall expect the respondents to be present and, if they so desire, I shall at that time afford them an opportunity to show what has been done toward effecting equalization during the interval."

"The board may still have an ace up its sleeve," Chairman Gray told a reporter, without explanation. His feeling that "we had better do something right away" was reflected in the attitude of Superintendent Kenney, who readily acknowledged his anxiety.

Kenney said he already had applied for a loan from the State literary fund, used chiefly for school construction. The school board is expected to approve it at Friday's meeting, although it has been told no funds are immediately available.

Furthermore, there are requests for some seven million dollars ahead of Gloucester County, to be considered if and when the fund is replenished. Kenney said he was advised by G. Tyler Miller, State superintendent of public instruction, to make application for the loan when they conferred recently with Governor Tuck.

Other Possible Courses

Such a move, officials believe, would serve to persuade the court they are still conscientious by seeking funds for equalizing facilities. Other courses are apt to be considered by the school board are:

1. A straight bank loan, which Kenney says could not exceed anticipated county tax revenue and could not run for more than a year before renewal.

2. A request, when the defendants are called before Judge Hutcheson, for an extension of time before sentence is pronounced, so that additional efforts can be made to satisfy his original order.

This latter course, some officials feel, would permit them to revamp the bond issue proposal to make it more palatable to the voters by including funds for the white schools.

Kenney frankly admits he urged a proposal to raise $750,000 instead of $300,000. With the larger sum, he said, the county could make improvements in white schools—with an eye toward eventual consolidation of the two high schools—while building a new Negro high school.

White School Needs Money

"I argued that the voters would sooner support Negro school improvements if there were money included for improving white schools," he said. "The white high school at Achilles needs as much improvement as the Negro Training (High) School."

Gray said he favored the smaller figure because it would not require a tax increase and would immediately satisfy the court's order. After a public hearing, the board decided to concentrate on the lesser amount for Negro school improvement only. The election was called by the Circuit Court after circulation of a petition.

"I felt certain the bond issue would be passed by the voters," Gray said. "Everyone was amazed that it didn't."

The proposal lost by a vote of 591 to 368. Abingdon district, one of three in the county, cast 495 votes, with only 91 favoring the bond issue. Abingdon is in the "lower" end of the county, along the York River where many Richmonders have spacious summer estates in the area known as Gloucester Banks. Its year-round inhabitants are mostly fishermen and oystermen. Abingdon district is the home of Achilles High School, which Kenney says is in such bad need of repairs. The other white high school, Botetourt, is near the courthouse in the village of Gloucester.

If money were available, the new Negro school would replace the present training school at Roanes. It would be a combination high and elementary school.

Schools Cited For Transfer Inspected

Board of Education members yesterday went on a conducted tour of the Webster and Adams schools which figure in transfers recommended by Schools Superintendent Hobart M. Corning.

The committee on buildings and grounds toured first the Webster School, 10th and H sts. nw., where an extensive Americanization program for non-English speaking foreigners is carried on.

The program with 517 day students and 389 at night is housed in a 12-room abandoned elementary school building.

Cites Bad Impression

Dr. Corning, declaring that the building gives a bad impression to foreigners getting their first view of American education, proposes to move the program to the Adams School, 19th and California sts. nw.

Opposition by parents of elementary school children now attending Adams has led the School Board to postpone action three times on the Corning proposal.

Only Partly Occupied

The school head pointed out to committee members during the tour that the Adams building, now only partially occupied, can be divided to provide housing for the elementary children as well as for students in the Americanization program.

Special classes in braille and sight and hearing conservation for handicapped children will be moved out of the Adams building into the Bancroft School, 18th and Newton sts. nw., and the new Tyler Elementary School, 11th and G sts. se., Dr. Corning said.

The school superintendent proposes to use the Webster building for offices for school personnel.

Prize Bull Gets X-Ray of Spine, Faces Operation

Oxford, Mich., April 14 (AP). Nine-year-old patients ordinarily don't cause so much trouble.

Certainly, they don't need special X-ray machines.

And today, the $16,300 animal had an X-ray photograph of his ailing back made on a machine ordinarily used for examining steel castings.

Later, he will be operated on by Dr. James Farquaharson of Colorado State College, and former president of the American College of Veterinarians.

Golden Boy dislocated some of his vertebrae a year ago. Recently, his hind quarters became partially paralyzed. Only a unique back operation can save him, Wilson was told.

Greek Crisis Ended; Sophoulis Group Back

Athens, Greece, April 14 (AP).—Greece's fourth cabinet crisis in two years ended today when a new government headed by aged Premier Themistocles Sophoulis sworn in before King Paul.

The cabinet was the same as the Sophoulis Cabinet which resigned two days ago except that Spyro Markezinis and two other members of his "new party" were dropped.

Man He Hit Befriends Taxi Driver

Daly

Williams

It isn't often that the milk of human kindness flows anywhere near a traffic accident.

But it did yesterday. Joseph A. Daly, 76, of 1346 Otis pl. nw., who spent 13 days in Garfield Hospital after he was knocked down by a cab driven by Louis F. Williams, 32, of 1514 Newton st. nw., "felt sorry" for Williams.

At a hearing before Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Lowther, Daly offered—and did—pay the $25 collateral which Lowther ruled Williams must post as result of the accident. Lowther said Williams had failed to yield the right of way in the accident, which occurred March 4.

Said Daly: "When Williams said how little he made at taxi driving, I advised him to get another job."

Lane Urged to Sign Antisubversive Act Promptly

Baltimore, April 14 (AP).—Governor Lane was called on today to sign at once a law that would make Maryland's Antisubversive Act effective immediately and possibly throttle a current referendum drive.

The request came from Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore.

After conferring with city law officials, the mayor pointed out no referendum on the Ober anti-Communist law would be possible if the act were put in force at once.

Pipe Sparks Fire Smoker's Pants, Then the Building

Oklahoma City, April 14 (AP).—The First Methodist Church board met to discuss church business last night.

His pants caught fire.

Other board members rushed to extinguish them, but sparks apparently caught the upholstery. The meeting hurriedly broke up without a decision. Fire did nearly $5000 damage to the office where the board had met.

New Bus Routing Is Proposed For Takoma Park, Hyattsville

A new pattern of bus service in the Hyattsville-Takoma Park area has been proposed by the Capital Transit Co.

Company officials estimate the new routes will bring service to more than 2000 families who now are at least a quarter mile away from Capital Transit lines.

The company has asked the District Public Utilities Commission and the Maryland Public Service Commission for permission to begin the new routes June 12.

The company proposes discontinuance of that part of Route K-6, the New Hampshire Avenue Suburban Line, which is within the District. In its place, K-4 Chillum service would be extended along New Hampshire ave. to the Maryland line, giving residents between Longfellow st. and the District line direct service downtown.

In Maryland, K-6 would be extended along New Hampshire ave. to Lebanon st., north of University lane, serving residents of New Hampshire Estates, and eastward along Eastern ave. via Chillum rd., LaSalle st. and Queens Chapel rd. to 25th st., then along the G-4 route to Mount Rainier terminal.

This would serve Chillum, Michigan Park and Avondale areas, would give Prince Georges County a cross-county service between New Hampshire ave. and Mount Rainier, and would connect with the K-4 and F-4 downtown lines.

A new route, E-4, the Ager rd. bus line would be set up between Lewisdale and Eastern aves. and Queens Chapel rd. via Riggs rd., Ager rd. and Queens Chapel rd. This would replace the Maryland portion of F-6, the Sargent Road-Green Meadows Bus Line, which is now in Maryland.

No hearings on the changes have been scheduled.

Czech Trade Delegation Coming to Washington

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 14 (U.P.).—A Czech trade delegation will leave for Washington Friday to carry on economic talks begun in Prague earlier this year, officials announced tonight.

Well-informed sources said the delegation, headed by Evzen Lobel, deputy minister of foreign trade, will discuss settlement of compensation claims for American property which has been nationalized.

Factors in District Safety Record Cited

Washington won top honors in the National Safety Council's traffic safety contest for 1948 because this city is very "traffic conscious," two District officials agreed yesterday.

A combination of factors contributed last year to the "traffic consciousness" here, Traffic Director George E. Kneipp and Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the Police Traffic Division, explained.

They pointed to the year-round active program of traffic education by the Commissioner's Traffic Advisory Board, to the Safety Essay Contest for children last summer, in which prizes up to $100 were awarded to 50 winners, and to the safety placards carried on the inside and outside of buses and streetcars.

Helpful were the "Pedestrian of the Week" contests, one of which was won by President Truman, the menu cards with safety slogans distributed in hotels and restaurants and the safety leaflets sent out with electric bills, they said.

Important to the city's safety program was the active program of the school safety patrol, which numbers more than 4000 members, they said. Working closely with these school children were 14 policemen, doing full-time work in safety education. In addition, all of the public and parochial schools had active safety faculty committees.

The traffic school for "repeaters" of traffic violations, which was attended by more than 3000 persons last year, and the traffic school at the District Jail, where more than 200 persons, incarcerated for traffic violations, received instruction, were contributing factors, they said.

Then there was tighter enforcement of traffic regulations by police, who recorded more than 147,000 cases last year, and outstanding work in the Municipal Court, which was awarded the American Bar Association's Traffic Court award for "outstanding progress in practice and procedure," they explained.

Washington newspapers added to the "public consciousness of traffic safety" with detailed accounts of traffic accidents and the publishing of accident pictures, while radio commentators pluggel daily for traffic safety.

Perhaps the most important factor toward selection of the District as winner was the fact that a committee of the Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board completed a two-year study and revision of the Traffic and Motor Vehicle Regulations for the District so that they would conform as closely as possible with the Model Traffic Ordinance for cities and the Uniform Vehicle Code for States, they said.

the underwriters: Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath; Alex Brown & Sons, Folger, Nolan, Inc.; Johnston, Lemon & Co., Ferris & Co., Goodwyn & Olds, Robert C. Jones & Co., Mackall & Coe, and Robinson & Lukens. Under the proposal, they will purchase any shares not subscribed for by stockholders.

Pepco estimated expenditures at $25,100,000 in 1949; $16,700,000 in 1950, $15,000,000 in 1951, and $10,000,000 in 1952.

Last month, the PUC refused Pepco permission to sell 37 million dollars of 3¼ per cent debentures to three insurance firms. The regulatory agency stated "it would not be in the public interest to permit the substitution of 3¼ per cent debentures for 2 per cent and 2¼ per cent bank loan notes . . ." Also, the PUC objected to a plan to redeem 225,000 shares of the preferred stock "at a premium of $731,250."

In its latest registration statement, Pepco asked a waiver of competitive bidding on the common stock issue, claiming that more than 40 per cent of the present outstanding shares are held in the District of Columbia and two nearby States.

"It is doubtful," the company stated, "if responsible financial institutions outside of Washington would bid without the cooperation of Washington investment dealers who are members of the group with which the applicant has been

Soldier Held As Hit-Run In Arlington

An Arlington man who claims he was a hit-and-run victim described yesterday how he jumped on the bumper of the oncoming car and ripped out its ignition wires to stop it.

After a hearing in Arlington County Court, the car driver, Army Sergt. Eugene Miller, 26, stationed at Fort Myer, was held for action of the grand jury on a hit-and-run charge. His bond was set at $500.

The complainant, Richard O. Brown, 2424 North Florida st., gave the court this account of the incident:

A neighbor flagged down Miller's car for allegedly speeding down Florida st. on Tuesday. When Miller turned the car around and returned to the spot, Brown said, a "violent" argument ensued. Brown stood in front of Miller's car to get the license number.

The sergeant gunned his motor, rolled the car forward, and struck him on the legs, causing cuts and bruises. Brown said he jumped on the car's bumper to avoid being run over and, as the car accelerated to "15 or 20 miles an hour," opened the hood of the 1937-model car and ripped out the ignition wires. The car stopped.

When Miller brandished a "2-foot length of metal pipe" at him, Brown said he turned and fled. Miller then drove off.

On the stand Sergeant Miller denied he was speeding, declared Brown walked in front of his car just as he was about to drive off and said he had no intention of hitting him.

Milk Price Support Step Taken by U. S.

By The Associated Press

The Government moved yesterday to take more milk off the market to support declining producer prices.

It offered, through the Agriculture Department, to buy nonfat dried milk at prices designed to help assure dairymen returns guaranteed them by price support laws.

It started buying butter for the same purpose several weeks ago, and already has purchased 500,000 pounds.

Yesterday's action was taken as the department started work on a tentative program for purchase of pork to support prices of hogs. However, no pork will be bought, officials said, unless currently declining hog prices drop to the guaranteed support level.

Other products being bought this year to support farm prices as required by law include potatoes, eggs, dried fruits, soya beans, flaxseed and grains.

Recent declines in milk prices reflect in part the fact that supplies are showing the usual spring and summer increase.

There also is evidence, officials said, of some dropping off in consumer demand for fluid milk because of a tendency for retail prices to remain relatively high.

The decision to buy dried milk to help support dairymen's prices came a week after Secretary of Agriculture Brannan had asked Congress for authority to use a new method for assuring dairymen and hog producers their promised returns this year.

9 Ambulance Drivers Given Safety Awards

Safe driving award certificates were presented to nine Health Department ambulance drivers in Health Department ceremonies yesterday.

The awards were presented by Dr. George C. Ruhland, District health officer.

The awards are made annually by the National Safety Council to registered District drivers who have completed the preceding year without accidents chargeable to the driver and who have complied with driving regulations for that period.

Those who received awards were: Francis J. Estep, Sterling Jones, Theolia McDonald and John Mitchell.

Estep received his award for six consecutive years of eligibility; Roberts received his award for six consecutive years of eligibility; Roberts for four years; Smith, Butler and Dews for three years; Laster for two years and the others for a year.

Today 515 drivers of District Government vehicles who have driven from 1 to 12 years without a chargeable accident will receive certificates and badges in the various departments.

Those slated to get 12-year awards are:

Radioactive Gold Fails Girl With Cancer of Brain

Oak Ridge, Tenn., April 14 (AP).—The isotope division of the Atomic Energy Commission said today radioactive gold has no "applicability" in the treatment of brain cancer.

Jack Davis, London and New York theater owner, appealed to the AEC for radioactive gold to treat his 24-year-old daughter, Iris, who is suffering from the disease in London.

The AEC sent some radioactive phosphorous to London last fall for treatment of Miss Davis, but her father said it had "not proved fruitful."

Crain Highway

Bids Asked On Road Jobs In Maryland

Baltimore, April 14 (AP).—The State Roads Commission today asked bids on the resurfacing and widening of two stretches on U. S. 301 in Anne Arundel and Prince Georges Counties.

The road, known as Crain hwy., is one of the principal routes for through traffic between Eastern cities and the South.

One project is an 8-mile stretch from Severn Run, a few miles southwest of Glen Burnie, to the intersection of 301 and U. S. 50, about midway between Washington and Annapolis.

The other is a 6.5-mile stretch starting about 4 miles south of Marlboro and running south to the intersection with State route 5 at TB.

DP Aide Quits, Hits Scheme's Inefficiency

Baltimore, April 14 (AP).—John H. Royer, jr., of Howard County, has resigned from the committee sponsoring the program for resettling displaced Europeans on Maryland farms.

Royer said the program has been misrepresented and not properly administered. His resignation was addressed to Governor Lane, who helped start the program.

An official of the international committe said most of the trouble experienced by Maryland sponsors comes from the cumbersome machinery in Europe for administering the program at that end.

Royer's letter of resignation said:

"In my opinion, this program was misrepresented, has not been properly administered and has caused hardships, perplexity and uncertainty to the farmers sponsoring the displaced persons.

"The D.P.'s have not been selected in accordance with application requirements; they have not been placed in accordance with seniority of applicants; there is no information as to arrival dates although farmers have been waiting for months; and there is no uniform wage scale or no definite method of handling complaints or definite policy of any kind."

Royer's resignation is the first withdrawal from a county D.P. committee, the Governor's office said. There are more than 140 Marylanders serving on the committees.

Carroll County Agent Landon C. Burns said several farmers who have applied for D.P. labor have purposely withheld from hiring available farm hands.

More than 200 displaced families have been resettled on Maryland farms to date.

Snow Moves Eastward

Omaha, April 14 (AP).—An April snow and sleet storm moved eastward out of Nebraska late today after cutting telephone lines to 90 towns and snarling traffic in the east and central parts of the State.

Upper Marlboro Election Tuesday

A special election will be held Tuesday in Upper Marlboro to elect a town commissioner to succeed the late William T. Davis, who died March 28.

According to Charles L. Wood, acting president, no candidates have yet announced themselves for the post, which will expire next January. Voting will be conducted on a write-in basis, he said.

The election will be held from 3 to 6 p. m. Tuesday in the Upper Marlboro firehouse.

Ex-King Urges Italy To Restore Monarchy

Rome, April 14 (NYHT)—Former King Humbert, speaking from his exile in Portugal, appealed to the Italian people today to restore the monarchy as the best guarantees of "unity and independence." The 3-year-old republic had failed to eliminate social and political conflict, he said.

2 Arraigned Here On Gaming Charges

Two persons arrested on gambling charges and two on counts of selling untaxed whisky were held for grand jury action yesterday in hearing before United States Commissioner Cyril B. Lawrence.

In another action, Joseph Benjamin Walling, 55, former manager of the Trojan Club, 1714 Massachusetts ave. nw., yesterday waived a removal hearing before Lawrence. Walling agreed to return to Trenton, N. J., where he is under indictment for embezzlement and sale of Government property. Bond was set at $1000.

The disposition of the other cases follow:

Edward A. Vincek, 39, alias Eddie Woolridge, was held for the grand jury in $1500 bond on charges of setting up a gaming table at 1604 Q st. nw.

Miss Viola Ethel Woolridge, 37, same address, charged with operating a lottery, was held under $1000 bond. They were both arrested in a police raid Monday at the Q st. address.

Bond was set at $500 pending grand jury action for Mary E. Medley, 31, and Jeremiah T. Washington, 39, both of 2650 Sheridan rd. se. They were arrested Friday and charged with concealing and selling untaxed whisky.

Fay Rebuffed In Phone Case

move Miller's phone on such grounds.

But the future of Miller's telephone was still in doubt.

The Maryland law enforcement authority with power to request removal of Prince Georges County telephones, States Attorney A. Gwinn Bowie, refused to comment on the Miller case yesterday.

Bowie said he expected to have further contacts with Fay on "several aspects" of the gambling investigation.

'It is entirely possible I might take some action concerning telephones generally," he said, "but I cannot say what that action will be now.'

Edmund L. Jones, attorney for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., said his company had the authority to discontinue service to any subscriber, provided that service was being used "for an unlawful purpose."

He said he had heard evidence in court that indicated Miller was using his telephone for an unlawful purpose.

But Jones would not say whether Miller's telephone would be removed.

Two-Day Hearing

During the two-day hearing on the motion for an injunction, Assistant United States Attorney Ross O'Donoghue maintained that it was not necessary to prove violation of District gambling statutes to remove the telephone.

"This man prays for relief with unclean hands," O'Donoghue said. "A man has no standing in a court of equity with unclean hands."

Jones maintained that if a person refuses (as Miller did) to answer pertinent questions, he forfeits all rights to relief in a court of equity.

Constitutional Privilege

Judge Pine ruled that a man could not be denied relief for taking refuge behind his constitutional privilege of refusing to answer on the grounds of self-incrimination.

Pine questioned O'Donoghue and Jones again and again during their summation.

At one point, he said "Any injunction I sign would be to prevent the telephone company from removing this telephone solel; on the grounds that it violated District laws, not enjoining them from removing it on other grounds."

Trial Set for May 16

The following accused gamblers will be tried on May 16, on charges of conspiracy and violating the District lottery law:

William "Snags" Lewis, 4335 Blagden ave. nw.; John R. Mitchell, 3110 10th st. ne.; Fulton J. Mitchell, 517 10th st. ne.; George P. Scott, 1031 E st. se.; Fred Sutton, 1210 6th st. new.; Lonnies Black, 637 L st. se.; Anis Wycke, 122 F st. nw.; Ralph Spottswood, 318 N. Henry st., Alexandria, Va.; Edward L. Hinkle, jr., 811 Presidential Gardens, Alexandria; Gregory Seger, 2801 22d st. se.; Sterling D. Welch, 4611 Verplank pl. nw.; Dean Kennedy, 2100 Queens Chapel rd., Avondale, Md.; Bernard J. DelNegro, 2428 Tunlaw rd. nw., and Ellis Solet, 2805 Lee blvd., Arlington, Va.

All free under $1500 bond, they were arrested March 25, when United States marshals raided Lewis' headquarters at 4310 46th ave., Bladensburg, Md.

Others Face Trial June 6

The following men will be tried June 6 on two counts of conspiracy and two counts of violating the District laws prohibiting gaming and bookmaking:

Garner S. Barbour, Quinn, his brother William, of 1018 South Carolina ave. se.; Thomas B. White. 1104 N. Quincy st., Arlington, Va.; Murray H. Olf, 3701 Bladensburg rd., Colmar Manor, Md.; William S. Doyle, 1956 Biltmore st. nw.; Sidney Frisher, 2225 N st. nw.; William Cohen, 1667 Good Hope rd. se., and Lee Thomas Lewis, 3612 39th ave., Colmar Manor.

Attilio Acalotti, 908 14th st., nw., will be tried on June 6 on charges of obstructing justice in threatening a Government witness, for two counts of setting up a gaming table for the purpose of betting on horse races, and for violating the District lottery law.

Lewis will be tried on June 6 for promoting a lottery.

Trial of Nicholas Floratos, 1029 9th st. nw., was set for May 9. Trial of Walter Mason, 760 Newton pl. nw., and Simon Best, 1444 W st. nw., was scheduled for June 6. All have been indicted on charges of promoting a numbers lottery.

Samakow to Be Tried

Philip Samakow, 1360 Peabody st. nw., will be tried on June 6 for setting up a gaming table for the purpose of betting on horse races.

Umberto "Chi-Chi" D'Ambrosio, 1227 New York ave., nw., will be tried on the same day on the same charge.

Frederick Whiteoak, 1504 Oates st., ne., and Ralph Caparotti, alias "Rags" Costello, 1124 Oates st., ne., will be tried with Acalotti for setting up a gaming table also on June 6.

Arraignments of Louis Lieberman, 1704 7th st., nw., and Henry Fish, 1007 K st., nw., were continued until April 25. Both have been indicted on charges of setting up gaming tables.

Harry S. Kopel, co-owner of Hammell's restaurant, will be tried on June 2, on charges of maintaining a place for the purpose of gambling, accepting a horse race bet, and possession of numbers slips. At the same time, Walter C. Plummer, a waiter in Hammell's, will be tried on charges of maintaining and accepting.

Frank Billeci of 509 Margaret dr., Silver Spring, Md., will be tried June 6 on charges of promoting a numbers lottery.

Paternity Case Ruling Upheld

The Municipal Court of Appeals yesterday upheld a District Juvenile Court ruling that Guy H. Fuller, 19, is the father of a child born to a 17-year-old Arlington, Va., girl last summer.

Fuller, an interior decoration student of 66 New York ave., nw., had appealed his case primarily on the ground that the Juvenile Court should have dismissed it because the complainant was not a resident of the District.

The appeals court ruled that the Juvenile Court had jurisdiction over the case since the child was born in a Washington hospital.

Judge Fay L. Bentley of Juvenile Court ordered Fuller last October to make weekly payments toward support of the child, after declaring him father of the illegitimate child.

Last May an Arlington County Circuit Court jury convicted Fuller of seducing Miss Shirley Jackson of 2829 N. 15th st., Arlington, and sentenced him to serve two years in prison. He is on bond pending appeals. The Virginia seduction proceeding is now before the Supreme Court of the State.

FBI Aids Five-State Search For W. Va. Robber-Kidnapers

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

POLICEMEN SEIZED—Lieut. Allen Rossell (left) and Patrolman James Herman, both of Weirton, W. Va., show "wrist burns" from handcuffs. Suspected West Virginia bank robbers shackled them to a tree near East Liverpool, Ohio

The FBI and police of five States yesterday were hunting three armed men who apparently are desperadoes in the best traditions of the 1930s.

Associated Press and United Press reports, strongly reminiscent of the days of John Dillinger and "Baby Face" Nelson, said the men were sought in connection with a bank robbery at Follansbee, W. Va., and the kidnaping of two policemen at Weirton, W. Va.

The policemen, looking for suspects in the bank robbery, were kidnaped in Weirton and driven to Hanoverton, Ohio, where their captors handcuffed them to cherry trees.

After their rescue, the Weirton policemen, Lieut. Allen Rossell and Patrolman James Herman, said the men's description coincided with those of the trio who held up the Bank of Follansbee at noon Wednesday and made off with about $5400.

During the wild ride into Ohio, they said, one of the men apparently lost his nerve and was permitted to leave the party.

Rossell, who was cruising with Herman in a police car on the lookout for the three bank robbers, gave this account of the kidnaping:

"About 1:15 a. m. we started up the Pittsburgh hill (on the road toward Pittsburgh). We noticed a black sedan parked there. There was a blue sedan nearby, headed down the hill.

"There was one man out at the side of the road. We stopped, and I went back and asked what the trouble was.

"He said, 'No trouble.' I asked him for his owner's card. He said he didn't have it. He said it was his father's car. He pulled out an operator's card."

(Rossell explained that he decided to take the man to the Weirton police station for further investigation.)

"I told him to get in the car. I got in with him and told him to go to the police station. As I got in the car, I noticed there were two other men in the back seat."

Rossell and his captives started for the police station with Herman following in the police car. Rossell said the men in the car answered to the names of "Leroy," "Red," and "Tony."

They stopped in front of the police station. Herman started inside, behind "Tony" and "Leroy." Rossell began to search the sedan. He added:

"The next thing I knew, I heard the fellow ("Red") holler, 'Hey!' He was standing with a gun on me. I looked right down the barrel. It was a pistol. I made a grab for the gun, but I missed the fellow by an inch. He stepped back and said, 'You ——, you are lucky I didn't put a slug in you.'"

Herman said when he got inside "Tony" pulled out a gun and said, "Don't move or I'll blow your brains out."

The officers said they were then ordered into the car and taken to the outskirts of Hanoverton, where they were handcuffed to the trees.

On the way, Rossell said, "Leroy" seemed to get nervous. Tony told him "You aren't in this too deep yet. You'd better get out, gt a bus and go home to mother." Rossell said the car stopped and Leroy got out.

The officers were discovered at about 7 a. m. by George Betz, 43, and his two sons, Leroy, 18, and Allen, 17. They live on a farm near the spot where the policemen were tied. Betz had to saw down the trees to free the policemen.

After the police officers reported that two of the men had mentioned going on to Chicago, a general alarm for the kidnapers was flashed and police in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois began looking for the men.

Meanwhile, in Pittsburgh, the FBI announced it was seeking Clyde Milton Johnson, 30, of Glendale, Calif. for questioning in connection with the Follansbee bank robbery.

Johnson escaped March 1 from the Miami, Fla., jail after he had been picked up and charged with the robbery of a Memphis bank last February.

At Greensburg, Pa., State police were questioning an 18-year-old Steubenville youth arrested early yesterday in a car reported stolen from Steubenville. His first name is Leroy.

Troopers said, however, there is no known link between the youth and the bank robbers.

Britain Picks 12 to Study Betting Laws

London, April 14 (AP).—The British government today selected a dozen persons—housewives, athletes and professional men—to investigate government - regulated gambling in Britain and say whether betting laws should be changed.

H. U. Willink, former Minister of Health and master of Magdalene College at Cambridge University, will held the royal commission.

Pressure from churches and the growth of football pools preceded the government's decision to investigate.

A committee sponsored by British churches reported last month that Britons wagered 650 million pounds ($2,600,000,000) in 1948, chiefly on horse and dog races and football pools.

This was a decline of 141 million pounds (564 million dollars) from the total reported for 1947. The committee said it attributed the decline to reduced incomes and new taxes.

Conservatives In Party Hit By Humphrey

Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) last night lashed out at the conservative "stand-pat" group in the Democratic Party and suggested a change in party affiliations.

"There's a group elected on the Democratic ticket just because they live in a Democratic district or have a Democratic clientele," he told members of the Woman's National Democratic Club and their guests in a dinner speech at the club's headquarters, 1526 New Hampshire ave. nw.

"I am referring to those politically indifferent to the good of the people or the 'do-nothingness' group who want to keep the party 'standpat' or conservative."

Suggests They Should Leave

Senator Humphrey implied that members of the Democratic Party out of step with Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal and President Truman's Fair Deal Program are lagging behind the fundamental thinking of the Democratic Party and should get out.

"A new group is knocking at our door—it's the ranks of organized labor," he declared. "Either the party opens its arms to organized labor or the Democratic Party, as a party, will pass out of existence."

Humphrey accused the greater portion of the American press and radio commentators of distorting the news. He said there were a few exceptions.

Types of Republicans

Referring to the alleged split in the Republican Party, Humphrey expressed the belief that the GOP has three splits. He listed them as old isolationists, reasonable type of enlightened GOP thinking as symbolized by Senator Taft (R., Ohio), and the liberal group represented by Senators Tobey (R., N. H.) and Aiken and Morse (R., Oreg.).

The latter group, he explained "really are our colleagues and would be at home with us."

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, club president, introduced the speaker.

Hudson Slashes Prices on Cars, $15 to $100

Detroit, April 14 (AP). — Hudson Motor Car Company today became the seventh automotive concern to cut its prices in the last two months. Reductions of $15 to $100 on various Hudson models go into effect at midnight tonight.

General Motors, Ford, Kaiser, Frazer, Nash, Willys-Overland and Austin Motor Car Co., Ltd., were the other concerns to slash their prices in recent weeks.

A. E. Barit, president and general manager of Hudson, said in announcing the price cuts, that his firm's sales in the first quarter of 1949 "set a 20-year high and we are happy to bring the public the benefit of price reductions."

Austins Cut $70 to $200

New York, April 14 (U.P.).—The Austin Motor Co., Ltd., today announced price reductions on all models, ranging from $70 to $200, effective tomorrow.

Test For Girl

Pandering Case Bond Set at $5000

Leo Francis Ryan, 33, of 1818 13th st. nw., yesterday was placed under $5000 bond on charge of pandering involving a 16-year-old girl.

Judge Aubrey B. Fennell continued the Municipal Court hearing of the case after the girl became unable to testify on the witness stand.

Judge Fennell directed that the girl be examined by a psychiatrist before resuming the case.

He explained the high bond by telling the court that "hypothetically, such an offense might be responsible for the girl's mental state."

According to police, Ryan is manager of a Little Tavern restaurant at 1110 H st. nw.

3 Arraigned In Arlington Store Thefts

Three men accused of breaking into four stores and stealing nearly $15,000 in a month were held for action of the Arlington grand jury yesterday.

The men were picked up in Baltimore last Sunday as they registered at a hotel. Baltimore police found more than $8000 in bags they were carrying.

District police earlier had received a tip on the identity of the suspects, who ducked a Washington dragnet and escaped from the city.

During the hearing in Arlington County Court yesterday, County Detective John Wise testified that the three had admitted breaking into all four Arlington business places.

Charged with breaking and entering are Theodore F. Mozee, 18, of 927 27th st. nw.; Clifton Davis, 18, of 2414 G st. nw., and Albert E. Walker, 23, of 2212 G st. nw. Bond was set at $10,000.

Police say they broke into the Arrow Foods market at 4506 Lee hwy. on March 12 and stole $1100 from a cash register and took $718 from Dewey's Hardware Store at 4756 Lee hwy. March 25.

The three also are charged with breaking into the Leland Market, 4750 Lee hwy., April 12 and taking $100 from its safe, and with a $13,000 safe theft at the Virginia Hardware Co., 2016 N. Moore st., six days later.

Owners of the Virginia Hardware store orgiinally had reported the loss at $5500. They later changed the estimate to $13,000, Wise said.

Woman Pleads Not Guilty in Knife Slaying

Mrs. Dorothy Redden, 19, of 7019 F st., Carmody Hills, Md., charged with murder in the knife-slaying of a 33-year-old man April 3, yesterday pleaded not guilty when arraigned in Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Redden was araigned before Judge John B. Gray, jr., together with more than 50 other persons, all of whom were indicted by the county grand jury.

Following arraignment, bond was fixed for Mrs. Redden at $1500 pending trial, date for which was not set. Unable to make the bond, she was returned to the county jail at Upper Marlboro.

The murder charge stems from the knife death of Ellsworth E. Turner, also of the Carmody Hills address, which followed a quarrel involving drinking, police said. Witnesses reported Mrs. Redden stabbed Turner in the chest with a 7-inch butcher knife, according to police, and then stabbed herself in the left breast.

Martin Firm Sued

Cleveland, April 14 (AP).—Northwest Airlines, Inc., of St. Paul, charged in a Federal Court suit today that the Glenn L. Martin Co. delivered five defective planes and that one of these crashed—killing 36 persons.

Northwest brought suit for $725,000 against the Martin Co. in United States District Court, asking $450,000 for the lost plane and its equipment; $250,000 for the loss of services of the four other planes, and $25,000 in workmen's compensation for which Northwest Airlines became liable.

The petition said the plane crash involved occurred last August 29 not far from Winona, Minn., and that 33 passengers and 3 crew members were killed. The airlines' petition said the left wing "tore off in flight."

A spokesman for the Glenn L. Martin Co. said in Baltimore tonight the firm would make no statement until full details were available.

British Seek Soviet Pact

London, April 14 (U.P.).—British and Russian representatives have started preliminary negotiations for a one-year trade agreement, A. G. Bottomley, Secretary for Overseas Trade, told Commons today.

2 Strikers Injured At Atlantic City

Atlantic City, N. J., April 14 (AP). A picket captain was stabbed and striker was cut on the hand today in the first violence since the strike of service workers at nine Boardwalk hotels began a week ago.

William C. Kirtsos, 50, captain of pickets outside the Brighton Hotel, was stabbed on the head, wrist and hand. He was admitted to Atlantic City Hospital where several stitches were taken. Police seized Theodore Curtis, 54, described as a union member who went back to work yesterday.

Peter Winn, 20, a striker on picket duty outside the Traymore Hotel, reported he was attacked by one of two youths carrying broken bottles wrapped in towels.

Police identified the youths as Ernest McNair, 16, and Jerry King, 18. They said McNair struck Winn. King was held for carrying concealed weapons. Police said the boys were to have taken jobs at a struck hotel yesterday.

Some 300 singing pickets marched around five of the hotels, prompting the hotels to seek an injunction against mass picketing.

Beer Enters New York From New Jersey

New York, April 14 (U.P.).—Beer flowed into New York's barrooms today as New Jersey brewers sent fleets of trucks rolling through the Holland and Lincoln Tunnels for the first time since a strike halted deliveries.

With the approval of the striking unions, the trucks carried the first draught beer that has moved into the city since 6200 members of the United Brewery Workers (CIO) went on strike 14 days ago against 13 breweries here.

The breweries resuming deliveries today were Ballantine, Krueger, Trommer's, Pabst, Tru-Blu and Stegemeyer. The New Jersey supplies were augmented by some shipments from Pennsylvania, Washington, D. C., and up-State New York.

Modified Labor Bill Offered

tion forces. There's a strong feeling of optimism among the backers of the Lesinski bill. Secretary of Labor Tobin stated on Wednesday that a Labor Department poll of the House indicated free sailing for the Lesinski bill, "substantially without change."

Among the original provisions of the Wood bill dropped out of the new model are the following:

1. Cancellation of collective bargaining rights for workers in the food processing industry.

2. Liability of unions for back pay in discriminatory discharges caused by the unions.

3. An additional unfair labor practice for unions—forcing or requiring any employer to violate a provision of the labor act or any other law of the United States.

4. Certain limitations on the right to strike.

The new version contains, among others, the following additions:

1. Elimination of the Taft-Hartley requirement that a referendum must be held to authorize the negotiation of any contract requiring a union shop or maintenance of membership.

2. Revision of the present restrictions on the enforcement of compulsory union membership contracts, by exempting employers and labor unions from liability for unfair labor practices where an employe's expulsion from the union is based on membership in the Communist Party or some other subversive group or is based on the employe's encouragement or participation in a wildcat strike in breach of contract.

3. A modification of the Taft-Hartley provision relating to the secondary boycott which would recognize the validity of struck work clauses in their application to members of the same local labor organization in strikes called by the lawful bargaining representative for economic objectives.

4. Injunctions for unfair labor practices, now mandatory against unions, would be made discretionary.

5. Employes on strike—now unable to vote in a union representation election—may vote if the strike is in protest against an employer's unfair labor practice; or if the strike is of an economic nature but the replacement for the striker has failed to be on the job for 90 days.

6. The closed shop is banned, as it is under the Taft-Hartley Act, but the employer is given the privilege of notifying the union of employment opportunities at his plant. This provision, it is understood, would permit the construction, shipping, printing, and longshore industries to get around the ban on the closed shop.

Meanwhile, a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats yesterday introduced a bill to set up a flexible minimum wage, pegged at 65 cents an hour beginning with 1949 and thereafter tied to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index. This move was taken in opposition to the Fair Deal's 75-cents-an-hour minimum, already approved by the House Labor Committee. The current minimum wage is 40 cents an hour.

Spokesmen for the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange yesterday told the Senate Labor Committee, holding hearings on the minimum wage legislation, that they favored linking the minimum wage to living costs.

To Local Level

Jurisdiction Is Extended By NLRB

The National Labor Relations Board ruled yesterday that under the Taft-Hartley law its jurisdiction over labor relations extends well into the community level.

The board decided, 3-2, that the building of a single house was involved in commerce, and therefore under its jurisdiction.

The ruling also held that the Electrical Workers Union had conducted an illegal secondary boycott against an electrical subcontractor doing a $325 wiring job on a $15,200 house.

The incident took place at Greenwich, Conn., where the Giorgi Construction Co. was building a house. Local 501 of the AFL Electrical Workers picketed the house to compel the Giorgi company to stop doing business with a nonunion electrical subcontractor, Samuel Langer of Port Chester, N. Y.

The dissenting opinion of board members John M. Houston and Abe Murdock stated:

"We believe the operations involved in this case constitute an essentially local enterprise with only the most remote effect upon commerce. Consequently we do not desire to exercise our discretion to assert jurisdiction."

Two members of the majority, James J. Reynolds, jr., and J. Copeland Gray, declared that the board had full power to act in this case, and that it should exercise the power for reasons stated in the Watson case.

In that case the board held last year that "especially where secondary boycotts were concerned, Congress intended the board to exercise its plenary power to protect small and relatively local enterprises against the impact of union boycotts aimed at the installation of materials furnished by primary movers, the interstate character of whose business is clear.

Chairman Paul M. Herzog, voting with the majority, said he would exercise jurisdiction in this case "because the very controversy before the board arose out of an interstate transaction in which New York contractors were engaged in the construction of a residence in the State of Connecticut."

Colton Elected Head of Bank Of Washington

By S. Oliver Goodman

Barnum L. Colton was elected president of the National Bank of Washington at a special meeting yesterday of the board of directors. He succeeds J. Frank White who was elevated to board chairman.

In addition, Colton was elected to the bank's directorate as was James M. Johnston of the investment banking firm of Johnston, Lemon & Co.

The changes followed the recent announcement that stock control of the Bank of Washington had been acquired by an unidentified client of the Johnston firm. The bank, located at 7th and C sts. nw. with a branch on Maine ave., is the oldest in the city and dates back to 1809.

Colton, the new president, formerly was a vice president and director of the National Savings & Trust Co.

A native of Washington, he is a veteran in the banking field and had been associated with National Savings & Trust since 1933. He lives with his wife and two children at 111 Oxford st., Chevy Chase, Md.

He is a member of the District of Columbia Bar, on the board of the Central Dispensary & Emergency Hospital, and secretary and trustee of the Washington City Orphans' Asylum. He is the secretary and a director of the Chevy Chase Club and a member of the Metropolitan Club.

Colton

White

White, the new board chairman, has served as president of the Bank of Washington since 1936. In June he will mark his 64th year with the institution, having entered its service in 1885 as a clerk at the age of 18. He has served in many official capacities, from assistant cashier in 1920 to vice president in 1933. Under his leadership in the past 13 years, the bank has shown steady growth.

A native of this city, White entered the banking business after graduating from Gonzaga College. He is a member of the District of Columbia Bankers Association and at one time was active in its committee work. He lives at 2101 Connecticut ave.

HOLLIDAY: New York security markets and the Washington Stock Exchange will suspend operations today in observance of Good Friday, but will reopen Saturday for the short session. Banks and building-and-loan associations will be open today as usual.

ODD LOTS: Washington Loan & Trust Co. voted regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent a share, payable May 2 to stock of record April 21 . . . Refined copper was offered yesterday at 21½ cents a pound, a drop of 1¾ per cent from the smelter price prevailing since March 29 . . . Auto production this week is estimated at 126,202 units, another postwar high . . . Pan American World Airways' new double-decked Clipper America will start service today between New York and Bermuda . . . Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has placed in service 40 new passenger cars and has 30 more scheduled for early delivery . . . Juice-O-Matic, Inc., of Bethesda, Md., has been named Washington area distributor for Telecoin Corp. of New York . . . Humble Oil & Refining Co. plans to spend 155 million dollars on capital investments this year . . . Shell Development Co. has come out with a new rust-proof paper container.

NET DECLINES: First quarter earnings of The City Bank are "holding up better than was anticipated" although considerably less than in the same 1948 period, President Clarence F. Burton reported to stockholders at the annual meeting. He blamed rising costs. All directors were reelected.

ORDERS: Washington department stores had 23 per cent less outstanding orders on February 28 than on the same 1948 date, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond noted last night. At the same time inventories of merchandise were 7 per cent down. Sales of the six reporting stores were up 5 per cent for the first two months this year, compared with the like period last year. Collections on charge accounts were 44 per cent of those due on February 1, a slightly better average than the 42 per cent for the Fifth Federal Reserve District.

EARNINGS: Admiral Corp., radio and television, reported first quarter net income of $1,536,217 or $1.54 a common share, compared with $530,410 or 53 cents a share in same 1948 period. Other earnings reports:

Two Holidays Slow Trading; Trend Hazy

New York, April 14 (AP).—Two religious holidays combined to clamp down interest in the stock market today.

Prices for the most part showed only fractional changes and trading was skimpy at best. Losses outweighed gains but there was no decisive trend.

Many brokers and their customers took the day off in observance of the start of the Passover holiday and others decided on a long weekend in view of the fact that the exchange will be closed tomorrow for Good Friday. The exchange, though, is scheduled to operate as usual on Saturday.

Volume amounted to 800,000 shares, in contrast with 910,000 Wednesday but, at that, was above the week's low of 720,000 on Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped one tenth of 1 point to 63.8, lowest for a week.

The industrial and rail components slipped but the utility section advanced to a new high for the year.

Utility stocks have improved consistently in recent weeks, partly on the theory that such companies would be less affected than many industrial or commercial concerns by a business recession.

A handful of issues attracted special attention. Liggett & Myers, among the most active stocks traded on Tuesday and Wednesday, again captured market interest. The price declined a full point to 73⅜. The stock dropped sharply Tuesday on word that the company planned to offer additional shares to stockholders but recouped more than the loss yesterday.

Montgomery Ward, the company without a vice president (or even a president), rallied after dropping nearly 2 points yesterday. The final price was up ½ at 53¼. Monty Ward's personnel problems, which revolve around Chairman Sewell Avery, have excited national attention.

Contest for Consumer Dollar Quickens as Landlord Enters

By J. A. Livingston

SOME guys, like Sammy in "What Makes Sammy Run?" go for shoes. Some, like Joe Louis when he first became world's heavyweight champion, go for suits. And some guys, like me, are suckers for shirts and ties. As for my wife—well, we'd better not go into that. Anyway, the old battle's on—window resisting.

The shops are full of dresses, fancy white-on-white shirts, the latest brogans from Britain, "big" 52-inch television sets (why does no one ever advertise a "small" 52 inches—it'd still be the same size?), alluring watches and gleaming refrigerators, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and toasters.

Livingston

All the temptations are back—in prewar plenitude. As the windows beckon with enticement, you stand outside, gripping your wallet or purse. You know that if you go in the store the merchant will have won half the battle. He'll have got you in the store. Oops. Look out!

Too bad. There went your budget!

ALL THIS TALK about a buyers' market! As if it made you master of your dollar. Nix on such fiction. Why, during the war, you and I actually saved money. We couldn't buy a refrigerator, a washing machine, a toaster or an automobile. And meat was rationed. True, shoe and clothing stores, department stores, grocers and jewelers had things pretty much their own way. And eating and drinking places rolled in our dough. We spent when we could on what was available.

Even so, we managed to latch on to about 30 billion dollars in 1943 and 34 billions in 1944. Or about 1 out of every 4½ dollars we had to dispose of. Why, back in that so-called heyday year of '29 we only saved four billions, or 1 dollar out of every 22 we took in.

The 1947 production of refrigerators, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, toasters and other peacetime goods put an end to our mastery over our own money. Only nine billions were saved out of total disposable income of 174 billion dollars—$1 out of 20, or about the '29 pattern. Last year, we did a little better—in sales resisting. We saved $1 out of every 13.

BUT THE GOING gets tougher. You can see it in the retail statistics. We're getting back into prewar spending habits, note, in the following table, how the automobile has regained its prewar level, note how building has come up too. Note, on the other hand, that drug and jewelry stores and eating places (which prospered during wartime, because people had money to spend and autos, toasters, etc., were out of the race for the consumer dollar) are now back near their prewar percentages. Note also the consistency in the percentage the food store takes:

Type of Store	% of Total 1935-39	Retail 1944	Sales Today
Food	24.2%	26.6%	25.4%
Eating & Drinking	7.8	13.5	9.9
Filling Sta.	6.5	3.7	4.9
Drug	3.7	4.0	3.1
Gen'l Mdse.	16.2	15.7	12.3
Bldg. Mat. & Hdwre.	6.3	5.3	7.6
Home Furn.	4.1	3.5	4.9
Automotive	13.3	4.8	14.8
Jewelry	0.8	1.4	0.9
Apparel	8.0	9.9	7.3
All Other	9.1	11.6	8.9

Today durable goods merchants snag 28.2% of all consumer dollars spent at retail as against 24.5% prewar. That's partly because there's still a lot of make-up buying being done. But it's partly because rent control helped retailers by cutting down the proportion of disposable income which customarily has gone to landlords. That leaves something extra for items like radios, washers, etc.

BUT NOW, slowly and inexorably rents are going up. That will work a countersqueeze on the amount of money that can go to the retailer. The consumer won't have so much for food, clothing, and the extra things in life. And he who gets the dollar first will have it. Therefore, courtship of the consumer dollar—the allurements offered—will be all the more intensive and magnificent.

So, consumers will have to be on their mettle—to save. More goods and better qualities and varieties are for sale than ever before. And each merchant is as true to his creed as always: An American and a buck are destined to be parted. So, he reasons, "Why not now? And by me."

W. Va. Pottery Firm Asks Reorganization

Fairmont, W. Va., April 14 (AP). The Mannington Pottery Co., one of the world's largest producers of vitreous china and sanitary ware, asked Federal Court approval today of a reorganization plan.

Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins scheduled a hearing on request that three trustees be named to take over operation of the business until it can be reorganized financially.

Donald P. Lallamont, president and principal stockholder, told the court the company was not insolvent. But he said it had insufficient funds to meet maturing obligations and to maintain a reserve of working capital.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, April 14 (AP).—The May wheat contract jumped more than 3 cents to its best price since last January on the Board of Trade today. A little mill buying and heavy short-covering sparked the advance, which was the sharpest any grain future has had in one day for several weeks.

Action on the May wheat contract had a stabilizing influence on the rest of the market, although gains elsewhere were not very large. Soybeans and lard showed late strength, helped by trade reports the United Kingdom was buying cash lard. The loose lard price advanced to $10 a hundred pounds bid.

Wheat closed ⅜@3⅜ higher, corn was ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, oats were ⅛@⅞ higher, rye was 1 to 1⅛ higher, soybeans were 2¼@2½ higher and lard was 5 to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher.

In large measure action of May wheat was based on fears not much free wheat would be available for delivery on these futures when May rolls around, traders said. Much of the Nation's wheat will be tied up in the Government loan or will have been bought by the Government for export, they said.

Colgate Soap Prices Cut Another 6 Pct.

New York, April 14 (AP)—Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., today announced an immediate reduction of six per cent in the wholesale price of soap products for household use.

Similar reductions were made December 20 and February 3. Lower prices for fats and oils brought the current wholesale price cut.

Steel Scrap Prices Cut Again in Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, April 14 (AP).—Steel scrap prices fell again today.

A major steel producer was reported to have made a large purchase of two grades of scrap at a $2 a ton reduction. The drop brought No. 1 heavy melting scrap down to $25 a ton, and brought No. 2 dealers' scrap to $23. Both grades sold at $43 a ton at the start of 1949.

New York Cotton

New York, April 14 (AP).—Cotton futures broke out of narrow trading range in late dealings today to close firm at gains of 60 to 95 cents a bale. Favorable export developments and inclination of traders to cover commitments, prior to the extended holiday weekend, accounted for the late upturn.

Assurance that cotton exports will be maintained at a high rate was seen in the passage by Congress of the ECA bill approving the full funds sought by that agency.

E.M.Emmerich Heads Liberty Building Ass'n.

Edmund M. Emmerich yesterday was elected president of the Liberty Building Association, succeeding William C. Zimmerman, who was named to the newly created post of board chairman.

Emmerich

At the same time shareholders were told at the fifty-eighth annual meeting that the new home of the institution at 1407 G st. nw., will be ready for occupancy about May 1. Liberty Building then will move from the present location at 511 7th st. nw., where it has been since 1891.

Emmerich, associated with Liberty for 28 years, will retain the title of secretary as well as becoming president. William W. White was made vice president and Charles E. Frazier, treasurer.

All directors were reelected, including Herbert E. Hurley, Charles W. Botsch, George W. Huguely, jr., Charles E. Krey, Robert A. Humphries, Frank T. Mitchell, H. Stanley Stine and the officers.

In his annual report, Emmerich revealed assets of more than $9,500,000 and reserves of a million are at new all-time highs for the association.

Montgomery Ward Fills Eight Posts

Chicago, April 14 (AP).—Montgomery, Ward and Co. today announced it had named eight new vice presidents.

The new officers were named at a meeting of the company's executive committee.

Action was taken after four vice presidents resigned this week, following resignation of several others last summer.

C. A. Maxey, retail manager; C. W. Anderson, mail order manager; Morris Ginsburg, soft lines merchandise manager; J. C. Wagner, household lines and appliances manager; J. A. Webber, hardlines merchandise manager; A. R. Cahill, treasurer; E. A. Krider, comptroller; S. S. Ball, secretary.

Devaluation Rumors Lower British Pound

New York, April 14 (AP).—Continuation of devaluation rumors pushed the British pound sterling for forward delivery to the lowest point today in more than a year.

Sterling for forward delivery is eligible for conversion into dollars for American account. New York banks quoted the spot rate at $4.03, up ⅛ of a cent from Wednesday.

Sterling for 30-day delivery, however, was off ¼ of a cent at a discount of 2¼ cents from the spot rate. Sterling for delivery in 60 days was off ¾ of a cent at a discount of 4¾ cents, and 90 days was off 1 cent at a discount of 7 cents from spot. Some banks quoted sterling for six months delivery at a discount of more than 11 cents.

The bid and asked prices quoted by New York banks show a slight difference, depending on the supply and demand for sterling at the individual bank.

Stock Splitup Voted

North Chicago, Ill., April 14 (AP). Abbott Laboratories stockholders today approved a proposed stock split which would increase the number of authorized common shares from three million to five million. The stock also will be changed from a no-par to a $5 par value.

"SENSIBLE? PLEASANT?
You Bet... That's Why I Shop in Shirlington"
—Says Mrs. C. Phillips of Colonial Village

"It's sensible to shop where it's pleasant . . . and pleasant to shop where it's so sensible. Imagine, you drive to Shirlington (it's convenient by bus, too) and find three, huge free parking lots to leave your car. Then you look around you and find 48 stores, chock full of every conceivable kind of merchandise, and all within 3 city blocks. All the stores have enough sales people so that nobody is ever neglected and left standing, wasting their time. You get all your shopping done—quickly, conveniently—and go home just as fresh and rested as when you started. I've always wanted a pleasant, yet sensible place to do my shopping. Now, I've got it. I shop in Shirlington!"

Safety Pays Off

Washington has just been accorded a signal honor in the field of traffic safety. Not only did the District of Columbia take top rank among all cities of its population class in the National Traffic Safety Contest during 1948, but it also captured the grand award for all cities regardless of population. Then, to cap the climax, Washington was given a special prize for the outstanding reduction in the number of motor vehicle deaths—52 in 1948 as opposed to 64 in 1947.

These prizes were not earned through happenstance, nor were they the result of merely one phase of accident prevention in the District. Instead, they reflect the integration of a program that encompasses death and accident investigations, safety engineering, traffic ordinances and enforcement, courts, and education in the schools and of the public generally. The proper response to the honor is, of course, not to rest on the laurels but to press the program more vigorously. Meanwhile, we congratulate everyone who has had a part in attaining this excellent safety record—a record which would have been impossible without the cooperation of the citizens of Washington.

Miners' Pensions

John L. Lewis will, it is reported, shortly file suits against a number of coal companies to collect unpaid contributions due in 1947 to the miners' welfare fund. They amount to several hundred thousand dollars. The delinquency of these companies emphasizes the fundamental weakness of private pension systems based on employer contributions.

When times are good and the coal industry is prospering, the failure of a few contributors to meet their obligations is annoying, but it does not seriously jeopardize the pension system. However, the miners' welfare fund is built up and maintained by a levy of 20 cents on each ton of coal mined. With demands for coal falling off, the fund income will automatically decline while the coal companies that pay these levies will be increasingly reluctant to continue to make contributions as their profits shrink.

Already it is rumored that Mr. Lewis will include a doubling of the royalty payments into the welfare fund in his new contract demands. This proposal would add to the costs of coal mining at a most inopportune time and stiffen employer opposition to further increases. Contributions were doubled last year by coal operators most unwillingly to avert a threatened strike.

Private pension plans established by employers under pressure from workers and incorporated in terminable wage contracts are in the nature of the case an uncertain reliance. Changes in industrial conditions, and employment policies as well as inability to finance them, in some cases, may sweep them away and deprive workers of the benefits promised them. The spread of private pension systems also increases opposition to liberalization of the Federal old-age pension program. For employers who finance such plans object to paying higher levies for Federal insurance purposes, while workers covered by private plans are at best halfhearted advocates of a more adequate Federal system that would provide security for all instead of a favored few.

Strange Progressivism

The Senate may well look with a jaundiced eye upon Senator Bricker's scheme to attach an antidiscrimination amendment to the housing bill. The Senator's record as a foe of public housing strongly suggests that he is more interested in sabotaging the housing program than he is in ending discrimination. The amendment would, of course, have the effect of combining the votes of Southern Democrats with the votes of the anti-public-housing forces against the housing bill. That is doubtless the chief reason why it was rejected by the Senate Banking Committee and why it probably will be rejected by the Senate itself.

The Washington Post has taken a strong stand in favor of civil rights, but we do not believe that all improvements and reforms in other fields should be abandoned until bias and discrimination can be eliminated from all phases of our national life. Low-rental housing for families that cannot provide decent living quarters for themselves is desperately needed in communities that practice segregation as well as in those that do not. By improving conditions under which the most unfortunate segments of the population live, public housing can do much to minimize racial antagonism.

To halt such improvements in States and communities that insist on segregation would tend to defeat the larger purpose of promoting equality of rights and opportunities. Especially when the foes of a progressive measure seek to weigh it down by an antidiscrimination amendment, Congress ought to make certain that it is voting for the substance of reform and not for a mere shibboleth.

Temblor

The earthquake which on Wednesday convulsed a very large section of the Pacific Northwest, killing at least eight persons and causing damage to property that may amount to a good many millions of dollars, serves to remind us of how incomplete is the dominion of man over nature. There is no way of controlling earthquakes, nor any reliable way of predicting them. Even the causes of them are imperfectly understood. It was formerly deemed that all earthquakes were the aftermath of volcanic disturbances below the surface of the earth or of the sea, but this theory is no longer tenable, for some of the most severe earthquakes have occurred in regions far removed from volcanoes.

The theory most generally accepted nowadays is that the quakes result from stresses occasioned by mysterious movements constantly in progress beneath the earth's crust, although little or nothing has been proved concerning the nature or origin of these forces. When the stress becomes acute, a breach somewhere in the crust, whether below or above the surface, occurs. It is the rectification of this breach or "fault" by the sliding movement of the earth on either side of it that produces the quake, the intensity of which is determined by the character and extent of the fissure. The sliding may be horizontal or vertical; it is the vertical slides occurring at the bottom of the sea which produce tidal waves, or so the seismologists tell us.

One thing, however, has been definitely established: that the incidence of earthquakes is much greater in some regions than others. Generally speaking, the more irregular the topography of a region, the greater its liability to shocks. Thus the Pacific areas of both North and South America, where mountains of great altitude give way abruptly to a low-lying coastal plain, are especially liable. The same is true of the eastern coast of Japan, along the lower edge of the Himalayas and the mountainous regions overhanging the Mediterranean.

The principal causes of loss of life in earthquakes not accompanied by tidal waves or volcanic eruptions are, of course, collapsing masonry and fire. The first factor appears to account for all the casualties reported in the most recent disaster, apart from a few persons who died of shock or of heart failure induced by fear and excitement. The fires appear to have been brought quickly under control.

The moral is therefore plain enough: though earthquakes cannot be prevented, the disastrous consequences of them can be considerably reduced by architectural and engineering precautions. Considering the apparent severity of the shock, the toll of deaths and damage reported from the three afflicted States, Washington, Oregon and Idaho, seems much less than might have been feared. This is evidence that the builders in these regions have profited to some extent by the lessons of the great San Francisco disaster of 1906. But there is also plenty of evidence that their precautions were not always sufficient and it may be that a drastic revision of building codes will be necessary to prevent a repetition of such calamities.

Single Chief Of Staff

In opposing the creation of a chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff with power of decision, former President Herbert Hoover echoes the arguments of those who feel that too much or too speedy unification would be a bad thing. The Hoover Commission itself admits that mere federation is an unworkable principle of organization for the three defense arms. If federation is impractical on the secretarial level, how much more paralyzing must be its effect among the men charged with planning a unified defense strategy!

Mr. Hoover voices the contention, made familiar by the Eberstadt task force report, that a powerful chairman of the Joint Chiefs would lessen civilian control of the armed forces. Precisely the opposite, in our opinion, would be the case. The trouble with the present loose system, in which unresolved conflicts are referred to the Secretary of Defense, is that a civilian official is called upon to make what should be military decisions. The Hoover-Eberstadt version of a chairman of the Joint Chiefs acting merely in a liaison capacity would perpetuate this burden on the Secretary.

The Tydings bill now before the Senate would not confer command authority on the chairman of the Joint Chiefs. Rather, he would be a staff officer, responsible to and acting as the agent of the Secretary of Defense in presiding over the Joint Chiefs. All the customary civilian checks would remain through the President, Congress and the Secretary of Defense.

The fear has been expressed that a single chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff inevitably would favor one service over the others. This seems to us a cynical doctrine which denies the possibility of the concept of the Joint Chiefs as a top-level planning body whose allegiance is not to individual services, but to the over-all defense of the United States. Certainly General Eisenhower, who has been serving as a sort of ex-officio chairman, has been more than merely the representative of the Army.

Sincere men differ over what the country's defense strategy should be. Without some way of composing these differences, the national defense is, as Army Secretary Royall put it, in worse shape than before unification. The cure is not to be found in such nostrums as honeyed weekend conferences, useful as they may be in bringing understanding. What is required is a fundamental change in structure to compel adherence to military decisions once they are reached. The need is not for someone to dictate policy to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but for an end to the stalemate under which one service can frustrate the other two by an arbitrary veto.

Camel's Nose

The Mexican amendments to the United Nations draft convention on the gathering and transmission of news are a complete mockery of the principles of freedom of information. The purpose of the convention, which was prepared last year at Geneva, was to limit the recognized grounds for national censorship and to facilitate the entry of newsmen into foreign countries. The original draft sanctioned censorship only for reasons of "national military security." This was dangerously broadened in the Economic and Social Council by acceptance of a Colombian amendment substituting "national security" for "military security." Now a Mexican amendment would make a farce of the whole affair by validating censorship for reasons of "national prestige and dignity" concurrently with a limitation on the protection of correspondents against expulsion.

A second Mexican amendment is hardly less obnoxious. It would compel news agencies and correspondents to "accept, distribute and publish" any corrections requested by governments of countries in which they were operating. This, of course, would serve as an open door for government propaganda. It is the twin brother of a Polish amendment to ban any news likely to encourage a threat to the peace or hinder friendly relations between states.

The Mexican proposals appear to be inspired by a wish to effect a compromise between the American and Russian views. But that is the rub. The approach reflects a total misunderstanding of the nature of free information. Either information is free or it is not, and a halfway formula can compromise nothing but freedom. If the American delegates cannot persuade their colleagues of the futility of these concessions to totalitarian tactics, the United States will have no honest course but to withdraw from the convention.

Collective Self-Defense

Before the U. N. Assembly Mr. Gromyko has made his expected charge that the North Atlantic Pact is a violation of the Charter. It is no more violative of the Charter than the Soviet Union's 23 treaties with its satellites—less so, in fact, because Soviet treaties were not filed with the United Nations. The fact is that self-defense is an inalienable right. The Charter not only left that right unimpaired but also specifically recognized it in Article 51 and provided that nations subject to armed attack might exercise this right of self-defense individually or collectively. The Atlantic Pact is nothing more than an agreement to exercise this right collectively in case of attack against any one of the signatories.

It was France that most strongly raised the question of protecting each nation's right of self-defense at the San Francisco Conference. France sought an amendment to the Dumbarton Oaks proposals reserving to member states, as the League of Nations covenant had done, the right "to act in defense of right and justice" in case the Security Council should be hamstrung. While that suggestion left too much discretion to individual nations, the conference formulated Article 51 to make certain that the right of collective self-defense would not be impaired. "The concept of 'collective self-defense,'" says a Brookings Institution study of the Charter long before the Atlantic Pact began to take shape, "was understood to mean that a situation might arise in which a group of countries would enter into an agreement among themselves to regard an attack on any one of them as being an attack on all of them."

While hoping that the occasion for such pacts would not arise, the U. N. founders thus foresaw clearly that collective defense outside the Charter might be necessary and made allowance for it. Mr. Gromyko's charge had a hollow sound which will deceive very few people.

DAWN

I have seen daylight come like a girl, rapt
In a dream, like a young girl finding spring in her heart;
Full of radiance of hidden suns.
I have seen daylight walk as a young girl walks on the hills,
As a running fox is trapped who must bark
the moon
High into heaven, who must stare with moonlit eyes at the start
Of the strangest thing he knows: the moon
Rising at the world's throat.
So is the daylight tranced
At the vast retreating edge of night; following like a girl
In spring the retreating moon, the owl's low sound,
The larks coming into being
Along the discovered ground.

Letters To The Editor

"A Time For Steadiness"

In your issue of April 5 there is an editorial, "A Time For Steadiness" and a letter on Churchill's speech, both of which should be widely read and highly commended. The editorial advises that there should be no black headlines on abusive Soviet speeches. It seems to me, in fact, that they should have only the scantiest notice. Why should we advertise and spread their rude and utterly false propaganda? Ignoring them would be the smartest treatment on our part and the most irritating to them.

The letter from Miss Roehm suggests that the American press and radio are "warmongers" and I would like to most heartily agree with her. I do not believe that our commentators and reporters want a war, but I maintain that their comments and reports may help to cause one. It is all done in their search for sensation. They appear to think that nothing is interesting except dire prophecies of danger, calamity and gloom.

We are warned against hysteria. If it exists, it is largely the fault of sensational commentators who fill the air and the columns with all sorts of unpleasant things which may happen but probably never will.

'Florida As A Yardstick'

In your issue of March 19, Marquis Childs has a column, dated from Winter Park, Fla., in which he describes what a wonderland State Florida has become, with its homes, hotels, tourist houses and the like.

"To permit anything like a depression in this country," he reasons, "would be the kind of folly that, in the history of the dead civilization of the past, has borne the label suicidal. Millions of families need decent homes, millions of children need decent schools . . . The prophets of gloom find little to support their depression in Florida."

There are two things about Florida which Mr. Childs does not mention. One is the sharp contrast between living standards among tourist spenders and among native workers. The other is the spectacular economic crash which ended the Florida boom 20 years ago.

The real question which the Childs column raises is, however, far broader than Florida or any other State. "With a little common sense and good management by business and Government," Mr. Childs declares, "it should be possible to come to rest on a plateau of high income and high consumption." True, if business will forgo profits or if Government will cancel out profits by spending their equivalent for munitions or some other noncommercial objective.

The United States has had a depression, on the average, once every four years since 1790, because the struggle to get and keep profits and the periodical impossibility of reinvesting or spending all of the profits made leads to recurrent gluts of goods-for-sale with no corresponding purchases.

Take private profit out of the national economy. Plan it and manage it scientifically, and depressions will be a thing of the past. On no other terms can depression be prevented or long postponed. When depression strikes, playlands like Florida will be among the heaviest sufferers.

Price Of Gold

In common with most of the world, Newfoundland is beginning to have difficulties in selling its products in the sterling area. Now that we are a part of Canada, sterling sales of fish and newsprint may be curtailed. So anything that can be done to make sterling convertible has great importance to this country.

British barter deals and credits seem to be building a wall that may be a permanent barrier.

Before relinquishing the closed sterling area as a basis of her economy, Britain will require some substitute. The necessity for obtaining United States dollars and restricting dollar purchases may become more acute when ECA assistance ends, and some plan should be initiated now to prepare for that eventuality.

A possible solution that should be considered is increasing the world price for gold. At double or treble the present price the production of South Africa and Canada would make the removal of sterling controls possible and would provide Britain with the means to purchase quantities of supplies from South American countries, etc. It would stimulate exports (scarce items could be controlled) from the United States and save the United States taxpayers from making increased loans. It might even bring about better relations with Russia.

Oleo's Value

Mr. Paul B. Strickler, in his letter of April 11, presents conclusions from feeding tests that show that vegetable fats are inferior to butter fat for nourishing calves. He then takes The Washington Post to task for publishing an editorial which stated that oleo and butter were virtually nutritionally equal for consumption. He also refers to oleo as a product of lower nutritional value than butter, which it certainly is—for calves.

Dr. Anton J. Carlson, professor emeritus of physiology and medicine at the University of Chicago, giving testimony before a Senate hearing in 1948 made this statement: "It has been established, and no one would even care to deny this, that margarine and butter are equal in caloric value and digestibility, which are the two major considerations for a fat food."

Jefferson On Equality

The meaning of Thomas Jefferson's assertion that "all men are created equal" is misinterpreted, as it has been repeatedly in the past, in the Associated Press story carried in your April 8 issue under the heading, "Doubt Raised on Jefferson's 'Equal' Views."

If, in 1793, Jefferson actually did make a marginal notation in a copy of Blackstone's Commentaries that it is "a foolish opinion" to consider men "by nature equal," that would not be, as the story asserts, a contradiction of the Declaration of Independence which he had penned three decades before.

The Declaration implies that all men are equal in the eyes of their Creator; it does not imply that every baby born into the world is exactly like every other baby born into the world. It does imply that every baby shall be afforded an equal opportunity to grow to maturity and exercise its talents unimpeded by prejudice of any kind.

Shall Vivisectors Use Pound Dogs?

Medical vivisectors have no business trying to destroy the unselfish work of hundreds of thousands of humanitarians who spend time and money on human and animal welfare. However, if the allopath vivisectors continue their ruthless drive for control of public and private pound animals, they will unwittingly assist us greatly in organizing 30 million dog owners to fight useless medical cruelty.

The people will not be fooled as to what the fight is about. The fight is to outlaw medical cruelty to animals. The bad or good results of animal experimentation on humans are not on trial here and now. We suggest the allopath vivisectors fight that out with their patients who are still alive. The Chapman-Stiefel vivisection bill in the Pennsylvania Legislature is dead for this season. The first Nolan-Miles vivisection bill and the second Miles vivisection bill, Massachusetts Legislature, are dead.

Thousands of people are signing a California people's referendum to put this question on the next ballot. Congressmen Lemke's D. C. antivivisection discharge petition is once more on the Speaker's desk gathering signatures. A factual report read to the Massachusetts Legislature recently by a special investigation committee will be publicized by the Antivivisection Society of D. C. to help defeat similar vivisection bills. We shall assist thousands of Chicago humanitarians to work for the repeal of the cruel Arvey ordinance.

Poundmaster Frank Marks has won the cooperation of many people here. If the pound is to become a pickup station for medical vivisectors, we predict the Commissioners will lose the people's cooperation.

Most of the officially recognized branches of medicine are against vivisection. The public should read the Baruch Commission report. Dr. T. R. Van Dellen, noted syndicated columnist, very recently stated that the value of testing on animals is questionable.

Dr. William Held, well-known Chicago physician, says, "Practicing on dogs probably does make a good veterinarian, if that is the kind of practitioner you want for your family. Most people would prefer a physician who wouldn't get his dog lore mixed up with his knowledge of human anatomy and reaction."

We, the Antivivisection Society of D. C., think it is high time for all veterinarians to realize who butters their bread. For some good reason, Dr. David I. Macht, Mt. Sinai Hospital, Baltimore, finds experimenting with plants very illuminating. Could it be that this man is about 50 years ahead of the animal vivisectors? Can any honest Christian visualize Jesus of Nazareth and St. Francis of Assisi vivisecting animals?

Wires have been sent to all leading humane and antivivisection societies asking that their thousands of members write or wire President Truman to intercede with the Commissioners in support of Poundmaster Frank Marks' humane work.

President, Antivivisection Society of the District of Columbia.

Washington Calling

Fair Deal Vs. New Deal

THE OBSERVANCE of the fourth anniversary of President Truman's accession to the highest office in the land marks a kind of historical dividing line. While the Fair Deal of the Truman Administration grew out of the New Deal of the Roosevelt era, it can now be considered on its own merits or demerits.

The personnel has almost entirely changed. With the resignation of James Forrestal as Secretary of Defense, the last member of the Roosevelt Cabinet stepped down. And Forrestal was a wartime rather than a New Deal participant.

Here in Washington are many of the figures out of the New Deal. Some are in retirement, others are busy making money in law offices. They are on the outside looking in, where once they wielded great power and influence.

I asked several of these retired New Dealers to talk about the Fair Deal. How does it look from the outside? How do the two deals compare?

Speaking frankly and not for quotation, they provided an interesting analysis. Part of their criticism may perhaps be put down to the natural jealousy and resentment of the king's henchman who is now outside the walls of the palace where once he helped to run the state.

THE CHIEF criticism from the New Dealers is on two counts. First, they say that Truman promises too much. While this criticism may draw cynical laughter from the Roosevelt-haters (a most persistent and enduring tribe), the New Dealers go on to document their point.

Truman, they say, promises everyone everything. That is a dangerous thing to do, particularly when the gulf between promise and performance grows ever wider.

You have to concentrate your promises, says the former New Dealers. Then at fairly frequent intervals you have to prove that you can deliver.

Failing to deliver, Truman is drawing on the bank of the good will created by F. D. R. He exploits the social-economic relations that Roosevelt established through long and skillful education of the electorate in repeated campaigns. But he adds little or nothing to this process of education.

The real danger, as those outside looking in see it, is failure. Failure of the Fair Deal will discredit the whole Roosevelt concept of a modified capitalism which, with Government regulation and some Government competition such as TVA, would work to produce the greatest good for the greatest number. If the moderate reformism of the New Deal and the Fair Deal is discredited, then radical solutions will be a threat from both the extreme left and the extreme right.

THE SECOND major criticism has to do, as the former NDS see it, with the principal reason for the faltering and fumbling now jeopardizing the Truman program. That is a lack of any general headquarters to direct the whole operation.

Without a GHQ, a lot of things never get done or they are done ineptly and often with someone's special self-interest in view. There is no one to equate the overall situation for the President.

What the critics have in mind, of course, is the GHQ directed in the palmy days of the New Deal by Thomas G. Corcoran. When President Roosevelt left his office in the late afternoon, he left behind a stack of assignments for Tommy the Cork to execute during the night. When he came back to his desk in the morning, those tasks had been performed.

In the first Roosevelt term Corcoran received perhaps more abuse than any of the New Dealers immediately around the President. That may have come as a well-earned tribute to his effectiveness as an operator for the White House. Shuttling between the President's office and the Congress, Corcoran got things done.

The former New Dealers believe there is no substitute for that kind of operation. It was often hardboiled to the point of ruthlessness. But without it the gulf between Executive and Congress — and correspondingly between promise and performance—might have been even wider than it was.

This, as I say, may be a jaundiced point of view. But it is the conviction of men who exercised authority under a President who inspired them to believe that a liberal middle course was the answer for America.

D. C. Council Elections

To be truly representative of democratic government the Home Rule bill should provide for delegates to the council to be elected from the wards in which they reside. Any election possible from delegates nominated at large would be an abomination.

The only way to secure competent leadership would be to encourage competition among the best any section of our city could afford. No ward or no section is completely devoid of good leadership.

By all means do not let us have a council entirely nominated by the business interests as represented by the white Board of Trade, the white Chamber of Commerce or the white Federation of Citizens Associations.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Where Is Tai Wan?

FOR THE vast majority of Americans who have not studied our strategic commitments and necessities, it would be natural to ask, "Where is Tai Wan?" The answer is that Tai Wan is the official name of Formosa, the big, rich, mountainous island off the China Coast, that was handed over to the Chinese government after the Japanese surrender.

These particular items from the geography school books are relevant at the moment for a simple but rather disturbing reason. The Chinese government that now holds Tai Wan is in the last stages of collapsing under the attack of its Communist rival. Yet the American strategists, planners and policymakers are unhappily convinced that Tai Wan must remain in friendly hands, if our far-spread Pacific position is to be safeguarded.

On-the-spot reports from the Far East will shortly appear in this space. Meanwhile, the best Washington estimate of the Chinese situation is that the Communists will be able to gain control of all metropolitan China within about 18 months. They have three immediate objectives: first, to liquidate Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's remaining armies, which now guard the approaches to Shanghai; second, to occupy the coast ports, and especially Shanghai and Canton; and third, to liquidate the Nationalist armies in northewst China, with headquarters at Sian on the Yellow River.

ONCE these gains have been made, the rest will be easy for them. South China is still war lord land. The Communists' technique will undoubtedly be to make individual deals with the leading provincial magnates like Liu Wen-huei in Szechuan and Lu Han in Yunnan. When these men have formally recognized Communist predominance, they can be pinched off, one by one. The first of the war lord provinces over which the Communist government will probably seek full authority is the great inland nation within a nation, Szechuan.

Eighteen months is the period given for the entire process, including the elimination of the last war lord. It is ridiculously optimistic to believe the Chinese Communists have not the resources to "organize China," as some self-deluding persons, even among American policy-makers used to argue. After all, China has been "organized" by no less than eight imperial dynasties, since the first true Chinese empire was established by the Emperor Chin Shih Huang Ti. And the dynastic conquerors all possessed poorer resources, in transport, arms and means of communication than do the Chinese Communists.

This result has of course always been contemplated by our China policy which has consisted in doing nothing effective because no one quite knew what to do. Formosa, or Tai Wan, is the hitch, because the only strategic rationalization of our bankrupt China policy has been that we would guard our Pacific position from the islands.

The fact that this plan is economically, and therefore politically foredoomed to failure has been and is being ignored. But no one can ignore the fact that Tai Wan completes the island chain from Japan down through Okinawa. If Tai Wan goes to the Chinese Communists, and the Chinese Communists remain loyal to Moscow (as everyone must be prepared for them to do), our Pacific strategy will be down the drain. For our forward positions will be flanked.

FOR THE present, Tai Wan is safe. The governor is one of the ablest Nationalist generals, Chen Cheng. Defense forces are being trained there by the American-associated. Gen. Sun Li-jen, who led part of the army that liberated Burma. A grave problem exists because of the enormous influx of rich, useless refugees from the China coast. But this flood has been dammed and is being turned back by General Chen, in return for American promises of a large part of the ECA appropriation for Tai Wan. The Formosans, who are non-Chinese tribesmen, detest the Chinese occupation, and would actually prefer American rule. But perhaps the ECA money will keep them quiet.

The trouble in short is not now, but in the future, when the Chinese Communist government will be ready to claim this offshore province. If we recognize them as the legal successors to Chiang Kai-shek, their claim will be excellent, since Chiang's claim to Formosa was approved long ago. A slender loophole may exist, since Tai Wan was a former Japanese possession, and there has been no Japanese peace treaty.

Yet the truth remains. Either we are going to have to behave in a hard, immoral manner, and keep Tai Wan in friendly hands, or we are going to go on prating the same virtuous generalities, see Tai Wan pass to the Communists, and find our Pacific position flanked. This is the sort of truth that is best recognized frankly and early.

Surgeon General Establishes Institute of Mental Health

Formal establishment of the long-sought National Institute of Mental Health was announced last night by Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele, Public Health Service.

The new institute, authorized by the Seventy-ninth Congress, will step up efforts toward the prevention, control and treatment of mental illness, Dr. Scheele said.

Dr. Robert H. Felix, chief of the Division of Mental Hygiene since 1944, has been appointed director of the new institute, it was announced.

The National Institute of Mental Health, now a component part of the National Institutes of Health, at Bethesda, Md., will continue the program carried out by the mental hygiene division, abolished in the organizational change, Dr. Scheele said.

Temporarily, headquarters of the institute will be in the Federal Security Building, on Independence ave. between 3d and 4th sts. sw. Transfer to new quarters in Bethesda will be made as soon as buildings now under construction there are completed.

The Surgeon General pointed out that mental illness accounts for the hospitalization of more than 600,000 patients in United States, and partial incapacitation of millions more.

Explosion of Gun Kills 1, Injures 10 On Destroyer

Pearl Harbor, April 14 (AP).—One seaman was killed and 10 others injured seriously today in the explosion of a 5-inch gun aboard the destroyer Hollister 40 miles off Pearl Harbor.

Thirteen men were in the enclosed two-gun after mount when the blast occurred. The explosion blew off one side of the armored mount.

The injured, all badly burned and cut, their faces covered with bandages, were brought ashore and taken to Aiea Naval Hospital.

"All we know is that there was an explosion in the gun mount during firing of gunnery practice about 12:30 (5:30 p. m., EST"), said Capt. Charles T. Singleton, commander of Destroyer Squadron 3, of which the Hollister is the flagship.

Commander Robert McGoffin is the Hollister's skipper.

Tuck to Appoint Catterall to SCC

Richmond, Va., April 14 (AP).—Governor Tuck said tonight he will appoint Ralph T. Catterall, Richmond attorney, to the State Corporation Commission to succeed L. McCarthy Downs.

Catterall's appointment would be for the interim until the General Assembly acts on the matter. Members of the SCC are elected by the legislature for terms of six years.

The Governor's action came tonight after he was officially advised by Downs that he has been elected president and general manager of Continental Life Insurance Co. of Washington. Downs' term expires February 1, 1950.

Freak Oasis In Antarctic To Be Hunted

London, April 14 (U.P.).—A group of polar explorers is planning an expedition this year to find a freak oasis reported near the South Pole in a region where no man has ever set foot.

British, Swedish, and Norwegian will try to find the oasis which a group of German flyers claim they spotted from the air before the war in the center of frozen Queen Maud's Land, about 200 miles from the pole.

Scientists will seek to establish whether the oasis—if it exists—means the Antarctic is "warming up."

Signs that the Arctic is getting warmer have been noted recently, and a similar condition in the Antarctic could be the forerunner of a world climatic change, scientists believed.

The expedition is expected to last more than 2½ years. Costs will be shared by Britain, Sweden and Norway.

The party will live in a base camp of timber houses and will use a helicopter for surveying.

Board Answers Plea to Truman of Stables' Manager

A plea sent to President Truman by Mrs. Jean Moran, manager of the padlocked Stables Restaurant, 2622 E st. nw., was answered yesterday by the District Commissioners.

The city heads informed Mrs. Moran that Tax Collector Guy W. Pearson had extended "every possible consideration consistent with the requirements of the law" in collecting $2006 owed by the establishment in unpaid personal property taxes.

Mrs. Moran telegraphed the President last week asking for aid in obtaining permission to reopen the restaurant.

Pearson announced Wednesday the furnishings in the eating place will be auctioned April 27 to settle the District tax debt and a water bill of $220.

Drunk Driver's Marriage While In Debt Irks Judge

A Rockville Police Court defendant was chastised by Trial Magistrate Alger Y. Barbee yesterday for assuming the added financial responsibility of marriage when he still owed $350 for damages he caused another man's car.

Pointing out that Eston Lantz, 20, Rockville, was married soon after the accident on March 27, Barbee, a bachelor said, "It shows a lack of responsibility" because Lantz still owed the $350.

Lantz, a laborer, was convicted of driving drunk and operating on dead tags. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail. Barbee also gave him six months to pay for the damage or be fined $200.

Monster Hunt On Sea Floors Is Planned

San Francisco, April 14 (U.P.).—Using a line 9 miles long, an oceanographer will go fishing in the summer of 1950 for monsters in the deeps which he says may harber living fossils, giant squid and serpentine eels reputed to grow 90 feet long.

Dr. Antone Brunn of the University of Copenhagen, plans a two-year voyage, hoping to cover most of the ocean's floor not yet explored. That amounts to about one third of the surface of the earth, which, Brunn asserts, lies below the 12,000-foot level.

Nine-Mile Steel Cable

Previous explorations have not gone below the 18,000-foot level because of insufficiencies in fishing gear. He will attempt it with a steel cable more than 9 miles long with a hemp net, 100 feet wide, at its end.

"We know there are larger species of life down below," he said. It would be a great achievement, he pointed out, if he could net another fantastic living fish-fossil, like that landed in 1938 by a South African boat trolling for food fish.

It was caught in 40 fathoms but must have come up from greater depths. A most unusual creature, Brunn called it, "fully as strange as finding a dinosaur walking down Market Street in San Francisco."

Sea Serpent Greatest Desire

Brunn's greatest desire is to land a sea serpent.

"I am not a scientist who entirely disregards the myth of the great sea serpent," he explained. "It is highly possible that they live in the depths I shall explore. I am convinced there are gigantic eels living where no one has yet fished . . . According to legend they grow to be 90 feet long."

New Farm Program

By Mark Sullivan

How Long Till Nationalization?

ADVOCATES of the Administration's new farm proposal stress its objectives. To advocates of anything new, "objectives" is one of the most useful words in the English language. You can set up any kind of ideal objective, and, by stopping there, create an agreeable illusion. The word has a further usefulness in disarming opponents; they fear to incur shame or blame by questioning a happy illusion, especially so if they are in politics.

Sullivan

Even a sharp critic of the Administration's new farm proposal, independent-minded Senator Aiken of Vermont, felt obliged to say: "No, it is not the objectives . . . with which we may dissent; it is the means which the Secretary of Agriculture proposes for attaining these objectives . . ."

Having thus safeguarded himself against any charge of being against a beautiful objective, Senator Aiken proceeded with a devastating criticism of what he called "radical departures"—departures which, he said, would not only affect farmers but raise "a fundamental issue not only of economics but of philosophy of government."

TO FARMERS, the objective of the Administration's new proposal is a Government-guaranteed income. That is very alluring. But to the taxpayers, the objective is to make them pay the Government subsidies by which the guaranteed income of the farmers is paid. Whether the taxpayers become informed about this depends on whether there is enough impartial education about the new proposal to balance the partisan outpouring from Administration sources which began with radio broadcasts by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and Democratic National Chairman McGrath.

Farmers themselves need education from other than Administration sources. Allured by emphasis on proclaimed "objective" of the new proposal, farmers might profitably focus their minds on another word, which seems to mean the same thing but does not. The word is "destination"—the end of the path on which farmers are solicited to set out. The path includes much Government control of the farmer, much interference with him. How Government largesse can be accompanied by Government interference, has been illustrated in the price-support already in practice.

The Department of Agriculture, among its practices, bought potatoes at a support price fixed by itself, ranging about $2.66 a hundredweight. Then, to get rid of the potatoes—which it had no use for and only bought to keep the price up—the department sold the potatoes to other farmers at 1 cent a hundredweight, to be used as livestock feed.

That was largesse; it was practically a gift. But the farmers who received the largesse were required to sign a contract, stipulating that the potatoes must be used only for livestock feed. If the farmer used or disposed of any of the potatoes for human consumption, he had to pay the department "damages" of $3.59 a hundredweight, presumably the price the department had paid for the potatoes plus freight rate.

THAT MUST have seemed to farmers an irksome contract to be required to sign as the condition of Government largesse. (The whole transaction was a fantastic incident of price-support.) But comparatively this was slight. In the new proposal the farmer would be required to use all his land subject to direction by Federal officials.

If the farmer turns his mind from proclaimed objective to inherently probable destination, he may find the latter in recent English experience. The British Labor government promised farmers advantages much like those promised in the new proposal of the Truman Administration. Then the Labor government told the farmer that if he accepted advantages he must accept obligations. The obligations, set forth in a government publication too long to quote here at length, were a series of steps, with appeals from them:

"The third step would be dispossession . . . In the case of an owner the land would be purchased compulsorily. An owner-occupant might be required to let his land to an approved tenant . . ."

The sum of it all was in a statement by Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton that the Labor government was "moving toward the nationalization of land and not by slow steps."

Overseas Press Club Elects Kelley President

New York, April 14 (AP).—Frank Kelley, national editor of the New York Herald Tribune, was elected president of the Overseas Press Club last night.

Elected vice presidents were: Louis Lochner, former Associated Press bureau chief at Berlin; Craig Thompson, former Life magazine correspondent in Moscow; and John Daly, Columbia Broadcasting System commentator.

Hester E. Hensell was re-elected secretary.

Ralph Jules Frantz, of the New York Herald Tribune foreign desk, was named treasurer.

Mother Is Put On Probation

An unmarried mother who threw her newborn baby from a second story window was put on probation yesterday for an indefinite period by Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy.

The mother, Miss Janet Clemons, 20, who gave her address as 605 Park ave., Falls Church, earlier had pleaded guilty to felonious assault on the baby, who was injured but survived. The in-

Judge McCarthy ordered that the child be put in the hands of the county welfare department and diretced Miss Clemons to contribute $25 monthly toward the baby's support.

2 Buildings At Gallinger To Be Razed

Razing of the Gallinger Hospital crematorium and a 50-year-old Surgical Building was authorized yesterday by the District Comissioners to make way for erection of a new pediatrics-crippled children's building.

Director of Construction Archie G. Hutson said bids for the 119-bed structure will be solicited by advertisements on May 5 and construction is expected to get under way July 1.

The surgical structure scheduled for razing was described yesterday by Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney, Gallinger superintendent, as "hazardous and inconvenient."

The pediatrics-crippled children's building will be at 19th and B. sts. se. Total cost is expected to exceed $2,[illegible]50,000, of which $400,000 will be drawn from the Hill-Burton Act hospital funds.

Navy P2V Bomber Spans Continent From a Carrier

The Navy disclosed yesterday that it has flown bombers from an aircraft carrier in the Atlantic to Moffett Field, Calif., spanning the continent.

Two P2V Neptune twin engine bombers made the ocean-to-ocean flight April 7 in 10 hours. Before landing they cruised around on a training exercise for an additional three hours. At times they were over the Pacific. Their takeoff was from the Carrier Midway off Norfolk, Va.

They were 13 hours in the air and flew a distance computed at 3000 miles. They carried enough gasoline for 23 hours in the air, but had nothing aboard to simulate a bomb load.

Georgia Realty Case Dismissed In Negro Sales

Atlanta, April 14 (AP).—Georgia today turned down a move to revoke the license of a white real estate dealer who sold property in a white neighborhood to Negroes.

The case against W. M. Aycock was dismissed, officials said, because State witnesses repudiated their sworn statements to the Georgia real estate examining board.

Aycock was accused of falsely assuring his Negro purchasers that they could buy and take possession of homes in a white neighborhood "without any trouble or objection."

Assistant State Attorney General Robert Addleton said five State witnesses who had been subpenaed failed to appear. He said he would file contempt proceedings against them.

2 Groups Seek Social Security For Farmers

Two large farm organizations asked Congress ysterday to open the way for almost 10 million farm operators and hands to get old-age and survivors' insurance.

However, the National Grange, through Lloyd C. Halverson, said farmer participation should be on a voluntary basis "at least to begin with, and coverage should not be made compulsory until it was proved to be administratively feasible."

The National Farmers Union fully indorsed the Administration's new social security bill. It would bring farmers and farm workers into the program on the same compulsory basis as the 30 million nonfarm workers now covered. Angus McDonald spoke for the Farmers Union.

The Administration bill proposes a "stamp plan" for collecting the social security taxes from farm workers. Farm operators would buy the stamps and place them in workers' books as evidence of the payment.

Study on Education Defended by Zook

Lexington, Va., April 13 (AP).—Dr. George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, said here today there had been some "sharp and unfair" criticism of the report of the President's Commission on Higher Education.

Dr. Zook, commission chairman, addressed the Southern University Conference, composed of officials of 46 Southern institutions meeting at Washington and Lee University. He said some educators had port as favoring expansion of interpreted the commission's re- higher education as opposed to improving quality.

"The ideas should not be held as mutually exclusive," he said. "The President's Commission was equally in favor of improving quality of higher education with expansion of opportunity. Another matter on which there has been sharp disagreement with the President's Commission has to do with our recommendation on racial segregation at institutions of higher education," Dr. Zook said.

"While the commission did not go anything like as far as the President's Committee on Civil Rights in demanding that Federal funds be withdrawn from those States which establish separate educational facilities for the two races, it did condemn the practice in principle," he said.

"To me there is no alternative to the commission's recommendations if we are to live up to the fundamental law as interpreted by the Supreme Court."

Asserting that the United States was "being scrutinized closely for this deficiency in our practice of democracy," Dr. Zook said that there was "certainly a growing public sentiment against it."

He cited recent trends against racial segregation in Southern educational institutions, noting that the University of Kentucky had recently announced it was going to admit Negro students to its graduate departments and students at the University of Missouri "have made it clear they believe the time has come for a fair deal on this important matter."

Another speaker, Virginius Dabney, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, told the educators that the South is on the way up.

"A brief decade ago," Dabney said, "it was described, and with reason, as 'economic problem No. 1.' Today it no longer deserves that appellation, and it is being looked to as one of the two regions of the United States with the most dynamic drive, the most kinetic forward surge. The other is the Pacific Coast."

J. E. Caswell Will Head Health Bureau

J. Edgar Caswell, acting director of the Bureau of Public Health Education, was appoited director of the bureau yesterday by the District Commissioners. He will fill the vacancy created by the recent death of Dr. Melvin P. Isaminger.

Caswell has been acting director since February, 1947, after Dr. Isaminger became ill. The position pays $5152 a year.

The new director taught health and physical education in public schools in New Jersey and New York, then was an assisant editor of the Journal of Health and Physical Education before joining the United States Public Health Service.

Red Underground Halted in Portugal

Lisbon, Portugal, April 14 (U.P.). Political police announced today they had broken up a Communist underground organization, arresting many of its members and confiscating valuable documents.

Police said the organization extended throughout Portugal and had ramifications in France and Spain.

Joined Rebels To Save Lives, Americans Say

Guatemala, Guatemala, April 14 (AP).—Two Americans held in jail here on suspition of revolutionary activity say they were compelled to join a rebel band under threat of death.

The two are under military arrest. It is likely they will be tried by a military court. No specific charge has been filed against them. Guatemalan penalties for armed revolt range up to death before a firing squad.

The prisoners identified themselves as Robert Ramage, 43, and Ronald Rothe, 29, both of Tucson, Ariz.

The men said they were forced by Dr. Gustavo Adolfo Trangay, leader of the revolt, to join the band that staged an uprising along the Mexican border last week. Trangay was killed while resisting arrest. They said they had invested money in banana deals with Trangay.

Guatemalan authorities said Rothe and Ramage joined the rebel forces while posing as prospective land buyers.

The Americans said they never fired a shot.

Club Licensing Backer Reports Death Threats

Philip A. Guarino, president of the Restaurant Beverage Association of Washington, has told police an anonymous phone caller warned him he'd get "bumped off" unless he stopped urging licensing of after-hours clubs.

Guarino said Sixth Precinct Police have been keeping an eye on his restaurant, Phil's Spaghetti House, 7307 Georgia ave. nw., since he reported the death threat.

He said he received the threat by phone on March 15, the night after he told an association meeting racketeers are involved in some after-hours clubs and asked for regulation of the clubs by District authorities.

Driver Cleared In Death of Boy, 2

George Hill, 37, a truck driver of 3517 37th st. Mt. Rainier, Md., has been cleared of blame in the traffic death of 2-year-old Raymond Lee Brodsky, 3308 E. Capitol st. ne., last Thursday.

A coroner's jury exonerated Hill after an inquest Tuesday. The child's skull was crushed when Hill started his truck not knowing the youngster was playing before his right front tire.

Aviation Award To Airlift Pilot

Mobile, Ala., April 14 (AP).—The Cheney Award for 1948 will be presented to First Lieut. Gail S. Halvorsen, airlift pilot who treated Berlin children to candy.

The announcement was made today in a telegram to Halvorsen's commander from Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff. The flier is now stationed at Brookley Air Force Base here.

Vandenberg said a plaque, certificate and check for $500 will be presented to Halvorsen at ceremonies in Washington within the next 30 days.

PLAYS UP TO 50 MINUTES
AT ONE TOUCH OF A BUTTON!

Here, for the first time, is a record and changer designed together ...a record designed for automatic changing. The result is a combination of amazing simplicity and ease of operation. You load up to 10 records with one hand, in one swift motion. You press one button once for 50 minutes of music.

It's hard to believe your eyes! The record-changer operates from the center spindle, is noiseless and instantaneous! You'll be amazed by its trigger-action speed! And by its low cost : : : the new Victrola† plug-in player is only $24.95*!

New RCA Victor
45 rpm system

now brings you true "live-talent" quality with amazing savings in SPACE and COST!

Red Seal records only 95¢* All other records only 65¢*

At these low prices you can build the record collection you've dreamed about! And—made of non-breakable vinyl plastic—the records last up to 10 times longer! Unique "surface-saver" shoulders keep playing surfaces apart. A 12-inch, six-record album that weighed 5½ lbs. now can weigh only 12 ounces and can fit an ordinary bookcase shelf!

Best of all is "live-talent" quality—a new brilliance and clarity beyond anything you've ever heard. As the diagram shows, all records can theoretically have a "quality zone" where music is undistorted. But toward the center is a "distortion zone" where music loses clarity and brilliance. On the new 45 rpm recordings, for the first time in history, ALL the music grooves are within the distortion-free "quality zone." And there is virtually no surface or "needle" noise.

"YOU CAN STORE THEM IN YOUR BOOKCASE!"
All the new albums and singles are the same convenient size that fits any bookcase shelf . : : 18 albums or nearly 150 singles to the foot!

Storage space for 30 records in this handsome table-model radio phonograph! Improved "Silent Sapphire" permanent point jewel pickup is 3 times lighter—only ⅙ ounce pressure on records! 9-Y-7. AC. $79.95*

"78's" too! If you own a conventional player you can still enjoy a full selection of RCA Victor recordings. All new releases will be issued for the 78 rpm system too!

It has the "Golden Throat" —finest tone system in RCA Victor history!

This striking, modern console brings you all the glorious brilliance of new "live-talent" quality in recorded music plus AM and static-free FM radio! Big 12-inch speaker. Storage space for over 33 hours of recorded music. The RCA Victor 9-W-103 AC. $199.50*

QUICK COLOR IDENTIFICATION
A different color for each type of music makes records easier to store . . . more fun to play! And all the new records are the same new 7-inch size to play in any combination you choose.

Ready for you now: a wealth of all-time favorites as well as the new releases!

3700 G-Girls to Fight Eviction From Langston And Arlington Farms

More than 3700 Government girls here are faced with a housing problem—finding new rooms and apartments.

Uncle Sam has ordered them out of wartime dormitories at both Arlington Farms and Langston. The G-girls are fighting the mass eviction order. They will take their case to both the Congress and the White House.

The Public Housing Administration ordered the closing of the big housing units. Agency officials said: (1) the dormitories were losing money, and (2) there was no "urgent" need here for housing as there was sufficient private housing available.

PHA's legal authority to operate the housing units will expire the end of this year. However, the time can be legally extended if its officials "certify" that private housing isn't available to meet the needs of the G-girls. PHA's closing order included these directions:

That no new tenants shall be accepted by the dormitories after May 1; that tenants who move in between now and May 1 must vacate by July 1; that after July 1 the girls in the six big dormitories at Arlington Farms must be regrouped and the housing units gradually closed, and that the final deadline for closing all dormitories will be September 30.

A number of the girls have offered to pay a higher rent and they have agreed to a reduction of service if PHA will keep the dormitories open. Officials in several of the big agencies like Army and Navy have urged PHA to continue the dormitories. Quite a few of the girls have threatened to resign and return to their homes if the dormitories are closed.

The news of the PHA closing order has set off an interagency battle over the housing space. The Army already has taken over four of the dormitories, which it is using for military personnel with families who are stationed in this military district. It wants the remaining six.

The Navy is looking into the possibility of moving its Waves from the Potomac Park dormitories across the Potomac to Arlington Farms. Government planners are eager to have the Wave barracks removed from the park land.

Census has put in a bid for the Arlington Farms space. It plans to hire upward of 9000 temporary employes here over a period of months to help tabulate the 1950 general census. But it has no space to place its proposed huge temporary staff, and unless offices can be found soon here the operation will have to be transferred out of this city. The Senate rejected a request that funds be appropriated to build a new building at Suitland, Md., for the big census operation.

Robert Smith has support to be appointed chairman of the Civil Service Commission. He's former personnel director of the Labor Department, and he now handles labor relations for the Pullman Co. . . . Matt McGrath has been appointed director of the Boston office of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He was an assistant to the RFC directors here. . . . Sterling Foster has resigned as chief of RFC's loan operations to go into the lumber business in South Carolina.

NOTES: On this Good Friday many thousands of Federal workers will attend church. Your agency will be lenient in granting annual leave for that purpose. No official leave will be allowed for the services . . . Senator Langer blocked immediate passage in the Senate of the bill that would give the 7500 hard-pressed classified employes of the District Government a pay raise of $330 each retroactive to last July. The bill would give the 6000 in Foreign Service, another "stepchild" group, a similar pay raise, as well as increases for Federal executives, the only group in Government whose salaries haven't been raised in years.

Senator Long has accepted the chairmanship of the pay subcommittee of the Senate Civil Service Committee . . . The House Civil Service Committee will be able to conduct inquiries of Civil Service and postal problems under a resolution approved yesterday by the House Rules Committee . . . AFGE President Jim Yaden was back in office yesterday after a short illness. Meantime, the AFL employe union continues to boom; an increase of 2400 new members reported last month.

Taxis Pledge Lobby Fee For D. C. Cab Limit Law

10 Companies Agree To Pay Baltimore Judge $16,000 If Session Bill Passes

Leading Washington taxi companies have agreed to pay $16,000 to Chief Judge Joseph M. Wyatt of the Baltimore (Md.) Police Court if the Eighty-first Congress approves a bill for limiting the number of Washington taxicabs, it was learned last night.

The bill, which Judge Wyatt hopes will pass, was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.). He has sponsored similar bills in earlier years.

Wyatt's interest in the bill was disclosed by his registration with the Secretary of the Senate on April 8 as lobbyist for the following firms:

District Cab Co., Inc.; the Washington Bell Cab Co., Inc.; Washington Cab Association, Inc.; Premier Cab Association; Eagle Cab Co., Inc.; G. and M. Motors, Inc.; Skyview Cab Co., Inc; Independent Taxi Owners Association, Inc.; Columbia Cab Co., Inc.; Yellow Cab Co. of Washington, Inc.

$1500 Received

Wyatt's registration form said he is employed by the 10 companies until December 31, 1950, or until the bill is passed. He reported he had received $1500 and will receive $16,000 additional if the bill is passed. He said the listed companies had put up the money, and expenses if any were to be paid from the $1500.

Representative Beall, reached by phone at his home in Frostburg, Md., where he went in the afternoon, said that Judge Wyatt was a "very good friend. I know him well." He said he imagined Judge Wyatt would be around to see him about the bill.

Beall said his primary interest in introducing the bill "is to give better service to the public of the District."

Wyatt, reached by phone at his home in Baltimore, said that Beall's was the bill he would be interested in having passed.

He emphasized that the measure leaves it to the District Public Utilities Commission to fix the number of Washington taxicabs at a level that would be adequate to serve the "public convenience and necessity." The PUC could readjust the number from time to time.

No Arbitrary Reduction

To reach whatever number of cabs is fixed by the PUC as the limit, the bill specifies there is not to be an arbitrary reduction. Instead, the limitation figure would have to be reached by voluntary surrender, failure to renew, or forfeiture of existing licenses. Until the limitation was reached, no new license could be issued, and there would be a ban on sale, transfer or assignment of outstanding licenses.

Wyatt pointed out that his judgeship is not a full-time job, and does not preclude outside practice. He has law offices in Baltimore, is a member of the board of directors of the National Safety Council and a member of the American Bar Association committee for improvement of traffic courts. He is a former Maryland State Senator.

He pointed out that nearly every large city comparable in size to Washington has limited the number of its taxis and subjected them to close regulation. In Washington, he said, "there is no proper control and regulation."

Similar Washington taxi limitation bills have been blocked in earlier Congresses.

Thieves Take School Safe With $1184

A heavy green safe, containing $1184 in cash, was removed from the Browne Junior High School, 24th st. and Benning rd. ne., William B. Stinson, principal, reported to police.

In addition to the money, the safe contained $50 in postage stamps, 12 class pins, 30 class and award pins, keys, confidential records and other papers.

The safe, which was 3 by 2 by 2 feet in size and weighed more than 300 pounds, was rolled out of a room adjoining Stinson's office, out of the school and down a terrace, police said. In addition, the thieves took an adding machine, valued at $10.

D. C. Heads Confirm Policeman's Dismissal

District Commissioners have confirmed a Police Trial Board verdict dismissing Pvt. Gregory A. O'Connor from the force for conduct unbecoming an officer and willful use of violence.

O'Connor, who resides at 9506 52d ave., Berwn, Md., was found guilty by the trial board last month of beating Robert S. Simms, a forem Greenbelt, Md., resident, with a blackjack while riding in a taxicab.

ARCHITECT'S CONCEPTION—Drawing shows how the National Airport terminal building will look when the proposed extension (left) is added. Bids for the structure were opened yesterday by the Public Buildings Administration

D. C. Firm Bid Low on Airport Addition Job

Bids on a three-story southern extension to the terminal building at Washington National Airport were opened yesterday by the Public Buildings Administration.

The bids were in two parts. One covered construction of two floors of the proposed addition, the other covered this work, and extension of the present third floor of the terminal building over the addition, to complete the project.

Low bidder was the F. H. Martell Co., Inc., of Washington, which bid $1,437,000 and $1,580,000.

Other Concerns Bidding

Other bidders were Dyker Building Co., Inc., New York City, whose two-part bid was $1,497,000 and $1,584,000; John McShain, Inc., of Philadelphia, who bid $1,577,700 and $1,659,700; and Lipsett, Inc., of New York, who bid $1,870,000 and $1,930,000.

At the same time, PBA opened bids for elevators through two floors of the extension, a total bid for this work and for elevator service to the third floor. Low bidder for the two-part job was Baltimore Elevator Co., Inc., which offered to do the work for $14,385 and $18,643. Otis Elevator Co. of Washington bid $15,722 and $19,778.

To Act in About 10 Days

PBA officials said yesterday they plan to award contracts within about 10 days.

The additional terminal space is to be used for offices for the airlines and Government personnel who administer the airport. On the ground floor, a section of the new building will be extended as a passenger lobby from the main building.

Judge Fennell Rebuked Over Contempt Fine

In a sharply worded opinion, the Municipal Court of Appeals yesterday lashed out at a Municipal Court judge for finding a defendant for contempt of court "without semblance of a trial."

The defendant "was taken by the heels," the appeals court declared.

The alleged contempt occurred last fall during a hearing before Municipal Court Judge Aubrey B. Fennell on a motion for retrial by Edward F. Kelly who was previously convicted of soliciting prostitution.

Conviction Reversed

Attorney James J. Laughlin represented Kelly, who lives at 2126 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

The appeals court reversed Judge Fennell's contempt conviction.

Speaking for the higher court, Associate Judge Andrew McC. Hood cited the following extracts from the transcript of the hearing which led to Fennell's ruling:

"Mr. Short (Robert Short, Assistant United States Attorney): "I ask Your Honor to, if you will, caution the defendant not to make side remarks about the truth and veracity of the prosecutor in his attempt to rebuild these facts to His Honor . . .

"The Court: Did you use the word 'liar'?

"Mr. Kelly: Just to myself; not speaking out loud.

"The Court: Did you speak the word 'liar'? Did you or not?

"Mr. Kelly: I didn't address it, sir, to anybody.

"The Court: Did you speak it?

"Mr. Kelly: I thought it.

"The Court: Did you speak it?

"Mr. Kelly: I guess I did under my breath, Your Honor.

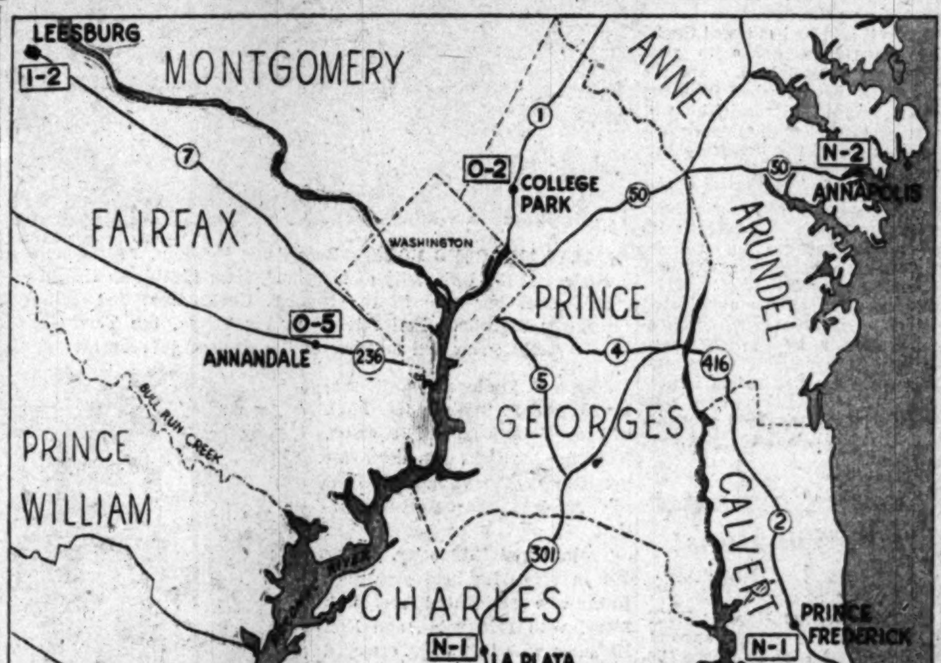
"The Court: I hold you in contempt of court, and I impose a fine of $10."

Judge Hood concluded that the proceeding by which Kelly was found guilty of contempt was "summary in every sense of that word . . . The appellant was compelled to submit to an inquisition by the court without benefit of advice from counsel; and the appellant was afforded no opportunity to present witnesses on his behalf, if any he had. In other words, the appellant was taken by the heels and fined for contempt of court without semblance of a trial."

Man Gets 120 Days In Jobless Pay Case

George I. Reed, 70 V st. nw., has been sentenced to 120 days in jail by Municipal Court Judge Aubrey B. Fennell for making fraudulent claims for benefits under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act.

Reed reportedly registered as unemployed for 31 weeks and received $558 in benefit checks while working as a truck driver.



AIRPORTS OF THE FUTURE—Map shows approximate location of airports the Civil Aeronautics Administration reported yesterday would be necessary in the future to serve the District and its outlying area. The CAA foresaw construction at Annandale, Va., of a great airport to supplement National Airport, probably to handle intercontinental traffic; at the other points it recommended small airports for light craft. Letters and figures (boxed) at airport locations indicate: 1—runways, 1800 to 2700 feet; 2—runways, 2700 to 3700 feet; 5—runways, 5500 to 6500 feet and paved; N—new site not yet selected; O—new site selected

Great World Airport, Six New Flying Fields Are Area Needs for Future Foreseen by CAA

A great new intercontinental airport and a half-dozen small flying fields were listed yesterday by the Civil Aeronautics Administration as future needs of the District area.

No estimated cost for the projects was given. In fact, a CAA spokesman explained that the new fields were "forecast" for the future rather than scheduled for early construction.

The report, made in conformity with the Federal Airport Act of 1946, included recommendations for 19 airports and one seaplane base to be constructed in Maryland and six existing airports and two seaplane bases to be improved. For Virginia, it recommended that eight new fields be constructed and 22 existing fields be improved.

706 District Aircraft

It showed also that the District of Columbia last year had 706 certified aircraft, 964 private pilots and 1086 commercial pilots, not including airline pilots. Maryland had 1023 aircraft, 1967 private and 1622 commercial pilots, and Virginia, 1459 aircraft, 3520 private and 2496 commercial pilots.

The District at the same time had one civil airport, Maryland 45, and Virginia 113. In the Nation as a whole, there were 6016 civil airports, 94,914 aircraft, 202,692 private and 176,036 commercial pilots.

Washington's projected intercontinental airport, it is understood, probably would be near Annandale, Va., a likely choice on account of the excellent road net. The CAA spokesman, however, said the site had not yet been definitely chosen and it had not even been decided whether it would be in Maryland or Virginia.

The spokesman emphasized that the CAA report did not refer to airports that had been definitely decided upon, and for which funds had been appropriated or asked. Taking the Washington intercontinental airport as an example, he said:

"That is a forecast of what ultimately will be needed here. Everybody knows an alternate airport for Washington will be needed some day and eventually we will build one."

Matched Funds Used

He explained that funds for construction of airports in the States are appropriated in a lump sum annually and must be matched by city, county or State funds. Those for the alternate Washington Airport, he said, would have to be in a separate appropriation since they would not be matched locally.

The spokesman added that it was not the practice of CAA to build Federally aided fields in localities already adequately served by private fields. The forecast, he explained, was based on this consideration.

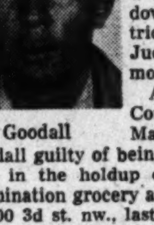
New airports in Maryland were recommended at Annapolis, Baltimore, Bel Air, Brunswick, Burkittsville, Cambridge, Centerville, College Park, Crisfield, Denton, Ellicott City, Fullerton, Hancock, La Plata, Oakland, Prince Frederick, Reisterstown, Towson and Westernport. Improvements to Maryland airports were recommended at Cumberland, Easton, Frederick, Hagerstown, Ocean City and Salisbury.

New seaplane bases were projected at St. Michaels and improved seaplane bases at Cambridge and Oakland.

In Virginia, new airports were suggested for Big Stone Gap, Charlottesville, Harrisonburg, Lexington, Pennington Gap, South Boston, Woodstock and Wytheville. Improvements were recommended at Altavista, Blacksburg, Cape Charles, Danville, Farmville, Fredericksburg, Front Royal, Galax, Leesburg, Lynchburg, Marion, Martinsville, Newport News, Norfolk, Orange, Pulaski, Richlands, Richmond, Roanoke, Staunton, Suffolk and Winchester.

Goodall Given Death Sentence For Drugstore Holdup Slaying

Lawrence Goodall, 24, of 412 Oakdale pl. nw., yesterday was sentenced to die in the electric chair July 15 for the holdup slaying of Nathaniel Johnson, 53, in his Southwest drug store last fall.



Goodall

The sentence was handed down by District Court Judge Richmond B. Keech.

A District Court jury on March 21 found Goodall guilty of being the trigger man in the holdup of Johnson's combination grocery and drugstore at 600 3d st. nw., last October 12.

The jury returned the verdict of first degree murder after six hours and 10 minutes deliberation.

Edward M. Jackson, 25, of 364 Dixon ct. sw., who accompanied Goodall on the night of the crime, and pleaded guilty to second-degree murder as "lookout man" in the holdup, was sentenced to 15 years to life imprisonment by Keech.

Jackson testified against Goodall during the trial last month, but denied being an accomplice.

Police said that, while attempting to rob Johnson in his store about 10 p. m., Goodall fired his .45-caliber revolver at 10-foot range into Johnson's body.

In another slaying case, District Court Judge James W. Morris sentenced Monroe Johnson, 37, to 15 years to life in jail. Johnson was convicted April 1 for the fatal stabbing of Elizabeth Steel, alias Elizabeth Johnson, in his basement apartment January 9. They lived at 1606 New Jersey ave. nw.

Judge Keech also ordered Walter Boston, 28, no fixed address, to serve 15 to 45 months for attempting to rape a 25-year-old mother of four children in her home.

Board to Hear Policemen Today In Boy Beating

Police Pvts. Eugene L. Hummer, 39, and William Harry Reed, 29, will face a police trial board at 10 a. m. today to answer charges of beating a 16-year-old boy after arresting him on car-tampering charges.

The officers, both attached to the Ninth Precinct station, were suspended two weeks ago when the mother of the lad filed complaints with the Police Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Following the hearing of the case, the board will consider the case of Pvt. Talbert Dowling of the Eleventh Precinct station charged with neglect of duty, disobedience of orders and failure to make a proper report of an assault case.

Dr. Levin Named To Medical Post At Georgetown U.

Dr. Isadore Levin, Washington specialist in physical medicine, has been appointed associate professor of medicine at Georgetown University School of Medicine, it was announced.

In his new position, he will head the school's department of physical medicine, according to the Rev. Paul A. McNally, S. J., director of the Georgetown University Medical Center.

Dr. Levin, 45, and a native of this city, attended Seaton Elementary School, Central High School, and received his M. D. degree from George Washington University in 1929.

Since 1936 he has specialized in physical medicine, and has been director of the physical department at Doctors Hospital since its opening in 1940. He lives at 5814 3d st. nw.

Chief Defends 2 Police After Scott Rebuke

Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett yesterday defended two policemen accused Wednesday of brutality by Judge Armond W. Scott in Municipal Court.

Pvts. Benjamin F. Howze and John C. Ostrom, both of the Second Precinct, were castigated by Judge Scott as a "disgrace to the force."

Barrett said he was "surprised" at Judge Scott's words when he read them in the newspapers. He said he had received a report of the incident from the Second Precinct and after studying it concluded the men were not out of line. The man they arrested, he noted, had pushed one of the policemen through a glass door, breaking the glass.

The man arrested was Eugene Brooks, 39, of 909 O st. nw. Judge Scott said the two policemen were guilty of "brutally beating a helpless drunk."

Despite his criticism of the policemen, Judge Scott said he had to find Brooks guilty of assault because he started the argument with the officers.

He suspended sentence, declaring Brooks had suffered more than enough punishment. After he was subdued by the policemen, Brooks was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition. He remained in the hospital for two weeks.

Brooks has a record of 25 arrests for minor offenses and last year was sentenced to nine months for assault.

Arkansas State Society To Honor McDonald

The Arkansas State Society will present an award to Arch McDonald, radio sports commentator during the society's spring dance Saturday at the Shoreham.

The award is in line with the society's policy of recognizing native sons who have achieved success in their occupations.

House Approves GAO and Court Building Funds

Bill Sent Senate Carries 5 Million Each; Other Money Measures Advance

The House late yesterday passed and sent to the Senate a bill carrying 5 million dollars each for the new Federal Courts and General Accounting Office buildings here.

The money was in the Independent Offices appropriations bill which cleared the House by a voice vote. Also included was $715,000 for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, mostly for land purchases in Washington and Maryland.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations Committee approved and sent to the floor the Labor-Federal Security money bill, containing these funds affecting the Washington metropolitan area:

1. A two-million-dollar fund for building and equipping a "suitable and adequate" headquarters for the National Institute of Dental Research, at Bethesda.

2. These increases over House-approved money were recommended: $275,000 for producing yellow fever vaccine and for peptic ulcer research at the National Institute of Health, $627,000 for the National Cancer Institute, and one million dollars for the National Heart Institute.

3. For St. Elizabeths Hospital, the committee added $70,000 over the House figure, to give the requested full budget of $1,820,000.

Other House-approved funds which cleared the Senate committee without change included: $315,300 for the Columbia Institution for the Deaf; $2,443,000 for Freedmen's Hospital; $2,335,000 for support of Howard University, plus $60,000 for planning a premedical building there, plus $5,659,425 for continuing construction of other buildings there.

Committee actions boosting House figures fixed these totals for health agencies: National Institute of Health, $12,075,000, plus $1,925,000 in contract authority for research grants; National Cancer Institute, $17,027 in money, and five million dollars in contract authority; National Heart Institute, $8,725,000 in money and $3,850,000 in contract authority.

For Home Rule

New Member For Elected School Board

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Home rule and an elected school board will have a champion on the Board of Education in Mrs. Edward C. Magdeburger.

The newly appointed member said yesterday she favors both self-rule and national representation for the District as well as a school board elected by residents.

The District Federation of Women's Clubs, of which she has been president since 1947, last year went on record for the Auchincloss home rule bill. The organization has taken a similar stand on home rule proposals made this year.

She'll Be in Minority

As a proponent for an elected school board Mrs. Magdeburger will be in a minority when she meets with other board members for the first time next Wednesday.

Last year when the Board of Education considered such a proposal Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, then president, broke with a majority vote to support election of members.

Mrs. Magdeburger of 1612 Missouri ave. nw., was named by District Court judges Wednesday to fill Mrs. Doyle's unexpired term as board member.

On the question of additional Federal aid for the District and an increased school budget, Mrs. Magdeburger has not made up her mind. Now that she is a member of the school board, she will give it careful consideration, she said.

As education chairman for the Petworth Women's Club and during many years of association with parent-teacher organizations, Mrs. Magdeburger has come to believe, though, in the necessity for expending funds to provide the best possible education for Washington's children. Modern methods of education including use of visual aids have her approval.

Wants "Value Received"

On her must reading list she has placed the extensive report on District schools prepared by Dr. George D. Strayer. If Mrs. Magdeburger has her way the School Board will give it careful consideration.

The District having spent $100,000 for the report "should get value received," she believes.

Mrs. Madeburger, who will help direct Washington's schools and the education program for its 90,000 children, believes that her best qualifications for the job are her own five children who attended District public schools, a desire to serve and a willingness to learn.

Mrs. Magdeburger also will follow in her predecessor's footsteps in her interest in programs for handicapped children. Like Mrs. Doyle she believes in special education for the physically and mentally handicapped.

Her more than six years of service as a nurse's aide, including 3000 voluntary hours in the clinic at Children's Hospital, she believes, has given her an insight into the problem.

Citizens Urge Sesqui Site Near Armory

The Southeast Citizens Association went on record last night as favoring locating of the Sesquicentennial Exposition grounds adjacent to the National Guard Armory.

The action was taken in support of earlier requests by the Southeast Business Men's Association and the Capitol Hill Lions Club. The meeting was held at the Hine Junior High School, 7th and C sts. se.

Mrs. Elizabeth Draper, association secretary who made the motion, said funds would be put to better use in making permanent improvements on the Armory grounds than in replacing temporary buildings with other temporary buildings on the proposed site in Potomac Park. She also pointed to the greater parking facilities at the Armory location.

The group indorsed the request of the Minnesota Center Citizens Association for early construction of a public library on dedicated ground near Minnesota ave. and Benning rd. ne., and pledged its support to the clean up drive.

Announcement was made of a meeting May 11 at Friendship House, 619 D st. se., to promote "rehabilitation of Southeast Washington" to be sponsored jointly by the citizens group, the Southeast Businessmen's Association, Hine Parent-Teacher Association and Capitol Hill Lions Club.

House Votes 'Go Ahead' on Sesqui Plans

The House yesterday approved and sent to the Senate legislation authorizing the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission to go ahead planning the 150th anniversary celebration for Washington next year.

Representative Mary T. Norton (D., N. J.) presented the resolution to the House as chairman of the Committee on House Administration. It was approved by a voice vote.

Fund Approval Refused

The committee told the House the legislation was needed to give the Sesquicentennial Commission authority to implement its plans. Approval of the resolution came after the House Appropriations Committee had refused to recommend funds totaling $1,500,000 for the commission.

But passage of Mrs. Norton's bill put the House on record as declaring that the celebration is "worthy and deserving of the support and encouragement of the people of the United States and that the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission should be authorized to proceed immediately with the execution of the plan or plans for such commemorative exercises."

Actions Authorized

The bill authorizes the commission to hire personnel, erect buildings, fix charges for Sesquicentennial events, receive contributions for the celebration, and do other necessary things. It calls on Federal and District officials to cooperate with the Sesquicentennial group.

The bill says, in effect, that when the show is over the Commission is to return borrowed property, sell what's left to the highest bidder, and turn the proceeds over to the Treasury.

The bill also authorizes a later appropriation to be made for the commission's activities.

Special Police Get Wide Color Choice

Special police in the District can wear red, white and blue uniforms if they want — it's all right with the Commissioners —just so they don't look like Maj. Robert J. Barrett's regulars.

The American Federation of Government Employes had objected to an order by Barrett prescribing brown whipcord as the official working clothes for special policemen during duty hours.

Guards employed in District buildings want to wear blue uniforms, like other building guards in Washington. Besides, said James G. Yaden, AFGE president, they're cheaper.

The Corporation Counsel's office ruled that Barrett has the right to require special officers to wear uniforms that can be distinguished from those of Metropolitan policemen, but he can't dictate the cut cr color. So the Commissioners decided the special officers can set their own fashions.

Boat Capsizes

Salesman Drowns on Fishing Trip

John Mannheim, 46-year-old hardware salesman, was drowned yesterday in the Potomac River when his rowboat capsized.

Mannheim

The accident happened at about 10:15 a. m. Mannheim, who lived at 4866 MacArthur blvd. nw., and a companion, Robert Honaker, 38, of 4613 N. 23d st., Arlington, Va., had rented a boat at Fletcher's Boathouse and gone out to fish.

They were in the Georgetown Channel about 200 yards downstream from Chain Bridge when both stood up in the boat to hoist the anchor. The boat capsized and both men were thrown into the water.

Nearby were two other boatmen, John Sipes, 46, and Richard Hunter, 27, both of whom live on 6th st. in Cabin John, Md. They rushed to the spot and rescued Honaker, but when they turned to Mannheim he had disappeared.

Honaker went to his home after first-aid treatment by fire rescue squad No. 1. Harbor police dragged unsuccessfully for Mannheim's body and finally were forced to suspend grappling operations because of the change in tide. They said they would resume the operation later.

Mannheim, a native of Sumter, S. C., was employed as a salesman by W. T. Weaver & Sons, hardware firm at 1208 Wisconsin ave. nw. His wife, Mrs. Pattie Blackistone Mannheim, is employed at the Department of Interior. They have no children.

Mannheim, who had attended Georgetown University, Staunton Military Academy and Emerson Institute, was a veteran of both world wars.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a brother, Joseph L. Mannheim of Washington, and four sisters, Miss Hinda Mannheim, of Washington, Mrs. Edna Shea, now in Tokyo; Mrs. Marie E. Brauner, of Burlingame, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Woodburn of San Antonio, Tex.

Warehouse Robbed Of $2600 in Paper

Ten tons of offset paper valued at $2600 were removed from the Federal Lithograph Co. warehouse at 6011 Blair rd. nw. by well-equipped thieves sometime between March 1 and April 12, police learned yesterday.

Charles T. Williams, vice president of the paper concern, reported the paper was on 10 skids, each bearing a weight on one ton. The loss was discovered yesterday during an inventory.

Auto Tag Deadline

The deadline for buying Alexandria City auto tags, originally set for today, has been extended through Monday, April 18, City Manager Robert S. Marshall, jr., announced yesterday. The reason Marshall said, is that city offices will be closed today because of Good Friday.

Today is still the deadline for purchasing State auto tags, however, in Alexandria and elsewhere in Virginia.

Flying Disc Seen

A new version of the flying saucer was reported to police yesterday by Mrs. R. D. Burnett, of Route 2, Falls Church.

About 7:15 a. m., she reported, an "oblonge something" followed by a long white streak and emitting "a kind of a buzz" zoomed n a wide circle around Falls Church, then was lost behind some trees.

Teachers Given Concert

Nine elementary school teachers from four foreign countries who visited Arlington's Henry Clay School Wednesday were greeted with a harmonica concert by the school's fifth grade students.

The teachers, from Norway, the Netherlands, Finland and the Philppines, made the visit as part of an American tour. They were guests of the Junior Red Cross.

Prayer Books Stolen

Historic Christ Church in Alexandria found itself minus half a dozen hymnals and prayer books and the entrance sign out front Wednesday after a visit from a group of Midwestern high school students.

This was not unusual, explained Rector B. B. Comer Lile. But someone had added a new twist by autographing George Washington's pew with the name "Louey."

Firemen's Mascot Dies

Silver Spring firemen yesterday mourned the death of their mascot, a 2-year-old Dalmatian called Sparky, which apparently had been poisoned.

The dog, which accompanied firemen on all calls and rode on the shiny red wagons during parades, became ill last Sunday. Dr. John R. Keeler, a Silver Spring veterinarian of 8109 Georgia ave., with the consent of the firemen, destroyed the dog.

$400,000 Cut Held a 'Must' In Alexandria

Alexandria must shave at least $400,000 from its $3,936,624 spending budget this year to stay out of the red, City Councilman R. Samuel Luckett warned yesterday.

The chairman of the council's finance committee gave these reasons why the city must make a 10 per cent cut in anticipated spending in the fiscal year which started January 1:

1. The city paid off a $200,000 bank note in February for which no money had been budgeted.

2. Receipts from license taxes were $180,000 short of the anticipated $600,000 goal as of March 31. City auto license taxes, which are still coming in, may narrow the gap by $50,000.

3. The revenue budget includes an anticipated surplus of $219,074 by the end of 1949 which can't be counted on yet.

Luckett said he has urged the 26 city department heads to save wherever possible. No specific items have been slashed from the budget, but Luckett said he will meet monthly with department heads to see if the necessary saving is being made.

Most departments had spent less than one-quarter of their annual budget by March 31, Luckett said, but much more saving will be necessary to bring the city out even December 31.

The amount of the anticipated surplus, Luckett said, is determined largely by the difference between anticipated revenue and spending when the budget is prepared. The auditing firm now checking the city's 1948 accounts has warned against the practice, he added.

Former Carpenter Gets $2600 Boost As House Clerk

Harry Livingston, former $3000-a-year carpenter whose appointment to a $6000 job as House Disbursing clerk two months ago stirred a Capitol Hill controversy yesterday, moved upward another notch when his pay was boosted to about $8600.

Livingston, Democratic chairman of Buffalo's Twenty-fourth Ward, replaced J. C. Shanks, 16-year incumbent, last February 24. Shanks has since been given special work "on a day-to-day basis" by Ralph H. Roberts, clerk of the House.

Yesterday's pay boost was upon a resolution presented by Representative Mary T. Norton (D., N. J.) It was approved by voice vote.

Previous base pay for the post was $3900 with actual pay about $6000. The Norton resolution raised the base to $6000 and the actual pay to about $8600.

Commissioners To Consider Easing ABC Rule

District Commissioners will meet with a delegation from the Washington Restaurant Beverage Association at 10 a. m. Thursday to discuss a proposal for sale of liquor from midnight Sunday to 2 a. m. on Mondays.

The association has asked that holders of Class C and D liquor sales licenses be permitted to serve beverages during such hours. Present regulations prohibit serving between midnight Sunday and 8 a. m. Monday.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has decided the plan is not "in the public interest," but suggested the Commissioners "might like to have public expression" on the proposal before taking final action.

Reburial Rites Are Held for Lieut. Randall

Reburial service for First Lieut. J. Howard Randall, 22, who was killed in the assault on Dieppe, August 19, 1942, were held yesterday in Arlington Cemetery.

Lieut. Randall

Lieut. Randall was buried by the side of his parents, Colonel and Mrs. Joseph F. Randall, who died since his death.

A native Washingtonian, he received his reserve commission in June, 1941, after completing his military training at the University of Maryland. After training at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga., he went overseas in April, 1942, with the 168th Infantry.

After volunteering for the First Ranger Battalion and training with British Commandos, he was one of six American officers to participate in the Dieppe raid.

Although his landing barge was sunk during the approach, Lieut. Randall assembled his command and continued the assault. He was struck by machine gun fire four times before falling for the last time.

Lieut. Randall, who lived at 3146 19th st. nw., attended Central High School and the University of Maryland. At Maryland he played on the lacrosse team and was active in school affairs. He was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity, the Interfraternity Council, Scabbard and Blade honorary military society, the Luther Club and the Rossborough Club.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. William Percy Pence, Mrs. Kathryn R. Proctor and Miss Peggy Randall, and a niece, Linda Anne Proctor, all of Washington.

Lieut. W. R. D. Snyder

Second Lieut. William R. D. Snyder, 23, who was killed while flying on his eighth bombing mission, will be reburied in Arlington Cemetery today at 2 p. m.

Lieut. Snyder

Lieut. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. George William Snyder, of 2407 Girard pl. ne., was a native of Baltimore, Md. He was educated in Washington schools and was graduated from McKinley High School. He worked for the Western Electric Co. as a repairman before entering the service in July, 1942.

A B-17 pilot, he was shot down over Brunswick, Germany. He was awarded the Air Medal posthumously.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Constance M. Grosz, of 315 Franklin st. ne., who has since remarried; two brothers, George C. and James K., and four sisters, Mrs. Samuel Murphy, Mrs. Helen Bell, Miss Juanita Snyder and Miss Wilma Snyder.

Easter Ham Prices Few Cents Under '48

Plentiful supplies of the traditional Easter ham are available in Washington food stores today with current prices a few pennies under last year's.

The price range is from just under 50 cents to nearly 70 cents a pound, depending on size, quality and cut. Nationally, the Associated Press reported, prices are down from 2 to 6 cents a pound from a year ago.

The somewhat lower ham prices are not an indication of a lower trend for meats in general, trade sources said. Other meat and poultry prices are about the same as last week.

Lamb, another Easter-time favorite, remains high because of scarcity.

Egg prices are about the same as last week with plenty of coloring available to dress them up for the kiddies before popping them into a frying pan—or using them hard boiled in a salad.

In New York, the Butter & Egg Merchants Association complained that the Government's price support buying of dried eggs has created an artificial shortage despite near record production. But an Agriculture Department spokesman declared the price support operation has been under the 90 per cent parity level required for the year as a whole.

Washington stores are well stocked with Easter candy, including all varieties of the traditional candy eggs. Prices on many types are down from last year in some cases, while other manufacturers have passed along to consumers the benefits of lower wholesale chocolate prices by increasing the chocolate content of the candy.

The surest sign of spring was a report yesterday that Florida has shipped its first carload of watermelons—one of the earliest shipments in years.

Crowds Move

Holiday Train Travel Put At 150,000

Washington is expected to lose some of its usual population—and gain at least as many temporary residents—for the Easter weekend which officially begins today.

Union Station officials predict that the peak of in-bound and out-bound traffic will be reached some time late today, with 150,000 persons expected to pass through the terminal before Saturday. Buses and airlines also reported operation at near capacity through Easter Monday, with extra sections and trips added.

Yesterday, 16 extra sections were put on to care for incoming and outgoing crowds. Today, there will be from 24 to 28 extra sections.

Most Washington hotels report they are solidly booked through Easter week.

The holidays will mean a holiday for all public school students in Greater Washington. Washington schools are to be closed today through April 25. Arlington school children are off until next Tuesday. Alexandria school children return to classes on Wednesday, as do Montgomery and Prince Georges students.

City offices in Alexandria and in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties will also be closed today.

For today's Good Friday observances, the weatherman has forecast increasing cloudiness with mild temperatures. Showers are expected tonight.

Fine Season For Crops Seen

Baltimore, April 14 (AP).—Maryland's crop and weather reporters today took their first look of the season at growing conditions and found prospects unusually bright.

The winter has been generally mild. Spring has come on early.

At this point, it looks like a bumper crop of winter wheat and a fine fruit season. Pastures are green and succulent. Cows are giving more milk. Chickens are laying more eggs.

The only dark spots in the bright picture are these:

1. Some of the heavier soils have too much moisture. This has been hard only on strawberries, so far. They are only fair.
2. The dampishness is conducive to the dreaded blue mold in tobacco plant beds.
3. More bugs are in prospect because of the mild winter.
4. It can still get cold.

Some cooler weather, in fact, is already on its way from the western plains. So far, however, it does not promise temperatures low enough to damage the burgeoning fruit crop.

Teetotaling Dog Sets Off $15,000 Brawl in Bar

Tombstone, Ariz., April 14 (AP).—A teetotalling dog refused to take a shot of whisky in a local bar with these results:

Bartender Frank Pistonetti lost almost all of one eye.

Stanley Tanner will have to pay $15,500 in damages.

The dog got a lusty kick for his indifference.

A Superior Court jury today awarded Pistonetti $15,000 in damages and Judge Frank Thomas assessed Tanner an additional $500 punitive damages after hearing the following testimony:

Tanner picked up the dog in Pistonetti's Wagon Wheel saloon and ordered two drinks. One was for the dog, which Tanner claimed was over 21 and thirsty.

Pistonetti complied. The dog refused the drink. Tanner kicked the animal. The dog's owner protested.

In the fight that followed, Pistonetti was hit over the head with a beer bottle and a finger was jabbed in his eye. The eye's vision is now 90 per cent gone.

New Phone Book in Effect On April 24

Washington's new telephone book, first since March, 1948, goes into effect on midnight April 23.

The new book, now being distributed by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., marks the beginning of the five-digit system made necessary by the expanding number of telephone subscribers.

Affected in the first transition period are the Lincoln, Ludlow, Locust and Kenmore offices, already in existence. Created to aid in carrying the load are three new central offices: Johnson, Lockwood and Logan.

The new books carry a warning that the new numbering system does not become effective until midnight Saturday, April 23.

Telephone Company officials have estimated that it will take from three to five years to complete transformation of the entire local system to the five digit numbering plan.

The grey book carries 1000 (even) pages of local subscribers—as compared with last year's 938. The number of pages of suburban subscribers also is upped, from 36 last year to 40 in the current book.

Arnold L. Aaberg, of 12 Walnut st. nw., heads the list of "A" subscribers (aside from abbreviated firm names), and Boley S. Zywusko, of 51 Dupont ave., Kensington, Md., is the last of the Z's.

In the catagory of names most often seen in the new book, Smith appears to lead all the rest—with more than 40 columns of different-named Smiths to phone. Other leaders are Johnson, with 27 columns; Brown, with 25 columns and Jones with 23 columns.

For the first time, the Economic Cooperation Administration, new sprung since the last directory went to press, has a listed telephone number. Other new Government listings are the Air Coordinating Committee, the National Air Museum, and Fort Lesley J. McNair (formerly the Army War College).

The new classified directory has 844 pages, as compared with 904 in the 1948 book. As in last year's book, classifications run from "Abdominal Supports" to "Zippers."

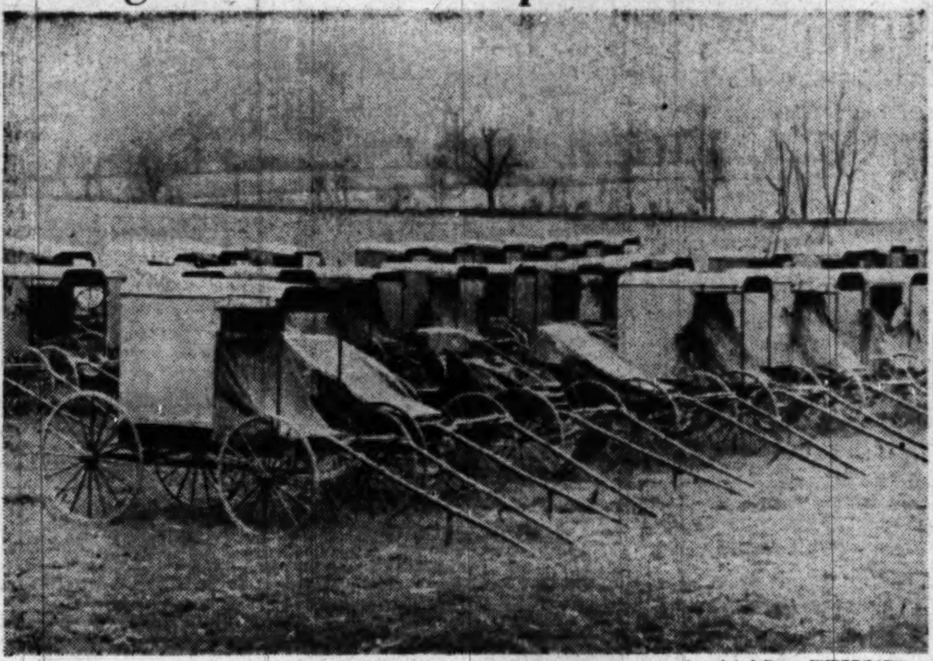
Carriages at Amish Bishop's Funeral



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

SYMBOLIC—A number of horse-drawn carriages, part of a group of 125, are lined up in a field near a farmhouse in Morgantown, Pa., where funeral services were held yesterday for a bishop of the House Amish. The funeral cortege accompanied Bishop Samuel M. Stolzfus, 89-year-old retired farmer, to his final resting place. He was for years the spiritual leader of the religious group which shuns automobiles, electric lights and even buttons on their clothing as evidences of earthly vanity. The services lasted three hours

Virginia Chamber Gets Look At Candidates for Governor

Roanoke, Va., April 14 (AP).—The State Chamber of Commerce got a first-hand look at issues and personalities tonight in the Democratic primaries for Governor next August.

Horace H. Edwards of Richmond discussed school needs and his proposed 2 per cent retail emergency sales tax to finance them.

Francis Pickens Miller of Charlottesville detailed his qualifications for Governor.

State Senator John S. Battle said his "remedy for school conditions as outlined earlier in the week will take care of construction needs and provide for a reasonable minimum salary for teachers." Battle would appropriate some 57 million dollars for school construction immediately, if elected.

Other candidates for the nomination invited to address the chamber at its twenty-fivfth annual meeting were Remmie L. Arnold of Petersburg and Mayor Nick Prillaman of Martinsville.

There is too much tendency to look to the Government for assistance with community problems, the chamber was told earlier by William H. Neal, senior vice president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., Winston-Salem, N C., in an appeal for a return to community-level thinking, planning and action.

Altar Washed With Wine At St. Peter's

Vatican City, April 14 (U.P.).—Holy Thursday was celebrated in St. Peter's basilica today.

In commemoration of Christ's washing the feet of His disciples on the night of the Last Supper, the lofty papal altar over the tomb of St. Peter, the prince of the Apostles, was washed with wine, balsam and water.

Frederico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest of the basilica, officiated. After the altar was washed, it was dried with pulpy strips of palm. The ceremony was preceded by the chanting of the "tenebrae."

The faithful visited at least seven churches.

The Pope did not participate in any special ceremony.

Peace Rules Holy City

Jerusalem, April 14 (U.P.).—Barbed wire still lay tangled and rusting in some of the streets, but peace prevailed in the Holy City today on the first day of the Jewish Passover.

It was the second Passover without the traditional pilgrimages to the Wailing Wall, now in Arab territory.

Orthodox Jews, bearded and fur-capped, mingled with Oriental and Western Jews in the synagogues of Jerusalem and at prayer services at the tomb of David on Mount Zion.

Train Wreck Kills Clerk

New Albany, Miss., April 14 (U.P.). A mail clerk was killed and 29 persons were injured when a St. Louis to New Orleans passenger train, the Rebel, crashed head-on into a northbound freight near here late last night.

Baltimore Line Asks Authority to Extend Service

The Baltimore Steam Packet Co., yesterday asked authority to provide regular passenger and freight service between Washington and several additional Virginia ports.

The company, which has operated on Chesapeake Bay for 109 years, recently applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to extend these operations into Washington.

An amendment to the application, made public yesterday, said the company proposes regular service between Washington and the ports of Norfolk, Portsmouth, Old Point Comfort and Newport News, Va.

The company known as the "Old Bay Line" said it proposes to use the steamer, District of Columbia formerly operated by the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Co., in this service.

The Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Co. was dissolved by its stockholders last December after service had been suspended following a collision between the District of Columbia and a tanker off Hampton Roads, October 31.

The steamer was later sold to the Baltimore company.

Two Tests Expected In Wheat Harvest

The first Government estimate for this year's winter wheat harvest forecast Tuesday a tremendous 1,019,689,000 bushels—30 million bushels more than last year, and next to 1947 the greatest in history.

Not only was a near-record wheat crop forecast, but the report of the official Crop Reporting Board, released Monday, April 11 carried the unmentioned threat of a lot of headaches for Agriculture Department officials next fall.

Department heads see in the pending harvest a critical test of (1) the Government's farm price support system, and (2) the Nation's grain storage facilities.

They also see what one official termed "unmistakable signs" that crop controls must be imposed after this year. Such controls would include planting restrictions such as acreage allotments, marketing quotas, etc.

Others predicted the outlook for almost twice as much bread grain as the country can consume, would virtually assure adoption by the Congress of the recently drawn International Wheat Agreement, by which 40 nations have agreed to buy at least 168 million bushels of wheat from the United States a year for four years. A similar agreement was turned down by the previous Congress.

Yesterday's wheat prediction indicated that the wheat crop this year may turn out to be not only the fourth billion-bushel crop in succession, but even may exceed the tremendous all-time crop of 1947.

Winter wheat that year totaled 38 million bushels more than was predicted for this year yesterday. With favorable weather from now until June, that record could easily be surpassed.

But even a crop of 1,019,000,000 bushels, plus a spring wheat crop of 300 million—such as was harvested last year—would mean a total wheat crop of more than 1.3 billion bushels.

Officials have said a total crop of 1,275,000,000 bushels or more would put the wheat supply into a high-level class under crop control laws. This would require the department to propose controls on the 1950 crop. This year's production will be supplemented by a carryover or reserve of possibly 350 million bushels from last year.

Even if exports continue large, requirements from this year's crop are not now expected to exceed 1,200,000,000 bushels.

Marketing quotas would require approval of two thirds of the growers voting in a referendum.

However, no decision of 1950 controls will be made until the crop has developed further.

Such controls are already in effect for major types of tobacco and peanuts. The department expects to extend them to cotton and possibly to wheat and corn next year.

U. S. Loyalty Parades Set

A national parade committee yesterday completed plans for a countrywide loyalty demonstration on May 1.

The purpose is to combat any effects of Communist propaganda. Maurice J. Tobin, Secretary of Labor, is chairman of the committee.

National headquarters said that governors and civic leaders throughout the country have responded to suggestions for gigantic loyalty parades on May Day.

A group of congressmen endorsed the program at a special meeting and suppport has been offered by many prominent Americans. Among them, Morris Ernst, Francis Cardinal Spellman, as well as veteran, labor, civic and foreign language organizations.

"Every community should go along with the idea," said Representative Augustine Kelley (D., Pa.), who was a committee member of last year's loyalty parades in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

The committee reports that there have been organized patriotic parades as competitive enterprises to any Communist demonstrations on May 1 in New York, Boston, Los Angeles, Trenton, Philadelphia and other places. There will be special religious services in Buffalo, Houston, Chicago, and many other cities.

Tough Winter for All But Western Coyotes

Salt Lake City (U.P.).—It's been a hard winter but a good one for coyotes.

Take it from a representative of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, who just came out of hibernation himself from his office here.

A warm "Arctic Circle" fur kept coyotes warm while everyone else shivered in subzero temperatures. Hundreds of deer froze and starved in snowblocked western canyons, giving the coyote frozen venison. And bitter weather blocked professional trappers from coyote haunts.

Trial 'Blows' Force Loyalty Probe by Reds

NYHT News Service

New York, April 14.—A loyalty investigation in reverse of every enrolled Communist is reported to have been secretly instituted by the Communist Party because of the stunning blow dealt the leftwing cause by the testimony of a Federal Bureau of Investigation undercover agent at the Communist trial here.

Those familiar with party organization said the thorough check-up, involving proceedings before the review committee of the party, was demanded by the party leadership, including some of the 11 national committeemen on trial in United States District Court for advocating overthrow of the Government by force.

The defendants—and other party members—suffered a severe jolt when Herbert A. Philbrick, Boston advertising executive and in the good graces of the party for nine years, was brought to the stand last week. Far more damaging to party prestige than his testimony was the disclosure that he had worked undetected in the party cadres for that length of time and had risen successively through the ranks to the post of education director.

Through him the Government was able to establish the activities and theories of the party past the day of indictmenut—July 20, 1948—and to the very minute he took the witness stand on April 6. The demeanor of the defendants and their attorneys as well as the reaction in "The Daily Worker" failed to conceal what amounted to shock at his five days of testimony.

Salad Wouldn't Wait So Nuptials Go On

Hutchinson, Kans. (U.P.).—A wedding supper salad became a valid condition for an emergency marriage license here.

The bride, Susie Ann Beltz, 54, and the bridegroom, William S. Reinke, 59, asked Judge Franklin Hettinger for a waiver of the three-day wedding period ruling.

Plans were complete, they said. The wedding cake was baked, chairs had been borrowed, and a special salad had been prepared. The salad would spoil if kept three days, they pleaded.

The appeal was granted.

Batt Stresses Importance of ITO Charter

Repudiation of the Havana Charter would "endanger our recent decisive economic and political leadership," the Academy of World Economics was told here last night.

William L. Batt, president of SKF Industries, Inc., and vice chairman of the Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid, State Department, said that for the United States to turn its back on the charter "would be even more of a blow than was our rejection of the League of Nations after World War I.

"The International Trade Organization will not—indeed, Cannot—force governments to change their methods," he said, but "the charter does reflect substantial agreement on principles in which we believe."

A second speaker at the final session of the two-day program on foreign economic policy in the Brookings Institution auditorium, 722 Jackson pl. nw., took an opposing view.

He was Dr. Elvin H. Killheffer, United States Chamber of Commerce nominee to the 1938 conference that drew up the charter for the ITO, soon to come before Congress for approval.

Killheffer said the charter was "too ambitious" and "should be rejected."

The charter presupposes a planned international economy coextensive with the commitments, he said. "There are many illustrations in the charter which will show ambiguity, questionable obligations and a definite trend toward Government planned economy, all of which industry opposes," he said.

Dr. Howard S. Piquet, Library of Congress senior specialist in international economics, said that "without delegation to the executive of the power to make foreign trade agreements, the commercial policy provisions of the International Trade Organization charter would be largely a dead letter, at least so far as the United States was concerned.

"In the final analysis, no amount of scientific inquiry can remove tariff making from the realm of politics," he added.

Nats Pack 'Em In (30,704) but Bow to Bums, 3-2

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

BURT SHOTTON, who manages the Dodgers, is not necessarily lacking in the social graces when he says outspokenly, and with apparent immodesty, "We're gonna win the pennant." At least by Brooklyn standards it is considered very good form for a Dodger manager, and Brooklyn fans would not have it othewise.

POVICH

The chief fear in Brooklyn, with the start of the season only five days distant, that Shotton may be as wrong as his slant on Calvin Abrams, the young outfielder who was one of the Dodger army in mass maneuvers at Vere Beach, Fla., early in March.

Young Abrams did not figure in Shotton's outfield plans at all, and the outfield talk was of Carl Furillo and Gene Hermanski, the veterans, and Marv Rackley and Duke Snider, the good-looking rookies. Abrams was just a green kid up from Mobile.

Shotton was using Abrams in the early exhibition games, and the baseball writers in the Dodgers' camp became somewhat inquisitive. They asked Shotton if it was significant.

"Oh, no," said Shotton, he's too green. He'll hang himself if we keep him in there long enough."

ABRAMS DIDN'T HANG himself, to the great amazement of Shotton. Right now he's Mr. Shottons regular left fielder and will open the season for the Dodgers. He has beaten out Rackley, who came up with the Dodgers from Montreal and hit .327 for 88 games. He has the veteran Hermanski sitting on the bench, and he's doing everything a lead-off man is supposed to do, plus some extra-base hits.

The Dodgers are stacking up as the National League pennant winner, perhaps. They're deep everywhere, except at first base. In a season when every other club is clamoring for talent, the Dodgers are overset. Injuries, unless they happen to such as Jackie Robinson and Pewee Reese, can be sloughed off easily by Brooklyn. They have a B team on the bench that might finish in the first division.

Despite the Dodgers' first base problem, there is no longer any idea that Jackie Robinson will be moved back to that spot. Shotton has made that clear. "Jackie doesn't like it, and that's one reason," he says, "and I'm not going to break up the Reese-Robinson combination at short and second while it's the best double-play outfit in the business."

RIGHT NOW THE Dodgers have Chuck Connors, on loan from their Montreal farm, at first base, but he has been no sensation and they may still wind up with Gil Hodges, a converted catcher, at the position. The drawback in Hodges' case is the same as Connors'—how much will he hit?

The paradox in Hodges' case is that, despite his conversion from catching, he was the slickest-fielding first baseman in the league last year. He will be returned to catching if he can't make the first base job. As Shotton puts it, "We can carry him as a .250-hitting catcher, but not as a .250-hitting first baseman. There is a lot of that kind of first basemen."

And there may be need for Hodges as a catcher. Bruce Edwards, the league's finest when he is healthy, has a troublsome sore arm. Roy Campanella hit a long ball for the Dodgers last season but didn't quite make good. But Hodges' availability is a sign of the Dodgers' depth. When Edwards recovers his health, the Dodgers' catching will be nicely squared away.

FOR JACKIE ROBINSON, the Dodgers' workout at Griffith Stadium yesterday reversed the clock four years. It was not the first time he had been on that diamond. In 1945 he made it as a member of the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro National League, against the Homestead Grays, not daring to dream that some day he would return as the star of a big league club.

He was listening to a Washington fan recalling those days, when the late Josh Gibson of the Homesteads used to hit 'em out of the park regularly. "When Gibson hit only two home runs in a double-header, he had a bad day," the fan remembered, "and how he could throw to second base. Did you ever see a better catcher?" he asked Robinson.

"Sure, I remember Gibson in 1944-45," said Robinson. "He was old and fat then, and still great. Wish I could have seen him play when he was only 30, not 40. I'd have paid my way in."

Vollmer Takes Job

Stewart, Top Nat Hitter in '48, Will Sit Out Monday's Opener

The man who was the Washington Club's top hitter last season, drove in the most runs, and currently is in the best of health, will be sitting it out when the season opens on Monday.

Manager Joe Kuhel yesterday disclosed that Outfielder Ed Stewart is being benched in favor of Clyde Vollmer, 27-year-old rookie from Syracuse.

Kuhel declared his decision was made irrespective of whether the Athletics start Dick Fowler, right-handed pitcher, or Lou Brissie, a southpaw. "We need more power, and Vollmer ought to give it to us," he said.

Thus Stewart is entitled to ask what a guy must do to make good with the Nats. Last season his .278 average led the club, he drove in more runs than anybody else, and just missed leading the league in three-baggers.

Kuhel, however, has leaned toward Vollmer ever since the big right-handed hitter reported to the Nats' training camp with a .289 batting average in the International League and 32 home runs to his credit last season.

Vollmer Hits .306

During the exhibition-game campaign, Vollmer hit a lusty sort of .306 with most of his hits of the line-drive variety. Stewart saw little action after the Nats' early games in Florida.

"I'm going with Vollmer at least until he shows he isn't up to the job," said Kuhel. "The way he can go and get them solves our center fielding problem, and I have to like the way he has been whaling into the pitching."

In contrast to Stewart's .278, Lewis hit .260 in his last season with the Nats before going into retirement during 1948, and Coan hit a dismal .232. Stewart was the darling of Griffith Stadium fans last season after being acquired from the Yankees. They liked his dash and hustle.

Vollmer not only gets a starting berth with the Nats but he will step into the clean-up hitting role, Kuhel announced. Coan will be at lead-off, with Sam Dente hitting second, and Buddy Lewis third. Eddie Yost will bat fifth, followed by Eddie Robinson, Al Kozar, Al Evans and the pitcher.

Kuhel was optimistic after an afternoon work-out yesterday, pointing out that Catcher Jake Early, troubled with a sore arm all spring, at last was throwing to bases without pain.

"Joe Haynes pitched in batting practice and was getting the ball over with something on it," said Kuhel. "No curves yet, but fast and straight, and he ought to be ready to work inside of a couple of weeks."

Suspense . . . thrills . . . action!

Will it come from the starboard or port side?

The ball, of course—the first ball of the major league baseball season.

"I'll let you know Monday when I draw back," he good naturedly told Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Nats.

Griffith's 1-year-old grandson, Clark Griffith, jr., presented Mr. Truman with his annual gold pass to all American League games.

The Nats open here Monday against Philadelphia, and Mr. Truman will heave out the first ball. Last year he pleased everybody by firing one from the port and another from starboard.

VOLLMER HOMERS—Clyde Vollmer, Nats' outfielder, is congratulated by Eddie Yost at home plate after Vollmer hit a home run into the leftfield bleachers in last night's exhibition game with Brooklyn at Griffith Stadium. The Brooklyn catcher is Roy Campanella. Vollmer's homer tied the score at 2-2 in the sixth inning but Brooklyn won, 3-2

Bosox Beat Sain, 6 to 2, Even Series

Boston, April 14 (AP).—Johnny Pesky's one-on homer in the fifth inning clinched the Boston Red Sox 6-2 win over the Braves in their fifth preseason exhibition clash today before a 6581 crowd at Braves Field.

The triumph, charged against Johnnie Sain, the Tribes' right-hand ace, enabled the Red Sox to pull on even terms with the National League champions with two wins, as many losses and yesterday's 10-10 tie at Hartford, Conn.

Sain, who twice set back the Bosox last month in Florida, gave them half of their 12 hits and three runs during his five innings' stint.

Andy Davis, George Washington University's backfield star, was released from the university hospital yesterday and will be confined to his home until his knee fully recovers from its recent operation.

Davis originally was injured in the 1948 Hoya-Colonial football game. He was reinjured during spring practice and forced to go under the knife in an attempt to save his athletic career.

'You're Driving Me Batty'

Di Mag Takes Verbal Punch at Reporters

Baltimore, April 14 (AP).—Joltin' Joe DiMaggio's heel bothers him and so do reporters trying to find out how he's coming along, the New York Yankee slugger said angrily today upon leaving Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Obviously miffed after two days in the hospital where he refused to see newsmen, DiMaggio went to a hotel where he will stay while continuing treatments for his ailing right heel.

Except for one brief hospital bulletin yesterday there has been no information available on when DiMaggio is expected to play ball again.

Newspaper reporters and photographers intercepted DiMaggio as he hobbled through the hospital lobby on crutches. Asked if he wanted to see the waiting press, DiMaggio exploded:

"You're damned right I want to tell them something. Don't you think you've gone far enough? You guys are driving me batty. Can't you leave me alone? This affects me mentally, too, you know."

A newsman interjected that a lot of baseball fans are interested in the highest paid baseball player in history. The star, paid a reported $80,000-$100,000 a year replied:

"Well, I got to think of myself, too. This is tough on me."

Saying all he knew about his condition is that he will take X-ray treatments daily, DiMaggio was driven away to a hotel he declined to name. He said he would only answer questions at a press conference which he didn't feel up to holding.

The slugger arrived at the hospital at 2 a. m. yesterday. He came in a taxi from Washington after a plane trip from Fort Worth, Tex.

Dr. George Bennett, who removed a bone spur from the heel last November, 15, is prescribing treatment for the member which DiMaggio has complained about since start of spring practice.

The doctor diagnosed the recurrent trouble as "immature calcium deposits in tissues adjacent to his heelbone." The hospital declined to explain further what the medical diagnosis meant except that the deposits aren't the same as a spur.

The bulletin added that the "length of the disability will be determined by the results of the treatment." No one would speculate on how long this would be. Prior to DiMaggio's arrival, it was estimated the treatments would last 10 days, too late at least for next Tuesday's opening game.

While in the hospital, DiMaggio refused numerous requests for interviews and photographs. Hospital authorities said they were bound to respect the patient's wishes.

2-Run Homer Beats Yanks

Cincinnati, April 14 (AP).—Ray Mueller's two-run homer in the fifth inning gave the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory today over the New York Yankees in an exhibition game before a crowd of 6291.

Lefty Ken Raffensberger spaced seven hits over nine innings to become the first Redleg pitcher of the year to go the distance. Johnny Lindll'es ninth-inning homer was the only damaging blow.

Phillips Oilers Talk to MacAuley

Bartlesville, Okla., April 14 (U.P.). Ed MacAuley, All-America basketball star from St. Louis University, was here today to talk with officials of the Phillips Petroleum Co.

Neither MacAuley nor Cab Renick, coach of the Phillips basketball team, would make a statement as to whether the 6-foot 8-inch center would play for the Oilers next season.

"We merely explained the policy of Phillips Petroleum Co. to MacAuley," Renick said.

Still Holds Money Record

Byron Nelson Plans Tourney Comeback, May Play in Open

New York, April 14 (AP).—Byron Nelson, one of the greatest of golfers, announced today he will come out of semi-retirement this sumer to engage in a number of tournaments, possibly including the National Open championship.

A relative stranger to the money circuit since 1946, when he withdrew to his 640-acre farm in North Texas, Nelson said he definitely will compete in the Goodall round-robin tournament here May 12-15 and in two events in Texas during the summer.

"I can't say yet whether I will play in the Open," he said at a luncheon given by the promoters of the Goodall tournament. "I have agreed to give a number of exhibitions that week, and unless they can be cancelled it is unlikely I will be in the Open."

In addition to the Goodall, in which 16 leading players match strokes, Nelson also will play in the Texas P. G. A. championship at Dallas and in the Colonial Open at Fort Worth. Nine women professionals, including Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Patty Berg, have been invited to compete in the Dallas event.

Since his "retirement" after 14 years of constant money golf, Nelson has played regularly only in the Masters Tournament at Augusta and in the Texas P. G. A. He also competed against Britain in the '47 Ryder Cup matches and in last winter's Bing Crosby tournament.

Nelson won the National Open in '39 and the National P. G. A. twice, in '40 and '45. His money winnings of $52,511 in '45 still is the record. He has put on some poundage since he quit the tournament grind, and he plainly is hankering to try a limited comeback.

Cox Matches Vollmer's Homer to Decide It

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Nats were a financial success and a competitive failure last night. With the crowd-pulling Brooklyn Dodgers also in the Griffith Stadium cast of characters, the Nats drew 30,704 fans and took a 3-to-2 beating.

Bill Cox, Brooklyn third baseman, hit the decisive blow—a seventh-inning home run off Sid Hudson that soared above the heads of standees behind ropes in left-center field and reached the bleacher seats.

An inning before, rookie Clyde Vollmer, making his Griffith Stadium debut for the Nats, pulled them out of a 2-1 deficit with a home run wallop to the same territory.

The Nats had the tying run on base in both the eighth and ninth against Southpaw Elwyn (Preacher) Roe. In the ninth they flunked out sadly after Al Kozar led off with a Texas single to right. Al Evans, disdaining a bunt popped up, but Rookie John Simmons, pinch-hitting for Hudson, singled to center.

Sharp fielding by Duke Snider held Kozar to second base on Simmons' blow, and Gil Coan was no help. For the third straight time he struck out, and it was all over when Snider drifted back for Dente's fly.

The Nats outhit the Dodgers, 9 to 7.

The outpouring of customers, greatest in the last 15 years of Griffith Stadium history, caught park officials unprepared for an overflow.

The stadium's 29,000 seats were sold out a half hour before game time, and despite an original announcement that no fans would be allowed on the field, ropes were hurriedly erected. Three thousand standees were permitted behind the barriers in front of the bleacher walls.

The baseball-hungry throng, with the added lure of Jackie Robinson's first appearance in Washington as a major leaguer, greeted Robinson's appearance in batting practice with continuous applause.

Top Crowd for Bums

For the Washington Club it was a record-breaking crowd for an exhibition game, and the greatest crush of fans to which Brooklyn has played in an exhibition game outside the New York area.

Stadium historians called it the largest turnout of fans since the early thirties when, on a Fourth of July, the Yankees and Nats played to 34,600, with customers crowding all the fields.

Taking the mound at the outset were the Dodgers' Joe Hatten and the Nats' Ray Scarborough, both of whom are to pitch the season openers for their respective clubs. Hatten took into the game with him a record of being unscored on in his last 17 innings of pitching.

Nats Make Double Play

Scarborough walked the first man he faced, Cal Abrams, who was wiped out promptly on a double play started by Al Kozar on Pewee Reese's smash into the box that caromed off the pitcher's glove.

Robinson saluted his applauding fans in the second inning with a fierce single to center that touched off a two-run session for the Dodgers. Carl Furillo followed with a triple to deep right center. Furillo scored when Kozar fumbled Church Connors' grounder.

Scarborough turned in a three-hit, two-run job before retiring at the end of the third in favor of Mickey Haefner.

The Nats were helpless against

Tribe Wins, 15-9; Vernon, Wynn Homer

Hickory, N. C., April 14 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians won a home-run slugfest from the New New York Giants here today, 15 to 9, before 6000 fans.

The Indians collected five homers, three of them in succession in the eighth inning by Jim Hegan, Early Wynn and Bob Kennedy off Dave Koslo.

The three-in-a-row performance matched the Giants' third-inning attack against Bobby Feller when Sid Gordon, Johnny Mize and Bobby Thomson hit for the circuit in succession.

Lou Boudreau and Mickey Vernon homered in the fourth inning for Cleveland as the Indians rallied from a 5-0 deficit.

Cleveland clinched the game in the last of the seventh when a pair of singles, two walks and a Giant error produced two runs. Wynn, who relieved Feller in the sixth, was the winner.

Chisox Homers Beat Pirates, 4-3

Memphis, Tenn., April 14 (AP).—Two homers accounted for all Chicago White Sox runs today as the American Leaguers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3.

Floyd Weigel and Cass Michaels came through with the circuit clouts. Weigel got his in the third with one on and the other was belted by Michaels in the seventh. It came off big Ernie Bonham after Jerry Scala had beaten out a drag bunt.

Bobo Has Trouble With Uniforms

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 14 (AP). Bobo Newson signed a contract with the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association today but was unable to get into uniform.

Literally, that is. President Joe Engel issued a hurry-up order for a size 52 after finding that the largest uniform in the Lookout locker fell several inches short of fitting Bobo.

McKinney Quits Caps; 'Too Old'

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Bones McKinney has played his last game of basketball for the Washington Caps.

The altitudinous ace from Durham has decided to return to his native North Carolina to become player-coach of a Durham semi-pro team and also to complete work toward a physical education degree from North Carolina U.

"You've got to get out some time and I want to quit while I'm on top," the 31-year-old court clown and star remarked.

"Frankly, the pace is getting too fast for me and I'm getting too old to go at top speed," he added.

McKinney's decision to abandon his professional career was not sudden. He wanted to call it quits last season, but was prevailed upon by Cap Coach Red Auberbach to play one more year.

Has Best Year

Bones' last season as a pro was his best. He was one of the key men of the Cap team which swept to the Eastern Division BAA championship, but which bowed to Minneapolis in the final play-off series.

Bones played in 57 of the Caps' 60 regular season games this year and was the team's second leading scorer. He accounted for 723 points, 29 less than Bob Feerick who played in one more game.

During his three-year BAA career, Bones scored 1903 points in 158 games, an average of 12 points per game. He was selected on the all-pro second team twice.

McKinney's chief assets were his great rebounding work and his ability to fire up the Caps. He demonstrated these talents last Saturday night when he led the Caps to their first victory over Minneapolis after the Lakers had swept the first three games of the jackpot series.

At 6 foot 6 inches, Ole Bones was not considered a "basketball goon" in a league where players his height were more nearly the rule than the exception.

With McKinney's departure, the Caps have only three players left who were with them when the team was organized in 1946. Freddie Scolari, Bob Feerick and Johnny Norlander are the other members of the original club which has won two divisional titles in the three years of its organization.

Dead serious most of the time, McKinney also found time to frolic while playing and his thespian ability made him a great favorite with fans at Uline Arena and other league courts as well.

AT HAVRE DE GRACE

The Jockey's Guild is going in the insurance business. Two companies have held blanket policies on various tracks in the past and this has led to confusion, according to John P. Kelly, general manager of the Guild. For instance, a rider hurt at one track who isn't forced out of the saddle until he reaches the next oval can't collect from either company, Kelly said. The Guild is insuring the jockeys at Charles Town for the first time this year and will gradually extend its coverage to all recognized tracks in the country. Riding horses is such a dangerous occupation that few companies will accept the business. Most tracks pay $90 a day. Of course, the Guild has all riders insured against death.—BILL

D. C. Owners Score in $90 Daily Double

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre de Grace, April 14.—Whirl Blast, a son of Whirlaway but not exactly what a chip off the old block would imply, carried the Calumet Farm colors to their first victory of the Maryland season here today. With Jockey Steve Brooks abroad for the first time, the 4-year-old colt gathered momentum to win by a length and a quarter in the $4500 Pan-American.

A crowd of 8000 saw Whirl Blast, getting a 14-pound pull in the weights, lead H. L. Straus' Pilaster, 1948 distance champion, into the wire in the test of a mile and 70 yards. A length from the place came Grant Thorn's Andy Handy. Four others competed.

The winning payoff was not a typical Calumet return, for Whirl Blast produced a $12.60 mutuel after the bettors had flocked to Pilaster, making his seasonal debut and carrying 124 pounds in the person of Jockey Carson Kirk, plus equipment and lead.

Whirl Blast was clocked in 1:46 under smiling spring skies but over a track left muddy by heavy rains last night.

Contenders Wait

Both Brooks on Whirl Blast and Kirk on Pilaster bided their time as Andy Handy and Grand Isle did most of the front running, the former having a good advantage going into the half pole.

At this point Brooks went into a drive on Whirl Blast and the colt responded. Kirk, who had been trailing with Pilaster, also got his mount under way seriously.

Grand Isle gave up the chase of Andy Handy going toward the stretch and Whirl Blast then moved to the pacemaker. Once he was sure Whirl Blast had disposed of the early leader, Brooks began going toward the center of the track.

Kirk had Pilaster flying on the outside at the time and when Whirl Blast went wide, he had to duck the son of Pilate to the inside. This probably cost Pilaster the victory. For, after looming menacingly, he hung in the final drive as Brooks kept urging Whirl Blast along. Andy Handy was a leg-weary third.

Mrs. H. K. Haggerty's Rampart, trying to make a comeback, was bumped at the first turn and would not extend herself thereafter.

The victory was Whirl Blast's first for the year in four tries. The colt was successful in 3 of 13 tries last season.

D. C. Owners Score

Horses owned by men prominent in the Washington area figured in producing a $90.40 pay-off on the daily double. Momo Flag, the property of Galt Davis of bowling fame, took the first event at $15.20 and Crackerjack, in the silks of Lou Horwitz, Capital City merchant, annexed the second at $10.20.

Apprentice Benny Civitello broke out with another rash of winners, getting three. In addition to riding Crackerjack, he scored with W. L. Jones, jr's., Compare, at $25, in the third and the Rarco Stable's I'll Be, at $3.20, in the fifth.

Boat Races Postponed

The opening event of the spring power boat series, scheduled Sunday, April 17, has been postponed to May 1 by the race committee, S. King Fulton, chairman, announced yesterday.

Maryland Wins, 3-0, at Richmond

Richmond, Va., April 14 (AP).—Nick Panella bested Ralph Graves in a brilliant pitching duel today as the University of Maryland gave the University of Richmond Spiders their first Southern Conference defeat. The score was 3-0.

The two righthanders pitched on fairly even terms with the exception of the first and ninth innings when the Old Liners found Graves for five of their six hits and all of their runs.

Bud Smith, Terrapin left fielder, hit the blows which crushed the Spiders. His booming triple into deep center in the first scored the first of two runs in that inning and his double to center in the ninth brought home Bob Brewer with the final run.

Hoyas Blow 6-1 Lead, Lose to W-L, 7 to 6

Lexington, Va., April 14 (AP).—Willis Wood's three-run homer in the sixth inning, climaxing a six-run outburst, powered Washington and Lee to a 7 to 6 victory over Georgetown University.

Woods' drive down the foul line to the deepest region of right field brought home the tying and winning runs for the Generals, who had been fighting an uphill battle.

Riders, Colts Dispute Meet

Roosevelt and Coolidge High Schools had a dual track meet yesterday at Roosevelt. Who won depends on which coach you talk to.

Gil Roberts of Coolidge contends his team won, 61-57, because Roosevelt refused to compete in the pole vault and discuss. Phil Fox contends his team won, 57-51. He concedes his team lost points in the pole vault event, but says his team shouldn't be penalized for not throwing the discus.

Roosevelt Principal May P. Bradshaw refused to allow competition in that event at her school because a Roosevelt tackman, Alfred Smith, was seriously injured by a discus in a recent meet.

Hardy Pearce, head of Interhigh athletics, will weigh both arguments today.

SHOT PUT—Dobbin (C), Boyle (R), Langmack (R). Distance—43 feet 4 inches.

Maryland Names Dulin

Race Commissioner Takes Job So He Can See Those Finishes

Annapolis, Md., April 14 (AP).—Wilbur R. Dulin was sworn in today as a State racing commissioner and said "This way I figure I'll be able to get a better view" of horse races.

Dulin, 39-year-old Annapolis lawyer, resigned as a State Senator (D., Anne Arundel) to become the third member of the Maryland Racing Commission.

"I told the Governor that I'd take the job because I was seldom able to see a horse race," he said. "I used to go to the track all right, but was too short to see over the heads of the tall fellows."

Dulin, who is about 5-foot-6, is now eligible for a seat with a good view in the commissioners' box high in the stands.

Dulin was appointed 10 days ago by Governor Lane to fill a vacancy created when Stuart S. Janney, jr., gentleman jockey, resigned as racing chairman in protest against the administration racing program.

Commissioner H. Courtenay Jenifer was elevated to the chairmanship to fill out Janney's unexpired term, expiring in 1953. Dulin takes Jenifer's place for a term which expires in 1951.

The term of Frank Small, jr., third member, runs out June 30, and Lane has been asked to name a harness race spokesman to mollify followers of the sulky sport.

Although Dulin sponsored legislation in 1947 which gave the trotting tracks their first recognition of authorizing pari-mutuel betting, he has not been an active participant in either the running or trotting game. Lane has said Dulin's appointment was not necessarily to be taken as the appointment of a harness race spokesman.

Dodgers Beat Nats, 3 to 2

Hatten after Coan greeted him with a single to center that opened the first inning. Not another man reached base against Hatten.

When rookie righthander Jack Banta came into the game in the fourth, however, the Nats halved the Dodgers' lead to 2-1. Dente drew a walk and Buddy Lewis singled to center for the Nats' second hit of the night, moving Dente to third.

Vollmer was no help with a short fly to center, but Eddie Yost lashed a single to left that scored Dente. Robinson and Kozar left two runners stranded.

Al Evans put the tying run on in the fifth with a single to left that opened the inning, but it proved futile after Haefner bunted into a force play at second base.

Robinson retired from the scene when the Dodgers took the field in the sixth. It was not unexpected. The Brooklyn second sacker is still favoring a strained side he suffered in Florida, and he is cautious with it. Bob Ramazzotti replaced him.

All of a sudden with one out in the sixth, the Nats tied the score at 2-2. Rookie Clyde Vollmer produced the necessary run all by himself with a home-run smash that reached the bleachers in left center.

Sid Hudson relieved Haefner at the start of the seventh and came to immediate grief. The first man he faced, Third Baseman Bill Cox, whacked a Hudson pitch for a homer almost exactly to the same spot Vollmer reached. In their own seventh, the Nats couldn't get to first base against Preacher Roe, Brooklyn's third pitcher.

Hudson was unscored-on in the eighth despite a tremendous triple off the scoreboard by Duke Snider. The blow occurred with two out, and Hudson slipped a third strike past Ramazzotti.

Officials Sure Rosecroft Will Open May 26

Officials of the Rosecroft Raceway at Oxon Hill gave assurances yesterday that their new trotting track will open for night racing on schedule May 26.

John W. Miller, secretary-treasurer, said the track was seeking to increase its capitalization $250,000 to $750,000 but explained that the new venture was in no way in any financial straits.

The 38-year old son of William E. Miller, president, said, "We've asked SEC for approval and anticipate no difficulty in getting it. Our stockholders voted unanimously in favor of the plan and will increase their investments. It's extremely doubtful that any of the new stock issue will be available to the public."

Young Miller said the trotting plant originally was expected to cost $500,000 but it has soared to almost $800,000. He added that all contracts had been let and that work was proceeding satisfactorily.

Georgetown Golfers Beat Colonials

Ray Larrow shot a 72 yesterday for Georgetown as the Hoyas defeated George Washington, 5½-3½ in golf at the Congressional Country Club. Low score of the day was made by Bill Griffin of G. W., par 71. G. W. has won six of its seven matches thus far this season.

Ray Larrow (GU) and Bill Griffin (GW), even. Norm Good (GW) and Tony Allerton (GU), 1 up. Charley McCarthy (GU) defeated Willis Dean (GW), 8 and 7. Wally Smith (GW) defeated Andy Marchi[illegible] (GU), 2 and 1. Howard Jobe (GU) defeated Tad Lindner (GW), 5 and 3; best ball, 5 and 3. Bob Neylan (GU) defeated Earl Morgan (GW), 5 and 4.

McCall Shoots Ace

Johnston McCall, 4207 Curtis rd., Bethesda, yesterday shot a 185-yard ace on the par three twelfth hole at Bannuckburn Golf and Country Club. He used a brassie. He played in a foursome with Richard Warwick, Mike Mehr and Herbie Kimball.

Eastern Beats Coolidge, 6-0; Wilson Stops Indians

O'Donnell Allows Colts Only 2 Hits

Coolidge's Colts, opening their bid for a fourth straight Interhigh League baseball championship, ran into the two-hit pitching of Jim O'Donnell and dropped a 6-0 decision to Eastern at the Wilson Stadium.

Six-foot 3-inch Byron Anderson, Coolidge's righthanded pitcher, was the victim of six errors by his teammates, and also gave up a two-run triple to George Billups in the fifth inning. Only two runs were earned.

O'Donnell, a slim righthanded curve baller, was in control all the way, walking only one Colt, and permitting only one other to reach third base.

Smith Fund Reaches $350 After High Students Pass Hat

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Roosevelt High trackman Alfred Smith, fighting back after an operation for a blood clot near his brain, yesterday got a $350 morale booster.

That sum was raised by a pass of the hat at yesterday's Roosevelt-Coolilge track meet, and will help defray Alfred's hospital expenses.

Alfred was seriously injured during the Roosevelt-St. John's track meet April 5, when a discus, tossed by Cadet George Weicker, jr., hit him in the head and knocked him unconscious.

Alfred was rushed to Emergency Hospital where he lay dangerously ill until after the operation last Friday. According to his mother, Mrs. William L. Smith, 806 Taylor st. nw., Alfred is recuperating nicely now.

One of 8 Children

Alfred's father, a retired General Accounting Office employee, has been in Mount Alto hospital for three weeks because of a heart ailment.

There are eight children in the Smith family, six daughters and two sons. One of the girls, Anne, is Alfred's 17-year-old twin.

Miss May P. Bradshaw, Roosevelt High principal, said that she and Track Coach Phil Fox will decide this morning when to present the money to the Smiths.

"There's a chance that more people will want to contribute," said Miss Bradshaw, "so we may keep the hat extended for a few more days."

She revealed that the parents of a Roosevelt trackman had contributed $50 yesterday but wanted their names withheld.

Alfred is expected to remain in the hospital for at least another week. His expenses will be well over $500.

"Learned a Lesson"

Miss Bradshaw said yesterday that at the next meeting of the Roosevelt Parent-Teacher Association meeting she will urge the group to formulate a plan to insure all the school's athletes.

"In the past we have urged only the football players to take out personal insurance," Miss Bradshaw said. "I guess we've learned our lesson now."

Alfred's room is filled with flowers, most of them sent by the George Weicker, sr., family. Members of the St. John's track team gave Alfred a radio.

Highs Ease Playing Rules

The scholastic eligibility requirements of the Interhigh League will be eased a notch in September.

A special committee of high school principals yesterday agreed unanimously to propose that Interhigh athletes be required to pass only three major subjects in order to be eligible. At present, four passing grades are required.

The proposal was scheduled for approval at yesterday's meeting of all the principals, but the vote was pushed off the agenda by more immediate business. However, approval is certain to come at next month's meeting.

The High School Board of Principals has been talking about cutting down eligibility requirements for three years, but wasn't spurred into action until Dr. George Strayer made his special report to Congress last month. Dr. Strayer suggested that the scholastic eligibility rule be tossed out entirely.

A survey by the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, which has a 46-State membership (Washington is not a member) recently showed that the District's four-passing-marks rule is the stiffest in the country.

Alexandria, National Skaters Race Tonight

Roller-speed skating teams representing the National and Alexandria Arenas will meet in the fourth meeting of their series at the Alexandria rink tonight.

National holds a 2-1 edge in their series to date and can claim the trophy awarded the winner of this competition in the event of victory. The program starts at 10 a. m. and will include an 880-yard ladies' open; a 1-mile senior men's open; 880-yard intermediate boys; 440-yard juvenile boys and the 1-mile race for the challenge trophy which was donated by the Alexandria Dance and Figure Club.

Eynon Hurls Tigers to 4-2 Victory

Wilson's Green Tigers pushed across two runs in the third and seventh innings to register a 4-2 victory over Anacostia, in the interhigh opener for both teams yesterday at Anacostia.

Everett Eynon, grandson of Washington Senators' Secretary Eddie Eynon, hurled three-hit ball for the Tigers and walked only two men.

In the third inning, Don Hall batted across Eynon and Dick Harris, both of whom had walked.

In the seventh inning, Bill Early tripled, scoring Harris and Eynon.

Anacostia scored once in the sixth and seventh. In the sixth, Buddy King, running for Kenny Cunningham, scored on a passed ball and a wild throw by Catcher Don Hall. In the seventh, Bob Chatlin went around on a seingle and an inleld out.

—Seven Under Par—

Dutch Harrison's Sizzling 62 Sets Cavalier Course Record

Virginia Beach, Va., April 14 (AP). E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., today fired a 62 that he termed "one of the finest rounds of my career" to set a new competitive course record over the par 69, 6065-yard layout of the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club here.

Harrison toured the rain-soaked course in his seven under par as some of golf's top-drawer professionals engaged in an 18-hole pro-amateur event that served as the tuneup round for the second annual $10,000 Cavalier Specialist tournament.

Harrison's 62 bettered by a stroke the previous record of 63 held jointly by Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N. Y. Harper set the mark in 1946 in the fourth round of the Virginia State Open to pick up 10 strokes and tie Sammy Snead. Sarazen equaled the record in last year's Specialist test.

Trailing Harrison by two strokes today were Dick Metz, the host pro; Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., and Jimmy Demaret, of Ojai, Calif. Metz dropped a 6-inch putt on the par 5, 450-yard sixth hole for an eagle three.

The 39-year-old Harrison, who has an eye on making the Ryder Cup team, said he was "driving good and putting wonderfully."

Par out	443	535	434—35
Harrison out	332	534	334—30
Harrison in	433	444	433—32—62

Twelve of the 20 professionals who came here for the 54-hole medal tournament and the 18-hole Specialists round moved around the course today in subpar figures.

Sarazen put together a 36 and a 30 for a 3-below 66. Sarazen, who captained his team of specialists to victory in the 1948 tourney, looked like the Sarazen of a few years back on the par 4, 400-yard twelfth hole today. The little gentleman in knickers holed out with a 120-yard, four-iron shot.

Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., and Australian Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, got 67s. Five others shattered par by one stroke. They were Stewart (Skip) Alexander, Lexington, N. C.; Vic Ghezzi, Englewood, N. J.; Horton Smith, Detroit; Johnny O'Donnell, Norfolk, Va., and Tony Penna, Cincinnati. Each had a 68.

Lew Worsham, Washington, D. C., shot a 71 and Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md., was a stroke behind.

Strangely, Frank Stranahan, the wealthy amateur from Toledo, Ohio, was not in the top ranking simon pures today. Low amateur honors, even par 69s, were shared by Palmer Laughridge, Richmond, Va., and W. L. (Bill) Lewis, Norfolk (Va.) Navy Base.

Gonzaga Loses, 4-3

St. Alban's scored three times in the first inning and went on to edge out Gonzaga, 4-3, yesterday at St. Alban's. It was the first win of the season for the Saints.

Maryland Trout Season Under Way

Baltimore, April 14 (AP).—Maryland's trout season opens tomorrow, and Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, says it's likely to be a very good one. The season lasts until July.

There are a few less fish in the State's streams than last year.

TEMPLETON MANOR
Two hundred and fifty families are now comfortably settled in these exceptionally fine garden-type apartments. We have about the same number still under construction. There are a few choice units ready now, and there will be more coming ready during May and June.

These are truly spacious quarters, with venetian blinds, 6-foot Frigidaire and four-burner oven-control gas range. Locker spaces and metered laundry facilities in basements. Grounds beautifully planted and sodded.

We now have four fully equipped play areas for small children, and there are to be four more. Free recreation room space is being furnished for the operation of a cooperative Teen-Ager Club. We are also turning over one of the apartments for the free use of a cooperative day nursery to be operated by the tenants.

Three-and-one-half room unit consisting of living room, dinette, bedroom, kitchen and bath at $76.50. Four-room unit at $86.50 is larger, and has full dining room.

Two-bedroom apartments are priced at $92.50 (with dinette) and $96.50 (with full dining room). Utilities included in above prices.

DIRECTIONS: Out Bladensburg rd. to Peace Cross and bear right to Edmonston rd., left up Edmonston about one mile to Madison st. Or: Capital Transit bus or trolley to Mount Rainier and transfer to East Riverdale bus, Route B-4, to subdivision. Resident manager at 5433 55th pl., Apt. 101.

Count the letters in your first name. Subtract four if hte number is six or more. Add three if the number is less than six. Then, you have the key number. Check each key number, left to right. The letters under the checks form a message.

Portraits

By James J. Metcalfe

On Calvary's Cross

They crucified my Lord and God . . . And pierced His gentle heart . . . And though it happened long ago . . . I know I played a part . . . My every pride and passion and . . . My selfishness and greed . . . Contributed the nails that caused . . . His hands and feet to bleed . . . Each sinful deed became a thorn . . . Upon the crown He wore . . . And every cruel word I said . . . Increased the rabble's roar . . . I made Him walk and stumble on . . . His way to Calvary . . . And there I raised Him on a cross . . . For all the world to see . . . And there in agony He died . . . That we might live anew . . . In his divine, forgiving words . . . "They know not what they do."

What's the Verdict?

SCOLDING WIFE

Q. A husband and wife quarreled a great deal. Both worked, the wife earning more than the husband. She felt that because of this, her views on family finances ought to govern. The husband enjoyed the movies, but the wife argued that they should spend less on movies. Finally the husband said he thought the marriage was a failure and that he was going to leave. She promised not to be so arbitrary if he would change his mind, but he left anyway. His view was that since they quarreled so much it was better that they live apart. Two years later she sued for divorce alleging desertion. The lower court denied her a divorce, saying it was a mutual separation requiring five years continuation to justify divorce. Correct?

A. The lower court's view that it was a mutual separation is based on the husband's opinion that it was impossible for them to live together. The husband may have been correct, but unless his wife concurred in the view, the separation was not mutual. Therefore, his departure constituted desertion, which was grounds for divorce after two years (under the statute applicable in the particular case).—F. L. D.

Easter Biggest Day Of Year for Zoo

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

It shattered the illusion of a lifetime. Anyone would know the monkeys are the most popular animals in the Zoo. We're speaking of popularity with visitors, not fellow Zoo inmates.

If not the monkeys, then it might be the bears or possibly the lions. No? Then the giraffes, or the hippos . . .

Dr. William M. Mann, Zoo director, lit a fresh cigarette with the end of the one he had just finished.

"The reptile house," he said. "That is the most popular place in the Zoo."

Why from all the animal kingdom, man—and many a woman, too, claims Dr. Mann—prefers to visit with snakes and lizards, Dr. Mann isn't sure. Maybe the same thing that makes people go to see Frankenstein and Dracula films.

Some Are Fascinated

"Some people are fascinated by reptiles, Dr. Mann said. "Some are terrified, but want to see them, and some just like to see them behind glass. Anyhow it's true everywhere. European zoos charge extra at the reptile house over their normal admission."

This week the reptiles and the rest of the 3000-odd exhibits were ready for one of the year's biggest days—Easter—at what from a standpoint of visitors is possibly Washington's biggest attraction, the National Zoological Park.

It is headed up by a 61-year-old man with black eyebrows and grey hair rumpled like a boy's. Every afternoon Dr. Mann, wearing the shapeless hat that adds to his boyishness, shuffles around the Zoo on his own personal tour to see that his charges are all there—and doing fine.

With him on part of his daily tour the other day were two of the most avid Zoo fans in this part of the country and his longtime friends: Dr. Emory Thompson, Washington dentist, who used to be president of the Buffalo, N. Y., Zoo Society, and his son Charles, Buffalo lawyer, here for a visit.

Dr. Thompson is called to the Zoo from time to time to swab out the throat of an ailing chimpanzee or boa, a feat he performs not only without anesthetic but often with less trouble from the patient than from those he treats in his office.

"Got any green mambas?" young Thompson asked in the reptile house.

"What do you mean, asking a question like that?" Dr. Mann said. "Of course." He led the way to a glass cage bearing the legend, "This is an active, aggressive and highly dangerous front-fanged snake. . . ."

"Ten-Minute Snake"

A 10-minute snake, young Thompson, looking happily at the ominous creature, said he'd heard it called, the idea being it takes you that long to die after being bitten. Never heard of that name for them, said Dr. Mann, though he said he'd heard it called a 24-hour snake, and the Japanese called it a 100-step snake, any of which seemed adequately to indicate the snake's deadliness.

"Here," Dr. Mann said, stepping across the corridor, "are the finest iguanas I've ever seen." The Army had sent them, along with an habu snake from Okinawa. The Navy had contributed some horned vipers and lizards.

"We have ultra-violet glass here. As a result we have wonderful success with lizards. Snakes don't need ultra-violet," Dr. Mann explained.

After looking at the king cobra, the largest crocodile in captivity and at two African lung fish which spent five years at Harvard under scientific investigation, the tour proceeded to the lion house.

Dr. Mann said on the way that personally he doesn't have any favorite animals. Doesn't think of them like that, he said.

"I think of them in terms of the ones that know you and speak to you—such as the lions and tigers which say howdy-do when you go by, and the monkeys which get to know you; in terms of the ones that I've raised myself; then in terms of a collector, such as that Chilean aquatic frog we just looked at—no one else in the United States has one of these right now."

The idea of lions speaking to Dr. Mann is not as extraordinary as it sounds. As least if they have a shred of graditude they should—because of the interest he takes in them individually—in all the animals, for that matter.

An extremely healthy-looking lioness had come to Dr. Mann with rickets and bowlegs. Extended application of vitamins and proper food transformed her. Across from her in another cage was a big Sumatra tiger, now 12 years old, which Dr. Mann and his wife got in Sumatra on one of their many expeditions and which his wife raised on a bottle the first six months of the tiger's life.

A full-grown lion, by the way, costs about $9.20 a week to board. This pays for 15 pounds of horse meat a day and a pound of liver twice a week at 10 cents a pound. Meat-eaters like lions are fasted one day a week.

"Better for their digestions," explained Dr. Mann.

The Zoo has its own commissary. There were cases of blueberries—for the bears—stacked to one side in it, and pineapple juice for the monkeys and birds. Besides what it buys, the Zoo each day collects 30 or 40 crates of vegetable trimmings—outer leaves of cabbage and such—from grocery stores which are glad to get rid of the stuff. To give an idea of the feeding problem: an African elephant eats 200 pounds of hay a day plus 25 loaves of bread, a bushel of vegetables and a basket of grain.

We had a look at the world's most publicized pig, Pig 311 of the Bikini atomic-bomb tests, now a 600-pound Poland China, which gives out some of the heftiest grunts you've ever heard. Dr. Mann gets calls from people wondering if it's still radioactive and will hurt the other animals.

Vassar Dean Finds Step Up Little Change

The qualifications required for good teaching are the same ones required of a dean, in the opinion of Miss Marion Tait, who was named dean at Vassar College last July.

Although she admitted that "no faculty and no student body is so lacking in ingenuity as to run through all of the possible problems in one year," she explained that so far she hasn't found her new work very different from her forme work as a teacher.

Speaking before the Washington Vassar Club at the United Nations Club last night, Dean Tait explained that her experiences as dean have reassured her of "the central importance of total education in teaching which produces the kind of freedom, spontaneity and courage which the students at Vassar sem to have."

Miss Tait, who taught Greek and Latin at Mount Holyoke before taking over her assignment at Vassar, was introduced by Mrs. John Stewart, Vassar Club president.

The reception was preceded by a dinner at the United Nations Club to honor Miss Tait. Those attending included Mrs. Stewart, Mrs David Wing, head of the Madeira School for Girls, who has been head of the Vassar Club scholarship committee for 50 years; Mrs. Martin Atlas, Mrs. Elting Arnold, Mrs. David Austen, Mrs. Lee D. Butler, Mrs. Howard Heun, Mrs. A. Ford Hinrichs, Mrs. John Lemp, Mrs. W. Woodruff Meek, Miss Lottie Manross, Mrs. Neville Miller, Mrs. Alfred C. Wolf, Miss Helen L. Zartman and Mrs. George Rado.

Ham and Eggs—and Rabbits—Star

Students Plan Easter Menu

This is the second in a series of three articles on high school homemaking classes.

By Lucia Brown

THOUGH Easter time is the time for eggs, there are plenty of other dishes particularly suited to this happy season, home economics students at McKinley Senior High School have been learning lately.

Under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Gummer, teacher of home economics, advanced foods classes have been working out appropriate Easter menus, baking festive ham, making candy eggs, spring salads and dainty desserts.

Colorful pictures of Easter table settings decked the walls, and mouth-watering dishes prepared by students were on display when we visited McKinley the other day. Recipes and suggestions used for the Easter project had been selected from Mrs. Gummer's extensive files, tried out in her own home kitchen before they were presented to the class. A wealth of ideas that would be helpful to any homemaker planning Easter dinner was included.

For the menu to be featured in the class work, the following had been selected:

Spring Blossom Cocktails
Baked Ham Spinach Ring
Sweet Potatoes in Casserole
Hot Biscuits
(cut out with bunny and chicken cutters)
Tossed Salad
Easter Dessert

HALF of a tenderized ham was baked by the class, with the aid of a meat thermometer. Mrs. Gummer feels that such a thermometer is a worthwhile investment for any housewife. It helps you roast meats with less waste, achieve more satisfactory results.

The ham was baked in a shallow pan, uncovered, with a little water in the bottom, in an oven of 300 to 325 degrees Fahrenheit. The meat thermometer registered 150 degress when the ham was taken from the oven, which meant it had baked about 25 minutes for each of its 8 pounds. When half done, the skin was removed from the ham, the fat scored in diamonds and dotted with cloves. Mrs. Gummer does not advocate basting ham with fruit juices or similar mixtures, believes this doesn't add much to the good ham flavor. She uses the water in the pan for any necessary basting, adds more if necessary.

You can decorate a ham handsomely with materials readily at hand in your own kitchen, Mrs. Gummer points out. Skins of oranges (used for orange juice) were cooked tender, cut in petal shapes, then candied in a light sugar sirup by the girls. They were fastened on the ham with toothpicks to form a flower, the stem being made by a strip of green cucumber rind. Water cress was used as a garnish around the ham.

RECIPES for some other dishes featured in the menu above, as well as one for candy Easter eggs, were given to the class by Mrs. Gummer. They include:

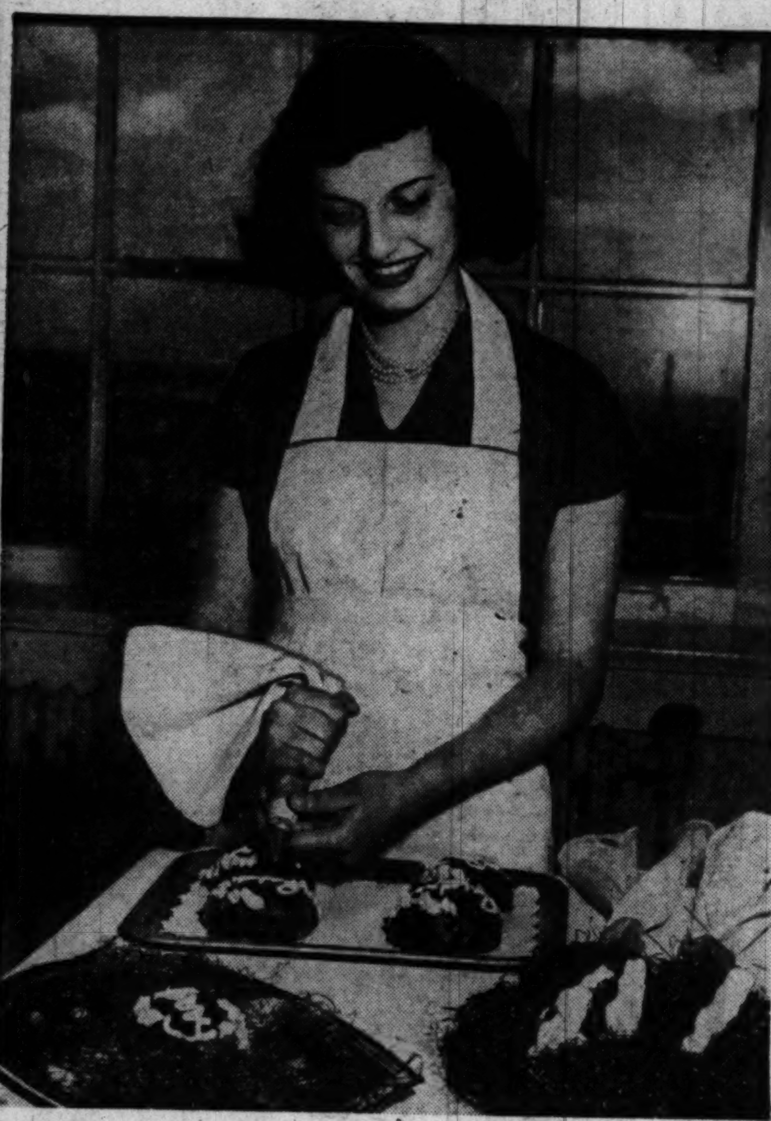
FONDANT EASTER EGGS

2 cups sugar
1¼ cups water
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla

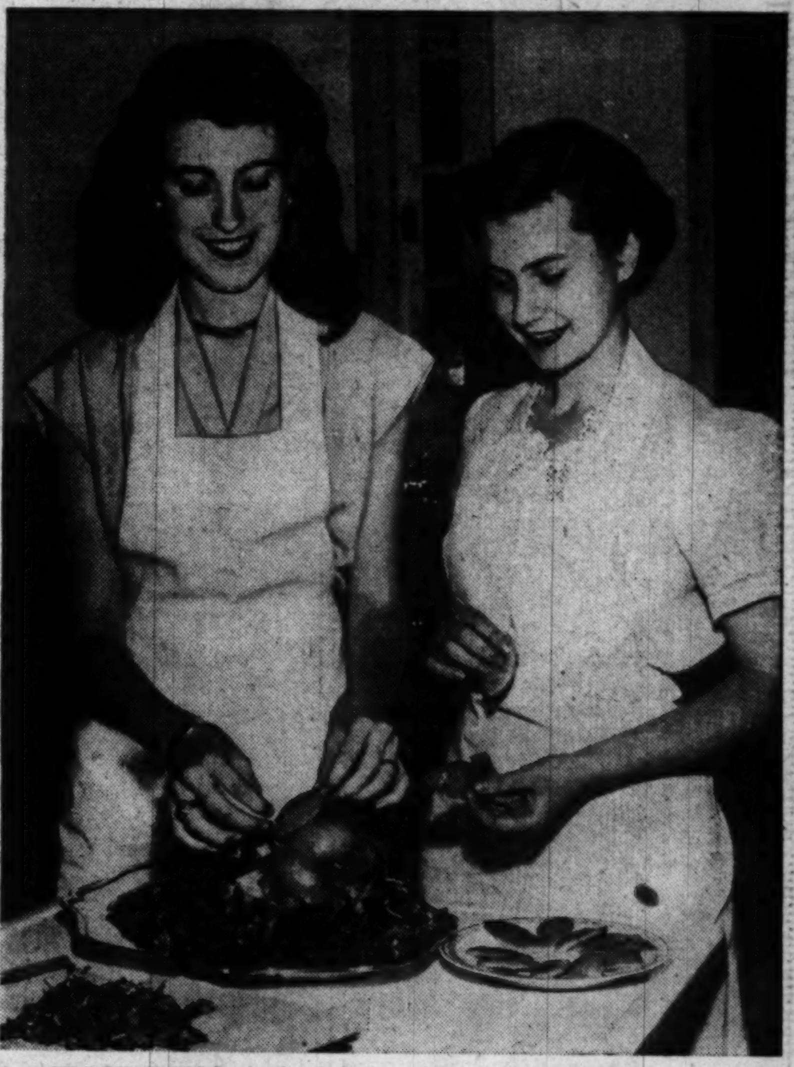
Put sugar, water and corn syrup into a saucepan and cook, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Remove spoon and do not stir again. When candy begins to boil, cover the pan and cook for 3 minutes. Remove cover and continue cooking until soft ball stage is reached. Remove from fire and pour at once on a cold, wet platter. Cool until lukewarm (110 degrees Fahrenheit.) Beat with a spatula or silver spoon until the fondant becomes white and creamy. Kneed until the mass is smooth and no lumps remain.

If possible, leave fondant in refrigerator to "ripen" a few days, in tightly closed jar or covered container. Then mold into Easter eggs

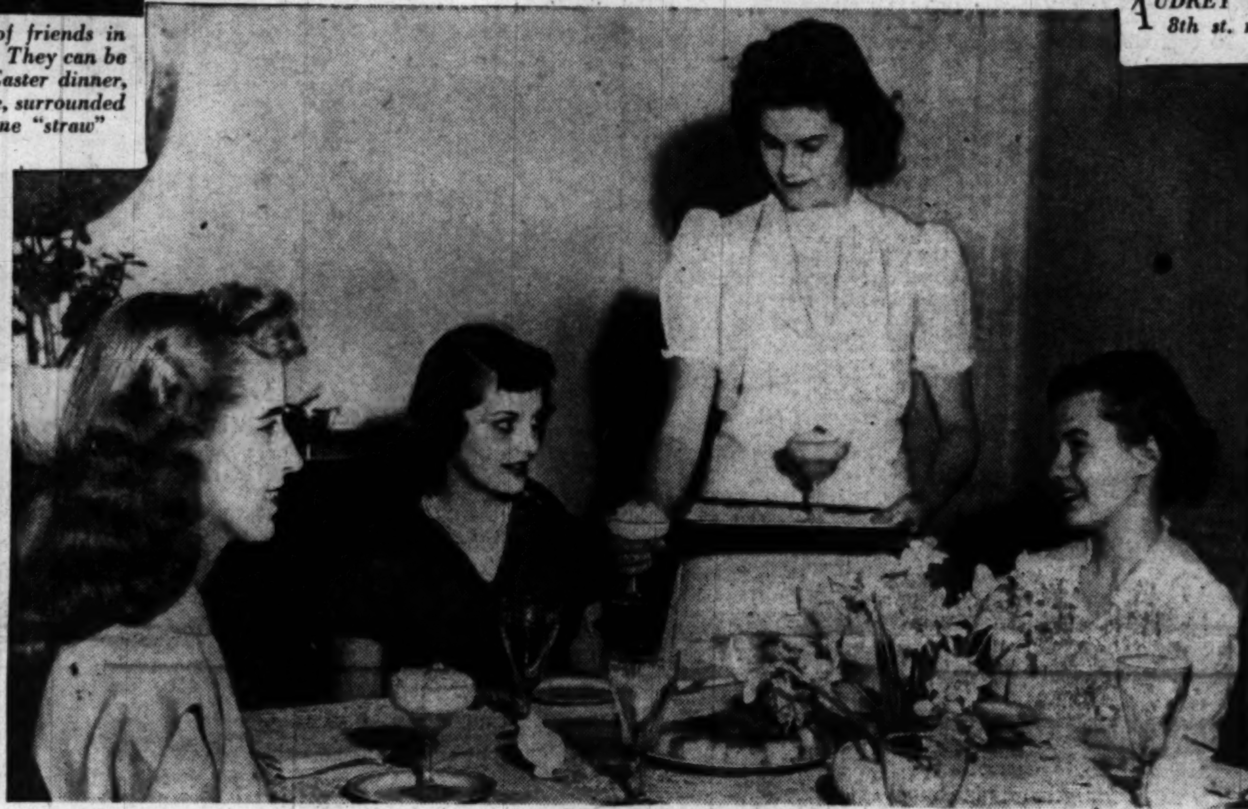
See BROWN, Page 8, Column 5.



WITH Easter just around the corner, foods students at McKinley High learned to make beautiful, chocolate-covered eggs this week. Above, Angelina Pappas of 27 K st. nw., writes the names of friends in icing on top of the eggs. They can be used as place cards at Easter dinner, each one on a small plate, surrounded by a nest of cellophane "straw"



AUDREY WELLS (left) of 4013 8th st. ne. and Dorothy Mockabee of 213 Bates st. nw. decorate the traditional Easter ham with a "flower"



By Henry Rohland—The Washington Post.

Regular Frozen Food Varieties

NEW JUICES: Several new varieties of frozen fruit juice concentrates are now being introduced—grape, grapefruit and mixed citrus juice. These join the extremely popular orange juice concentrate in the frozen food boxes at the grocery stores. all ready to be taken home and "reconstituted" with water. They have a delicious fresh flavor that makes it almost impossible to tell them from just-squeezed juice.

SPEAKING OF Furniture

By CARY SCATES

"SPOT LIGHTING" IN THE HOME

Lighting is such an important subject in modern decorating that several columns can be written about it. It is as necessary as the colors in a room and the furniture itself.

Spot lighting has long been used on the stage, and for the last few years for the purpose of lighting pictures. The so-called "picture spot light" designates an objective lens like that used for showing lantern slides, and permits the light to be limited to an absolute edge of a picture, a dining room table or a bridge table, etc. Another form of spot lighting employs lens units which direct the light into the useful zone, and has the advantage of having soft edges of light. This can be built into a room by being recessed in the ceiling or even the wall. The light can be controlled so as to be of any desired intensity and, what is more, of any desired shape (square, oval, etc.). The spotlight directed to a crystal chandelier can make it sparkle much more brilliantly than if it were itself lighted.

When a new house is being planned, it is a simple matter to also plan the installation of any of these lighting units. In the existing house the problem of providing light that will make rooms cheerful, restful and comfortable at the end of the day is not an involved one.

We would enjoy discussing your furniture and decorating problems with you. Drop in to . . .

The wedding is to take place on May 7 in the University of Virginia chapel in Charlottesville, Va. No invitations are being issued.

Founders and Patriots Group Welcomes State Chapter

By Nicha Soure

The "baby" chapter of the State of Washington was confirmed at the fifty-first general court of the National Society of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America yesterday, bringing the total to 39 chapters of the organization in the United States.

The court held its second and final day of session in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel with approximately 154 national officers, delegates and members attending.

Mrs. Richard I. Sampson, president of the Washington State chapter, accepted the charter from the national organizing secretary, Mrs. Reuben Edward Knight, who commended Mrs. Sampson for "organizing the chapter so quickly."

Miss Virginia Merrills of the Missouri chapter was installed national president at the afternoon session following the election in the morning.

Other officers are Mrs. Charles P. Blinn, jr., Pennsylvania, national vice president; Mrs. J. Wendall Kimball, New Hampshire, national chaplain; Mrs. Maurice B. Tonkin, Virginia, national recording secretary; Mrs. Harry K. Devlin, New York, national corresponding secretary; Mrs. Erwin C. Tompkins, Tennessee, national organizing secretary; Mrs. James A. Williamson, District of Columbia, national registrar; Mrs. J. Edward Duker, Maryland, national treasurer; Mrs. Bess Howe Geagley, Michigan, national historian, and Mrs. Edward Mansfield, 3d., Maine, national color bearer.

The three councilors of the executive board are Mrs. Charles Danforth, California; Mrs. F. Allan Burt, Massachusetts, and Mrs. Philip Hiden of Virginia.

Mrs. Edmund Burke Ball, the presiding national president, greeted the Daughters and introduced the national officers who reported on their activity during the past year.

Miss Elizabeth Yarrington Russell, national color bearer, presented Mrs. Ball with a book, compiled by Miss Russell, on the history of State and district flags.

Membership awards were made at the morning meeting by Mrs. Charles P. Blinn, jr., chairman of the membership committee, to the chapters which had the highest number of new members. They included Illinois, 49; New York, 16; Massachusetts, 15; Ohio, 14; Nebraska, 13; Pennsylvania, 13; Michigan, 11; Mississippi, 10; New Jersey, 9; Connecticut, 8; Wisconsin, 8; Virginia, 7; District of Columbia, 7; and Minnesota, 7.

Following a memorial service at noon and luncheon in the Blue Room of the Shoreham, the national society met for business reports and installation of officers in the afternoon.

Mrs. Eugene Meyer Hostess at Tea For Goodwill Guild

Mrs. Eugene Meyer was hostess to members of the Goodwill Guild at a tea yesterday at her home.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Dr. Donald Covalt, clinical director of Bellevue Medical Center in New York, who discussed the work of rehabilitation of convalescents. The Goodwill Guild will use proceeds from its annual Embassy Tour and Tea for a rehabilitation center at the Goodwill Industries.

Baritone Fague Springman, who will make his New York debut Tuesday at Carnegie Hall, was guest artist. Assisting Mrs. Meyer at the tea table were Mrs. Wiley Rutledge, president of the guild; Mrs. William O. Douglas, Mrs. Martin Vogel, Mrs. Karl Fenning and Mrs. Sydney Hechinger.

Maryland Home

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Martin Dorsey married in Bay St. Louis, Miss., are making their home at Summerseat, the bridegroom's ancestral home in St. Marys County, Md. The bride is the former Miss Evalyn Teresa Marquette of Arlington, Va., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Howard Marquette of Washington.

Mrs. Truman Heads Sponsors Of Goodwill Industries Show

Mrs. Truman heads the list of sponsors for the benefit performance of "Portrait of Jennie" which will have its Washington premiere Tuesday evening, April 19, at the Trans-Lux Theater, with proceeds to go to the Davis Memorial Goodwill Industries.

Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice, is chairman of the sponsoring committee, and other sponsors are Mrs. Stanley Reed, Mrs. Felix Frankfurter, Mrs. Robert Jackson, Mrs. William O. Douglas, and Mrs. Wiley Rutledge, president of the Goodwill Guild which is joining with the Goodwill Industries in presenting the performance.

The Goodwill Industries annual membership appeal is now under way. The organization is seeking $25,000 to continue and extend its rehabilitation services now available without charge to its more than 150 handicapped workers. Plans now being formulated call for an enlarged rehabilitation center at the Industries headquarters at 21st and M sts.

Goodwill Industries, a non-profit, non-Chest, community service organization, provides job training, gainful employment and rehabilitation services to handicapped and disabled men and women in Metropolitan Washington without regard to race, creed or color. During its 14 years of operations here, it has given jobs to 3,111 persons and has paid to them more than $1,324,000 in wages.

Donations of discarded clothing, shoes, furniture and household wares to the Industries are the "raw" materials on which the handicapped work in Goodwill workshops. These folk are employed to recondition the discarded materials which are later sold in Goodwill's five retail stores. The proceeds from the sale of reconditioned articles provide the money to pay wages and other basic operating costs.

Among other subscribers to the benefit premiere are Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. J. A. Krug, Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles Brannan, Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall, Secretary of the Air Forces and Mrs. Stuart Symington, Senator and Mrs. William Fulbright, Gen. and Mrs. Harry Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bartlett, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon and Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Mrs. James A. Murray, jr. and Mrs. Paul Jones.

Mrs. G.A. Gesell Fetes Garden Tour Workers

Hostesses and aides for the annual Georgetown garden pilgrimage were entertained Wednesday at a tea by Mrs. Gerhard A. Gesell. The garden pilgrimage is for the benefit of Georgetown House and will be held for two days, Saturday and Sunday, April 23 and 24, from 2 to 6:30 p. m.

Owners of about 20 gardens which will be open to the public also were guests at the tea. Among those who dropped by were Mrs. Drew Pearson, Mrs. John Ohley, Mrs. Robert Morse, Mrs. Walter Peter, jr., Mrs. Stephen Dorsey, Miss Dorothea de Schweinitz, Mrs. Adrian Fisher, Mrs. Burton E. Oppenheim, Mrs. Gerard Reilly, Mrs. Henry Leonard, Mrs. Harry Leroy Jones, Mrs. Warren Ege, Mrs. E. H. Leavey and Miss Roberta Whitehead, who is the daughter of Mrs. Frederick Whitehead, one of the founders of Georgetown House.

As in other years, the gardens will all be within easy walking distance of each other and all near bus lines. Tickets, priced at $1.50, will be available at the Francis Scott Key Bookshop, at Georgetown House or at any of the garden gates on the days of the tour. Tea will be served each afternoon from 3 to 6 p. m. at Georgetown House, 3224 N st. nw., for 25 cents.

By popular demand some of the gardens shown in previous years will again be on the schedule, and there will be several gardens never before opened to the public.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Girl, 16, Eldest of Three, Feels Guilty About Widowed Mother's Tired, Unhappy Air As She Works and Skimps to Make Ends Meet

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 16, in high school, and I have one sister and one brother younger than myself. Three years ago our father died, leaving poor mother almost penniless after the funeral expenses were paid. He had barely enough money for food until mother found a job in a woolen mill nearby.

Her work is steady but her wages are comparatively small. I daresay poor mother's purse was always flat at the end of the month, after she had met the house payments, paid other expenses and kept us in school. She never went out, not even to a movie, because she felt she couldn't afford it.

Then last January I was stricken with acute appendicitis and an emergency operation followed. This was a heavy burden on top of the load mother was already carrying. She never once complained, but it seemed to make her very unhappy and worried; and now she hardly ever smiles and seems to be always tired.

Girl's Operation Was Crowning Blow

IN A WAY I feel to blame, yet what can I do? I am too young to leave school and find work, even if there were any. And yet I feel so guilty whenever I think of how poor mother has to struggle to keep us together. Isn't there some way I can make her happier?

Whenever mention is made of mother's remarrying, she always says she couldn't dump the responsibility of supporting a family of four on any man. So far as I know, she isn't interested in any man; but don't you think she would be happier if she were to marry someone she could love? Please answer soon, and many thanks.
A. N.

Resentment Preys on Mother's Mind

DEAR A. N.: Your mother is carrying heavy burdens of work, responsibility and anxiety, in running a home, earning the wages that keep it going, and stretching pennies to rear and educate three children.

Any woman who has pulled a similar load in single harness—and many have—will appreciate the stress involved; the endless drudgery, chronic fatigue and money worries that leave little margin of energy, opportunity or silver for enjoying life—while the children are still dependent.

But still, the worst of your mother's trouble is her resentment of the situation,—a resentment she visits, indirectly and unfairly, on the children, so that you at least feel sick with a personal guilt-complex about her "suffering."

Children Suffer Unjust Reproach

FOR EXAMPLE, her saying that she couldn't dump responsibility for supporting a family of four on any man is bitter, neurotic, unnecessary negativism. This is punishing the children for their existence and dependency, when in their wistful concern for her happiness they are hopefully suggesting remarriage as a "help" to her.

I agree with you: she ought to keep an open mind to the idea of marrying again, sooner or later, for good helpmate companionship. And she ought to be ashamed of herself for turning a martyr-face on the stymied children, bleeding their hearts unmercifully about a load they can't lift at present. She shouldn't talk as if they were a millstone around her neck—for this is no help to anybody.

Your mother's stoic pessimism amounts to refusing comfort; and you can't make her happy while she clings to that attitude, but you shouldn't feel guilty about it. You are not to blame, it is just her way; and now, here's a hint from Scriptures (Proverbs 17:22)—"A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit drieth the bones."
M. H.

Decorator Show Being Held

A "MAGIC DECORATOR SHOW," conducted by Miss Betty Carlisle, nationally known interior decorating consultant for a large carpet company, is now in progress at the P. J. Nee Co., 1106 G st. nw., and will continue through Saturday.

Fifteen miniature rooms are shown in three cabinets, five rooms in each. More intriguing than a doll's house and perfect in every detail, the little rooms and their furnishings are all handmade to the scale of 1½ inches to the foot.

In addition, Miss Carlisle is available at the Nee store from 9:30 to 6 p. m. to counsel homemakers who would like help in redecorating their homes or inexpensive ideas to improve their present decorating scheme.

Rings on Their Fingers

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Logan Owens of Washington, announce the engagement of their daughter; Miss Courtenay Weems Owens, to Leon T. Kulikowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kulikowski of Chicago and Charlottesville, Va.

The bride-elect was educated at Holton-Arms School, King-Smith Studios and American University Art School. She was presented to society in Washington and at the Bachelors Cotillion in Baltimore. She is a member of the National Society of Colonial Dames.

Mr. Kulikowski is a graduate of the Chicago Latin School and the class of 1942 at Yale University. In the war he served as a lieutenant in the Navy in both the Atlantic and Pacific theaters. At present he resides in Chicago, where he is in the publishing business.

The wedding will take place in the near future.

Taylor—Hamilton

Announcement is made by Mrs. Rachel P. Taylor of New Castle, Pa., of the engagement of her daughter, Maxine De Woodie, to William Graham Hamilton, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hamilton of Holyoke, Mass.

Miss Taylor, a State Department employe, was graduated from Alleghany College and received her master's degree from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy. Mr. Hamilton was graduated from Princeton University and is now with the Bureau of the Budget.

Switzer—McGrew

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence P. Switzer of Weston, W. Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn, to John J. McGrew of Mahanoy Plane, Pa.

Miss Switzer, a graduate of the Catholic University School of Nursing, Providence Hospital Division, is now employed at the Providence Hospital clinic.

Her fiance attended Bloomsburg State Teachers College and Temple University and he is now with the staff of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The wedding is to take place in July at St. Peter's Church.

Mrs. Quteen Berry, president of the Bradbury Heights Garden Club, was a guest at a tea given Tuesday by Lady Berendsen, wife of the New Zealand Ambassador. Other members of the garden club also attended.

Nebraska Alumni To Hear Gen. Pick

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, new Chief of the Army Engineer Corps, will discuss "Operation Snowbound" when the University of Nebraska Alumni Club meets at 7 p. m. April 23 at the Alban Towers for its Charter Day dinner.

The general, who supervised the Army's emergency program in the snowbound Northwest United States last winter, will also speak of his experiences during construction of the Ledo Road in Burma during the war.

MARKET MEMO . . .

ROSY-HUED ham for Easter dinner will cost you slightly less than for several years past, but the difference won't be great. Compared with 1948 prices, hams are only a cent or two less a pound in most stores. The difference is a few cents more compared with 1947. Bacon, however, is selling for about 20 cents less a pound now than it was at Eastertime, 1947. The reason hams haven't kept pace with bacon is a matter of larger demand and limited supply, dealers say.

LAMB is so scarce and high-priced this year that it's practically out of the running as far as Easter meats are concerned. Frying chickens are plentiful, though, and prices cheaper than last year.

WHITE EGGS are higher, anticipating the demand of all of us for nice eggs to dye for Easter celebrating. Brown eggs (more plentiful in this area, anyway) remain the same in price as last weekend. Lots of white eggs were shipped here from the West especially for the Easter season.

VEGETABLES: Fine, big asparagus from California is arriving in quantity and the price has dropped a third at wholesale. Green beans and limas are a good buy, prices on both having fallen lately. Carrots, though slightly higher, are another wise selection. Tomatoes are reasonable for the time of year, lettuce a little cheaper this weekend. Corn, coming from Florida, is expensive and not high in quality.

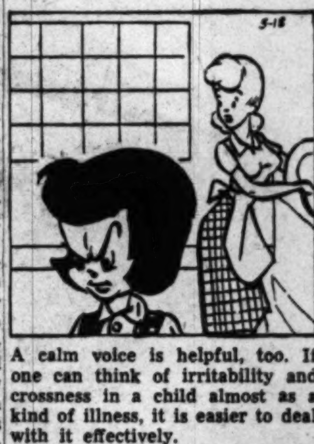
FRUITS: Prices on Florida oranges have risen, though they're still much cheaper comparatively than the California fruit. Good quality grapefruit is arriving from Florida but it, too, is slightly higher. Strawberries from Louisiana are in the luxury class but add a bright note to the spring scene.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

It's too bad that at the very time there is the greatest need for a calm, cool attitude, most of us parents become irritated and upset. To be sure, we all know that the best way to respond to an irritable, cross child is with calmness. But somehow or other crossness breeds crossness. Fatigued children are so often cross and their crossness seems so unreasonable that we can't help but get upset ourselves.

Though these reactions are understandable, it is important to keep in mind that they only pour fuel on the fire. It is helpful to work out a definite way of reacting to crossness in children and to try to follow it no matter how we may be feeling. One approach that has seemed to work well is to use a cool, damp wash cloth to bathe the cross youngster's face.



A calm voice is helpful, too. If one can think of irritability and crossness in a child almost as a kind of illness, it is easier to deal with it effectively.

(large or small as preferred.) Let them harden in refrigerator before dipping in chocolate.

For dipping, use semisweet chocolate and melt it over hot water. Let it cool, then stir well before dipping eggs, held between two forks, into the melted chocolate. Place eggs on wax paper to harden.

To decorate eggs, use an uncooked frosting made by beating an egg white stiff and adding enough 4-X (confectioner's) sugar to make a thick mixture. Test by drawing a line with a knife through the frosting. If the line holds, it is thick enough to use in decorating.

Divide frosting into three parts, tinting one pink and one green and leaving the other white. Using pastry tube, decorate large eggs with roses (using rose tip in set) and green leaves (using leaf tip). Write the name of the person for whom it is intended, using the round point in the decorating set and the white frosting.

Here's Mrs. Gummer's recipe for Spring Blossom Cocktail:

SPRING BLOSSOM COCKTAIL

1 glass mint jelly (12-ounce)
1 glass water
1 can grapefruit juice (1 quart 14 ounces)
Gingerale
Lemon slice
Cherry

Place jelly and water in sauce pan and heat over low fire until jelly melts. Strain, if necessary. Chill and mix with grapefruit juice. Keep in refrigerator until ready to serve. Add gingerale at last minute. Garnish each glass with a thin slice of lemon and a cherry, or with a scoop of mint sherbet, just before serving.

The recipe for the Student's Easter dessert follows:

EASTER DESSERT

1 package flavored gelatin (lime, cherry or any desired flavor)
1½ cup hot water
4 tablespoons sugar
1 can evaported milk
½ cup pineapple juice (or any fruit juice)
½ cup chopped nuts, if desired
1 cup crushed pineapple, or other fruit

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, add sugar and fruit juice, and chill. Meanwhile, chill and whip canned milk in top of double boiler with ice in bottom part. When gelatin mixture begins to thicken, fold it into the whipped milk. Fold in fruit and nuts. Pile lightly in sherbet glasses. Set in refrigerator. Just before serving, make nest of coconut on top of each dessert and put several colored jelly beans in center.

Household Suggestions . . .

Try rolling out the hamburg steak to a desired thickness with a rolling pin and then cutting into individual cakes with a cookie cutter. The cakes will all be the same size and patting them out by hand will be avoided.

If you have unfortunately served an article of food to a guest whose diet is restricted, just remark you are sorry and then forget about it. The guest on a restricted diet will always find enough to eat with the other things served her and she will feel far more comfortable if no attention is paid to her noneating.

• • • •

After frying any sputtery food wipe off the stove with an old newspaper. It will not only make the stove clean and polish better, but will do away with any odor of cooking that would linger around the spattered grease.

Palladium Tones in Men's Fashions

Originally shown in neckwear, jewelry, shirts, braces, belts and socks, palladium is a cool frosty gray shade, modern and masculine, which draws its inspiration from the rare metal palladium.

The new color appears again in the sheen of the bindings on the brims of the new Colony hats. The Colony is an easier, more casual interpretation of the traditional Homburg. Its brim rolls more softly than the Homburg and it imparts an easier line.

Why Don't You Postpone Middle Age?

By Ida Jean Kain

The best years of a woman's life are the 26 years between 30 and 40. Far-fetched? Not at all. Actually the 16 extra years which have been added to the life span can be inserted into the prime of life. Of course not entirely between 30 and 40, but the nicest promise is that the additional years are not to be thought of as being added to age, but rather as being added to the best years—that is, the years of highest capacity for work or for the enjoyment of life can be held for an extended period of time.

If you are middle aged right now, you're lucky, because you still have a chance to extend this period. And middle age can cover a goodly number of years—roughly the period between 40 and 70.

To extend the prime of life, take advantage of the science of nutrition. Science has proved that food can exert a profound influence upon vitality as well as longevity. There is now an abundance of evidence that many afflictions formerly attributed to old age are in reality due to malnutrition—which in our country is largely due to poor eating habits.

Ageing is not only the element of time in living . . . it also involves wear and tear. When the tissues of the body are kept in good repair, they remain in good working order years longer. In other words, nutrition controls physiological age. An abundance of the foods which furnish the repair and regulating materials can keep the body young until old age sets in at 70. And living on a high nutrition level, it's young old age that sets in at 70. Real old age begins at 95!

What are the foods that can work such miracles? They are called the protective foods because they protect against the minor ailments that detract from a feeling of well being. Actually they comprise the 7 basic essentials for good nutrition. They are the foods which furnish tissue-building protein and body-regulating minerals and vitamins—milk, eggs, green and yellow vegetables, fresh fruits, including one citrus fruit daily, whole-grain bread and cereals, and lean meat.

Physiological age is also greatly influenced by body weight, which should not be more than 10 per cent above or below the weight that is considered normal for individual height and build. It is now known that excess fat imposes a burden on the vital organs. Whether we stay young or grow old depends largely on the condition of the vital organs. Working under strain, they grow old faster.

From the letters that come across this desk it appears that weight has an enormous influence on mental age too. Women who have succeeded in taking off a considerable number of excess pounds, on a protective diet, all write that they think younger, feel younger . . . and look years younger.

Could They Be the Bow Bell?

British Embassy Visitor Couldn't Stop the Music Or the Bells in Her Head

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THE cheeriest gadget around Washington is Mrs. Millard Tydings' spring "economy" hat. It's a white baku straw sailor worn tipped forward. The other day it was banded in black ribbon, sported a real gardenia as sole decor. Mrs. T. has a variety of colored ribbon bands, can snitch a flower anywhere—it's a useful idea.

Secretary Charles Brannan's new agricultural plan—which will guarantee a percentage of the national income to farmers—is nicknamed "The Agrarian Pyramid Club."

New approach to buying a ticket for last Saturday's House and Embassy tour for the benefit of the Home for the Incurables, was the lady's who sought out the British Embassy hoping to discover the name of the latest edition of the mystery tune radio quiz program. She barged right up to one of the committeewomen (who happened to be the wife of a State Department official) and, mistaking her for an Englishwoman, asked belligerently "What's the name of the tune which starts with those bells ringing?" The committeewoman didn't know and the strange lady moved off frowning angrily.

'Old Homestead' Changes Hands

MRS. ROGER LAPHAM, wife of the former Mayor of San Francisco, and present head of ECA in China, tarried briefly in Washington en route to Shanghai. Before leaving for their first trip Chinawards, Roger Lapham had a curious, sentimental problem to resolve. His ultimate decision was not at all pleasing to his wife! He sold the birthplace of his daughter's youngest child—to a second-hand car dealer. You see the granddaughter was born on the back seat of the family barouche with, incidentally, Mrs. Lapham in flustered attendance. Irrepressible Mrs. Lapham felt the car should have been kept in the family, preserved indefinitely, even if it had to be placed under glass.

'Neely' Vanderbilt Is Off Again

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, who kissed goodby to Fifth ave. a decade or more ago, blew into Washington with his fifth (or could it be sixth?) wife very much in tow. Master Vanderbilt is off on an extensive European tour for his syndicate, the North American Newspaper Alliance. He'll travel through goodness knows how many countries in a new edition of his famous trailer, alternating rapportage with snapping colored photographs. Neely, who's lost weight, is fairly bursting with affection for his pocket Venus.

Was 'The Elbe Oath' Taken in Vain

ON APRIL 25, 1945, two momentous events occurred: The birth of the United Nations in San Francisco and the meeting, on the Elbe River bank, of six American soldiers with the Soviet's First Ukrainian army. Joseph P. Polowsky, one of the six Americans, has launched a campaign to have this fourth anniversary commemorated throughout the United Nations with appropriate ceremonies. Polowsky describes the meeting of East and West, which ended in "The Oath of the Elbe": On the evening of April 22, retreating Germans blew up a span in the sole remaining Elbe Bridge. Half an hour afterward, a civilian wagon of some 200 old men, women and children, fleeing westward, were stopped by the gap and encamped nearby for the night. From a distance, the advancing Russians, seeing lights flicker near the bridgehead, believed enemy units were preparing a stand, trained their guns on the target, bombarded the area with grim thoroughness. Two days later the American patrol reached the Elbe's west bank, prepared to cross. The sole vessel available was an ancient wooden boat, which they hauled upstream, allowing it to sweep down with the current, landing on a jutting section of the destroyed bridge.

The American-Russian greetings were exchanged at the bridgehead, amidst the corpses of 200 refugees. After the first flush of enthusiasm, the soldiers of the two great nations looked down at the mass of twisted bodies, especially that of a child with blue eyes and long brown hair, still clutching crayons in one fist, a doll in the other.

At this historic moment, says Polowsky, all soldiers present, American and Russian, "swore to do everything in their power to prevent such things from ever happening in the world again, and that the nations of the world would and must live at peace." Polowsky ends with a plea: "I, therefore, call upon the nations of the world for a new birth of conciliation and friendship, that the oath sworn on that hallowed blood-soaked historic ground shall not have been taken in vain."

Amen!

"BRAN-ANA" MUFFINS

Quick-easy recipe for combining the moist goodness of bananas with nut-sweet Kellogg's All-Bran. Delicious!

- ¼ cup shortening
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 cup mashed, fully-ripe bananas
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt

1. Blend shortening and sugar until creamy; add egg and beat well.
2. Add All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Stir in bananas.
3. Sift flour with baking powder, soda and salt; add to first mixture stirring only until combined.
4. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in preheated moderately hot oven (400°F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Yield: 12 muffins—2¼" in diameter.

About Calorie Counts

What is the calorie count of the following: a frankfurter plus a frankfurter roll and a sliced egg sandwich on rye toast? Does toasting the bread reduce the calories? H. C.

There are about 200 calories in a frankfurter on a roll without butter.

The calories in a rye toast sandwich break down like this: 2 slices rye bread, 150 calories; 1 whole egg, 70 calories; 1 tablespoon butter, 100 calories. This makes a total of 320 calories for the sandwich. If one tablespoon of mayonnaise is used in addition, add 100 calories. Toasting the bread has no effect on the caloric value.

I have a mahogany tier table that has quite a few marks on it from water and scratches from flower pots. Could you tell me how to refinish it? H.

Remove all the present finish by using a good commercial varnish remover. Follow the directions which come with the product you buy. When the finish is gone, go over the piece with a cloth moistened with turpentine to thoroughly clean. Now, sand any rough spots, until the piece is satin smooth. Apply a good mahogany stain, let dry thoroughly and then apply in mixture of half shellac and half alcohol. Apply several coats of this, allow to dry thoroughly and rub down with fine steel wool or sandpaper. Finish by applying a well rubbed wax coating.

The water-mixed paint is peeling off the ceiling and walls of our dinette, adjoining kitchen. I wish to remove all of the old paint before applying a new coat, but find use of wire brush and scraping with putty knife very tedious and unsatisfactory. Can you suggest a quicker and easier method? Also, the probable cause of the peeling? F. M. S.

This type of paint should come off fairly readily by brushing with hot water to which ammonia or washing soda has been added. Apply the hot water and allow time for it to soak in before expending much energy in brushing. Even with this method, removing paint is not an easy job, but if you wish to have a new coat which does not peel, it is necessary to remove all of the old peeling paint first.

When the water-mixed paint peels it is probably because too many coats have been applied to the surface without removing the old coats or possibly because the paint was not thin enough when applied. Sometimes when one wishes to get the paint to cover better, there is a temptation to leave it thicker than the cream-like consistency suggested by the manufacturer, but this does not pay.

My baby's rubber pants become black within a week's time. It looks like plain dirt but soap and water will not remove it. This happens to both the rubber and plastic ones. Could you tell me what I might safely use to get out this dirt or whatever it is? B. T.

Place the pants on a flat surface, dust them with a mild scratchless kitchen cleansing powder and scrub them with a brush. This should dislodge any soil on them. Then wash them in a mild soapy water. Rinse thoroughly.

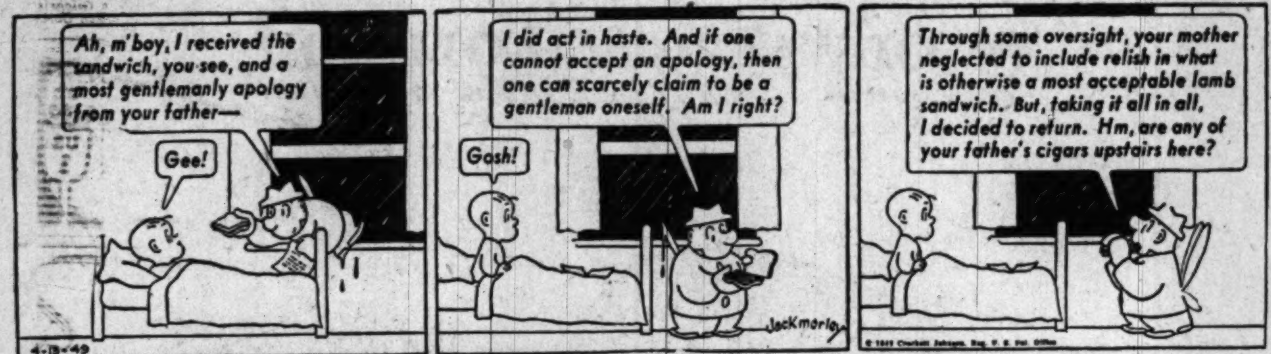
BARNABY



Ah, m'boy, I received the sandwich, you see, and a most gentlemanly apology from your father—
Gee!
I did act in haste. And if one cannot accept an apology, then one can scarcely claim to be a gentleman oneself. Am I right?
Gosh!
Through some oversight, your mother neglected to include relish in what is otherwise a most acceptable lamb sandwich. But, taking it all in all, I decided to return. Hm, are any of your father's cigars upstairs here?

On the Town

Like smacking a golf ball a lovely 250 yards down the fairway, making pretty music with a piano-accordion looks to be an easy thing to do.

Humphrey

In testimony to this, people approach Paul Humphrey, squeeze-box artist at the Cafe Caprice (Roger Smith Hotel), night after night and assert—"Betcha I can play that thing." People who know perfectly well they could not drive a golf ball across the street.

At such times the smiling Humphrey, who recognizes an occupational hazard when he sees one, simply explains that it's not as easy as it looks. This may involve a short dissertation, or a lengthy one. Either way, it's fine with Paul. Part of the business.

Humphrey, who is typical of most Cafe Caprice performers in that he has played abroad as well as Stateside, is a typical in his piano-accordion ability. For he's also a pianist of ability, which is where most of the popular room's entertainers draw the line.

These twin skills have made him a favorite with the social set, we're told, at Southampton, L. I., at New York's Le Poissonnier, and at some of the swankier spots in Paris. Coupled with his readiness to fill request numbers, they're doing right well by him at the Cafe Caprice.

As gifts go, Col. Kurt Schiffeler, manager of the Raleigh Hotel and Pall Mall Room host, received an unusual one the other day from famed tenor Lauritz Melchior—a pair of zebra skins.

Seems the singer, newly arrived from Africa, had promised to bring something back with him to decorate the Melchior suite at the Raleigh. Like a nice, thick zebra rug, maybe.

Colonel Schiffeler says they're so beautiful he'll probably store them away. When Melchior comes to town, he'll haul them out, spread them on the floor, and the tenor can think of darkest Africa as he wades through them.

NIGHTERY NOTES . . . The Casino Royal's new show opened last night featuring tap artist Jackie Harvey, comedy ballroom dancers King and Evelyn, and Bob and Joann Marco, hand-to-hand balancers . . . Over at Michel's, music lovers and professional musicians are always well represented in the audience—a tribute to Michel's violin and that unusual gypsy aggregation . . . Water Gate Inn, which is having a bit of difficulty seating everyone these days, and is breaking records in doing it, will be seating guests outside one of these days. The terrace and veranda will be opened for luncheon and dinner soon.

At the Capitol

Ma and Pa Kettle Win Another

By Orval Hopkins

"MA AND PA KETTLE," which is at the Capitol this week, is the type of "situation" comedy that Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery used to do years ago, and let me assure you this is intended as no slur on Miss Dressler. It's just that everything was younger then—you, I and the now dusty formula on which this is built. There's also the fact that Marjorie Main, who plays Ma Kettle, is no Marie Dressler and the further one that the sly, underplayed, droll type of humor in which Percy Kilbride excels in entirely unsuited to this kind of ear-shattering farce.

I didn't get an honest laugh out of the thing. My employers, however, expect me to report something besides my own sour reactions, and I'll have to record, therefore, that a good crowd at the Capitol yesterday seemed to be enjoying "Ma and Pa Kettle" considerably.

The story is about a lovable couple with 15 children living in relative squalor someplace. Pa writes a jingle, wins a new, gadget-ized house, and the fun begins, or that's what Universal-International had in mind. Circumstances arise which would seem about to deprive them of their prize. Other circumstances arise to save it, and that's the story. A young-love line runs concurrently with this and is quite inoffensive. In fact, Richard Long, who plays the young man, is earnest and composed about it all. He's probably the coming bobby-sox idol.

MARJORIE MAIN
"Ma" Kettle

The humor in this film runs to items like a sign reading "Beware of the Childurn," with the "n" lettered in backwards, Pa Kettle shutting himself up in a disappearing bed, and Ma blasting people's hats off with a large piece of kitchen artillery. Incongruities abound. There is built-in television and there is the exploding Model T Ford, vintage about 1921. A couple of men dressed as Indians are introduced in order, I guess, to enrich this wholesome fare. Nobody seemed very funny, and I know it's just my unpleasant attitude on things. Feel free to try it yourself.

The stage show is begun by Max and His Gang, a dog troupe. The dogs are clever and excellently trained. Max opens his act with a sort of capering dance that he can dispense with for all of me. The Winters Sisters are three pretty girls who do extremely strenuous dances. They surely must sleep well o' nights. Gangler's Animals features some appealing dogs, a pony and a beautiful bear. The Lang Troupe seems to be a family group which does some impossible acrobatics. Sam Jack Kaufman has rigged himself a circus routine to preamble the stage show. Sam has a glorious time with it.

As I say, you could enjoy the whole bill.

"MA AND PA KETTLE." Universal-International release produced by Leonard Goldstein. Screen play by A. Nonymous. Directed by Charles Lamont. Music by Frank Skinner. Photographed by Maury Gertsman. At the Capitol.

One on the Aisle—

'Little Women' Lacks a Hepburn

By Richard L. Coe

THANKS TO A COLLEAGUE'S tip and his prodigious memory, I checked on the writers of RKO's popular version of "Little Women," in which Katharine Hepburn was so charming back in 1933.

I found that two of the three writers who did the script for Metro's new version on the Palace screen also were credited with writing that likable picture of 16 years ago, Sarah Y. Mason and Victor Heerman. Andrew Solt now shares the writing credits with Miss Mason and Heerman.

The reason I go into this is that the new version at the Palace, with June Allyson in Miss Hepburn's old role of Jo, is such fearful treacle. It seems long—indeed, at two hours it is long. Yet the script is virtually the same.

Inevitably, then, "Little Women" now seems false and insincere because of unskilled acting and the introduction of lush Technicolor, complete with a rainbow for the fadeout. Mervyn LeRoy, an expert hand at the musical movies, has replaced George Cukor as director.

It might be argued that one is unfortunately older than he was 16 years ago or that perhaps a citizen of 1949 may consider the reticent manners of the 1860s more antiquated than he did in 1933. But checking the reviews of Miss Hepburn's film, you find the same reservation, that perhaps this will not "appeal to the hey-hey modernes." No, it's not the period or the "quaint" manners of a more leisurely day that bore one in Metro's "Little Women"; it's the handling.

The Technicolor, however admirable it certainly is here technically, has the effect of varnishing everybody and everything within an inch of heaven. The resulting effect is that of impressing Hollywood's rather charming notion that Cleanliness comes ahead of Godliness on a period which, plumbingless, behaved otherwise.

Teeth gleam in perfect regularity, eyes glisten, Murine-filled, flesh glows with funeral parlor falsity, the feminine form insinuates its divinity through garments cunningly adapted to present trends, and Hair Stylist Guilaroff's hawk eye permits no loose or unlaquered strands.

And so through this we see Miss Alcott's Marches—Marmee, whose husband is down South fighting the war and whose four daughters, Jo, Amy, Meg and Beth, approach maturity and look with favor on the boy next door, rich Laurie, and his tutor, the handsome Brooks. Jo's efforts at writing, her attempt to learn of life in New York, the inspiration a German professor gives her and her eventual triumph in writing affectingly of the dead Beth are the frame of the story.

But June Allyson is no Katy Hepburn, knowing of the Hepburn mannerisms though she may be. Elizabeth Taylor comes closest to simplicity as Amy and Janet Leigh lards the '49 treatment on Meg, who finally captures Laurie, Peter Lawford. Margaret O'Brien stares her way through the role of little Beth. Lucille Watson does the Edna May Oliver role and Mary Astor replaces Spring Byington as Marmee.

COME SUN, rain, sleet, heat or snow, vows Vee Pee Leonard Schloss, Glen Echo Park will open its thirty-ninth season Saturday afternoon at 1 . . . New to the park this year is Kiddieland, a field of five miniature rides for youngsters not over 12

LARRY SUNBROOK is also vowing . . . Larry, whose Texas Rodeo and Thrill Circus opens an eight-day stay in the National Guard Armory Sunday, says he'll present a cash prize of $1000 to any nonprofessional rider capable of giving Big Syd, his wild Brahma bull, a qualified ride . . . The pros—cowgirls and cowboys—will be competing for their own cash prizes in various Western competitions during the run . . . Seats are on sale downtown at Liggett's, 13th and F, and Lubar's, 13th and G.

EGG-HUNTING, with cash prizes hidden in some of the 3000, is a yearly Easter Monday event jointly sponsored at Magruder Park, Hyattsville, by Impresario Sidney Lust and the Prince Georges County Kiwanis Club . . . The show goes on at 10 a. m., with an entertainment program, pie-eating contests for the small fry and kid-calling contests for their mothers.

AND AT KEITH'S—A Technicolored, eye-filling Western is the feature on 15th st., where Ann Blyth and Howard Duff star in "Red Canyon." Adapted from Zane Grey's story, "Wildfire," this also features George Brent, Jane Darwell and Edgar Buchanan in the open spaces and vivid canyons of the Far West. Duff plays the renegade son of an outlaw family, Ann a tomboy of the horselands. Yes, Duff is the chap radio listeners associate with Detective Sam Spade

And We Intended to Be So Considerate

Now that the newspaper strike is over, here's a little sidelight on one of its unpublicized effects.

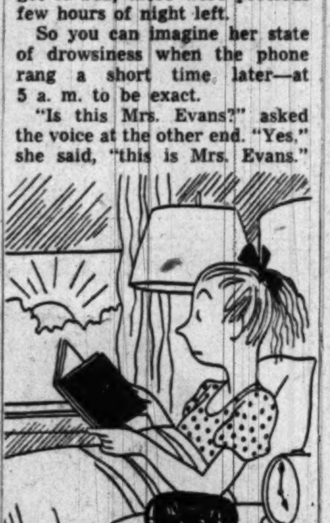
Margaret Evans of 3201 Commonwealth ave., Alexandria, Va., had trouble falling asleep on the first night of the walkout. So she tried the time-honored practice of "reading herself to sleep."

The only trouble with trying to read yourself to sleep is that it takes so long. Invariably you pick up something that's so interesting you don't put it down until you have finished it—and by that time the milkmen are making their rounds.

That's precisely what happened to Mrs. Evans. By the time she got to bed, there were precious few hours of night left.

So you can imagine her state of drowsiness when the phone rang a short time later—at 5 a. m. to be exact.

"Is this Mrs. Evans?" asked the voice at the other end. "Yes," she said, "this is Mrs. Evans."



"Good," said the voice. "This is Mr. Ross at The Washington Post. There's a strike on, and the paper will not be published this morning."

"Yes, I heard it on the radio," acknowledged Mrs. Evans. "It's too bad."

"Yes," agreed the voice at the other end, "and I called to tell you that you needn't wake Tommy to pick up his papers, because there won't be any papers."

It wasn't until then that Mrs. Evans awakened sufficiently to realize that there was something rotten in Denmark. "Which Mrs. Evans do you want?" she inquired. "My Tommy is 4 years old, and he's a bit young to be delivering papers."

There was silence from the other end, then a couple of embarrassed gulps, and a profuse apology. Mrs. Evans confides that her first impulse was to tell our man to cancel her subscription, as of 5:01 a. m. But on second thought, she says:

"I forgive you. The man was just trying to be considerate of some lad who would be out looking for nonexistent papers that morning. But why did it have to happen on that night of all nights?"

BY THE WAY

It's going to take a couple of days to find space for the items that turned up during the period when no newspapers were being published. But with a little patience, we'll get 'em all in.

THE KID'S WRITE, TOO

Barbara Bennett of 312 Cumberland ave., Chevy Chase, Md., got an assist with her homework the other night from her 9-year-old brother.

The English teacher at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School wanted six reasons for Freedom of the Press. As Barbara chewed her pencil in thought, the kid brother scrawled:

"The Bill of Writes."

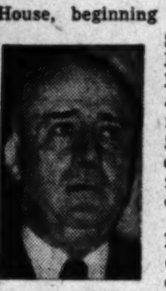
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Strategy Behind Easter Recess

By Drew Pearson

Despite talk about the boys "needing a rest," real story behind the 10-day Easter recess of the House, beginning today, is that Speaker Sam Rayburn and Majority Leader John McCormack are sending their charges home for a "refresher" course.



RAYBURN

Rayburn and McCormack are chiefly concerned over another GOP-Dixie coalition against repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, and they think some elbow-rubbing with the folks at home is the best preventive. The strategy applies to Republicans from industrial districts as well as Democrats.

Meantime, local AFL and CIO leaders are planning to give the returning politicos a stiff workout during the 10-day "vacation."

Rayburn and McCormack are keenly aware that the Taft-Hartley vote will be a crucial test they can't affard to lose, if they are to keep Northern city Democrats in line on other Administration measures. Ever since the GOP-Dixie coalition against rent control, there has been talk of a Northern "revolt," or a coalition-in-reverse, in which Northern Democrats would gang up with Republicans to block Southern farm bills.

Rumbles of Revolt

At a dinner meeting with North and South freshmen Democrats last week, Rayburn and McCormack heard increasing rumbles of "retaliation against Southern coalitionists. This wasn't all cloakroom whispers. Quite a number of big-city Democrats, who believe in carrying out Truman campaign promises, have spoken out openly.

Among them are freshmen Democrats Anthony Tauriello of Buffalo, N. Y., and Earl Wagner of Cincinnati, who angrily told McCormack the time had come to "stop appeasing and start hitting back" at Southern opponents of the Fair Deal program.

"I've had enough," bluntly asserted Tauriello. "I was elected on the Truman program, and I believe in the whole program. I'm tired of seeing the program delayed and undermined by members of my own party. A lot of us think it's time to start retaliating."

At the dinner, Rayburn and McCormack made strong pleas for harmony. Since then the grumbling has somewhat subsided.

GOP Hope

Oregon's bushy-browed Senator Wayne Morse, considered a black sheep by Old Guard Republicans, nevertheless has a strong though secret following in Congress.

This group not only takes its political cues from Morse, but is quietly boosting him for the Vice Presidency in 1952. He is the only Republican, they feel, who can take votes away from the Democrats in their greatest stronghold —labor.

Leaders of the Morse movement include such Congressmen as John Phillips of California, H. R. Gross of Iowa and James Golden of Kentucky—all progressive Republicans. Morse, himself, didn't learn of their support until he was invited to talk off-the-record the other day before a gathering of about 20 Republican Congressmen.

With characteristic bluntness, Morse tore into the ills of the Republican Party.

"This coalition with the Southern Democrats is costly," he thundered. "We are now labeled the antihuman rights party."

The Oregon Senator went on to denounce his party's leadership.

"I speak only of the Senate," he declared, "but in the Senate, we have a few who hold policy meetings. The rest of us read about it next morning in the papers and are called together at 10 o'clock to confirm it."

He accused GOP leaders in Congress of playing turtle during the last election.

"It wasn't Dewey's job to defend the Eightieth Congress," said Morse.

"It was up to our top leaders in Congress. A lot of them suffered political laryngitis."

As for the GOP stand on labor, Morse snorted: "We've got an antilabor label on our party, and we'll keep it until we liberalize the Taft-Hartley law.

"Why," he added, "the payment of $7500 for drafting the Taft-Hartley law is a subject of discussion in every local union in America."
